Mark's Remarks:

People should never tell me I can't do something. It usually doesn't stop me, and it often leads me down a path I might not otherwise follow. I spent a bit of time thinking about this as Labor Day weekend approached and I found myself knowing while all of you would be at a pig roast or some other event, I would be standing next to my new press running off thousands of copies of QUEST.

We started Quest over six months ago to fill the need for a way to get information about the bars out to the public at a price even smaller bars could afford. Being a bar owner myself, I am keenly aware how important (and expensive) bar promotion can be.

We knew Quest would be a small and specialized bar publication, and that it would be an uphill battle for a while. We expected some people would be enthused to see the new publication and others would have little or no opinion. I never expected our printer, Ripon Community Printers, to react the way they did, however.

After nearly five months of printing Quest for us (and a very high quality job in fact), management decided some of the material in Quest did not meet their standards of decency. They asked me to find another printer! They were objecting to pictures of male dancers and 900 number advertisements. The irony is that they have printed and continue to print materials that are of the same manner for others, but they are not "Gay related". They never objected to all the female impersonators who have adorned our covers, but, then, perhaps, they didn't know they were boys.

Well, off I went angry and fired up looking for another printer. This is not an easy task. Either the price is too high or the printer wants a week or more to do the printing. After searching in vain for a while I decided perhaps I need to buy a press instead. At least no one will be able to tell me even after I have the checkbook open and the check written, there really isn't freedom of the press. (I felt I was in Russia or something!)

So here I am with a printing press that I am just learning how to operate via the kind assistance from a local print shop owner who understood my predicament and was willing to help out. Of course it takes time to sell ads, put the publication together and then print it, so now I also had to face another reality - quit my day job!

So at long last my friends, I find myself at Laborday weekend sitting by the press convinced that I can find happiness owning a bar and a bar publication while working fewer hours on my own schedule. (I guess we'll have to wait and see) At least I can sip my wine while I watch over the press... so stop by and say hi - it's Za's "Chablis-n-Print!"

BESTD THANKS H.I.T!

In mid-August, Holiday Invitational Tournament director Cindy Olseske presented a $1,000 check to BESTD treasurer Erv Uecker, thus making H.I.T. one of the first major sponsors of "Musicians United Against AIDS".

Featuring guest violinist Ralph Evans, the 'Musicians' symphony concert will be held Mon., Sept. 26, at the Pabst Theatre in downtown Milwaukee.

All proceeds from the premier event will benefit the clinic, a great contribution of support and encouragement within our community. Corporate and foundation grants, etc. for BESTD are common, BESTD president Ross Walker notes.

"We are profoundly grateful to H.I.T.!", says Walker. "This major event will guarantee BESTD service to the les/bi/gay community for years to come, and help substantially to defray costs of our restoration/renovation program at our facility at 1240 E. Brady St."

This Ad Space Compliments Of QUEST

NIGHTLIFE

This is a new feature we added to Quest and replaces the Directory. Our hope is this listing will be a big help in selecting places you'd like to try out that you haven't been to before. Wisconsin Gay bars are a wealth of diversity. We hope you will discover which ones are just right for you. We will later be adding Gay owned or "Gay Friendly" businesses as well as the service organizations listed in our old directory. This list is not completed. It would help us achieve greater accuracy if our readers & bar owners could provide information to bars that don't have descriptions. Send to Quest, Box 1961, Green Bay, WI 54301 something. It usually doesn't stop me, and it often leads me down a path I might not otherwise follow. I spent a bit of time thinking about this as Labor Day weekend approached and I found myself knowing while all of you would be at a pig roast or some other event, I would be standing next to my new press running off thousands of copies of QUEST.

DANCE CLUBS

We started Quest over six months ago to fill the need for a way to get information about the bars out to the public at a price even smaller bars could afford. Being a bar owner myself, I am keenly aware how important (and expensive) bar promotion can be.

We knew Quest would be a small and specialized bar publication, and that it would be an uphill battle for a while. We expected some people would be enthused to see the new publication and others would have little or no opinion. I never expected our printer, Ripon Community Printers, to react the way they did, however.

After nearly five months of printing Quest for us (and a very high quality job in fact), management decided some of the material in Quest did not meet their standards of decency. They asked me to find another printer! They were objecting to pictures of male dancers and 900 number advertisements. The irony is that they have printed and continue to print materials that are of the same manner for others, but they are not "Gay related".

They never objected to all the female impersonators who have adorned our covers, but, then, perhaps, they didn't know they were boys.

Well, off I went angry and fired up looking for another printer. This is not an easy task. Either the price is too high or the printer wants a week or more to do the printing. After searching in vain for a while I decided perhaps I need to buy a press instead. At least no one will be able to tell me even after I have the checkbook open and the check written, there really isn't freedom of the press. (I felt I was in Russia or something!)

So here I am with a printing press that I am just learning how to operate via the kind assistance from a local print shop owner who understood my predicament and was willing to help out. Of course it takes time to sell ads, put the publication together and then print it, so now I also had to face another reality - quit my day job!

So at long last my friends, I find myself at Labor day weekend sitting by the press convinced that I can find happiness owning a bar
