Andy was featured on our very first issue of Quest, and he and I both thought it only fitting to have him appear on the first anniversary issue as well. (If we keep this up someone will want to pay me not to put Andy on the cover, say when he turns 40!)

With this issue of Quest we are now into our second year. Some will notice there are more articles in this issue. I want to thank the editors of Positive Voice Newsletter for their efforts in this regard.

WINTER WORKSHOP PLANS FINALIZED

People & politics probed at February 11 presentation

Personal and politically-motivated homophobia, same-sex domestic violence and strategies for developing healthier gay/lesbian interpersonal relationships will be explored during "A Day of Self-Exploration II," Positive Voice's second annual day-long winter workshop, convening Sat., Feb. 11, at the Midway Hotel, Green Bay.

Speakers include Dr. Patricia Robertson, Assistant Professor of Counselor Education at the UW-Oshkosh; Kevin Baird, Region I Rep. to Action Wisconsin, the statewide Congress for Human rights; Kathryn Roe and Patricia Jagodinsky, co-founders of Sisters Against Violence Against Sisters (SAVAS); and Judith Hodel, Psychotherapist and Relationships Counselor at Edward Johnson and Associates, Green Bay.

The conference will begin at 8:30 a.m. with a continental breakfast. Following a welcoming address by Positive Voice President Dennis Krenn, Dr. Robertson will examine the concepts of both internalized and externalized homophobia. After a rereshment break, Kevin Baird will offer insights on the current political climate and the concurrent rise in the politically-motivated homophobia of the so-called "Religious Right." The conference will then recess for a luncheon served by the Midway Hotel staff.

The two afternoon sessions will focus on highly personal issues. Kathryn Roe and Patricia Jagodinsky will present their nationally-recognized same-sex domestic violence lecture, which explores the motivations and recurring patterns of same-sex partner abuse and outlines strategies for recognizing and potentially resolving such violence. Judith Hodel will conclude the day's sessions with an uplifting presentation on ways everyone can build healthy and lasting relationships. The workshop will conclude with an opportunity to evaluate the day's proceedings and final remarks by President Krenn.

Fees for the conference, including all meals and snacks; $20 (PV member) $25 (non-member) will apply through the final registration date.

For more information or to register for the conference, write Positive Voice, P. O. Box 1381, Green Bay, WI 54305 or call (414) 499-5533.

COMING OUT AT WORK?

Positive Voice meeting to deal with gay issues on the job

Several recently published national studies have shown that gay people who are open about their sexuality in a supportive work environment are more productive, experience greater job satisfaction, and have better attendance records. Being "out" or coming out in the workplace is one of several issues to be discussed at the February general membership meeting of Positive Voice on Monday, February 20, beginning at 6:30 PM in the lower level meeting rooms of the Brown County Public Library in downtown Green Bay.

Featured speaker will be Dr. Gerald Wellens, an openly-gay clinical psychologist at Marriage and Family Therapy Center in Green Bay.

All area gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender people in northeastern Wisconsin are invited to attend. Refreshments will be served.

SIT-N-SPIN

Wonderful! Another issue of QUEST and yet another chance for me to climb onto my soap-box and bitch about the current state of dance music!

Today's topic - Great Dance Music with music videos that really suck! In the 'quest' by the record companies to have their dance music played on radio, the newest trick is to put out several versions of a record. The difference this time is the radio version is very slow, and the "good" dance version is much faster. Even Madonna got into the act releasing "Secret" as a slow dance ballad, fortunately Rockamerica reworked this one using the fast dance version.

If the record companies feel they must disguise the dance music to trick radio jocks into playing it, fine, but don't forget the rest of us.

In the past three months, at least four songs have been released on music video, each using the slow version of the song. The latest, "Mama Said" by Carleen Anderson. Since it took so long to get this video in the first place, why didn't they use the very successful K-Klass Remix?

I would say to the record companies: "There is life out there other than MTV & VH1! If you can afford to re-mix your music with faster versions aimed for the dance floor, remember to also create a video version for the dance video bars. We can't just speed the thing up, whereas, in the studio, you can! Be warned, dance clubs are already polarized on whether or not to use music video or stay with vinyl. There already is a lack of good dance video, and the latest practice of using the radio version, which is too slow, now makes the argument to forget about video even stronger!" I know video works, and it infuriates me when I have to bypass a great video because the audio portion is not the best version available.

The February Rockamerica Dance Reel is chock full of familiar favorites from the past as the trend to either re-release, re-work or do a cover of dance hits of the 70's and early 80's picks up steam — Blondie's "Atomic" is re-released with a Rockamerica Remix. Gloria Estefan has done a dance version of "Everlasting Love," Thelma Houston has been totally re-worked on this release of her classic "Don't Leave Me this Way" and Newton does a great new version of "Sky High!" Each is a must see!

There are also a couple of songs that were slow to come to video. Livin Joy's "Dreamer" has been out for a while. I loved this song and the video is even better. Techno influences the video features non-stop quick edits of the lead singer in first one hairdoo, then another — the doos and outfits are nothing new; we've seen the same in dance videos from the early 80s, but the technical quality is much better!

The other cut slow to be released is Messiah's "I Feel Love." This is also a 70's cover version, this time a Donna Summer classic, but very techno. The video reminds me of a bad night at The Mental Health Center. Imagine long hallways with fluorescent lights, but the walls are a hideous glossy lipstick pink! And all these women crawling around on their knees!

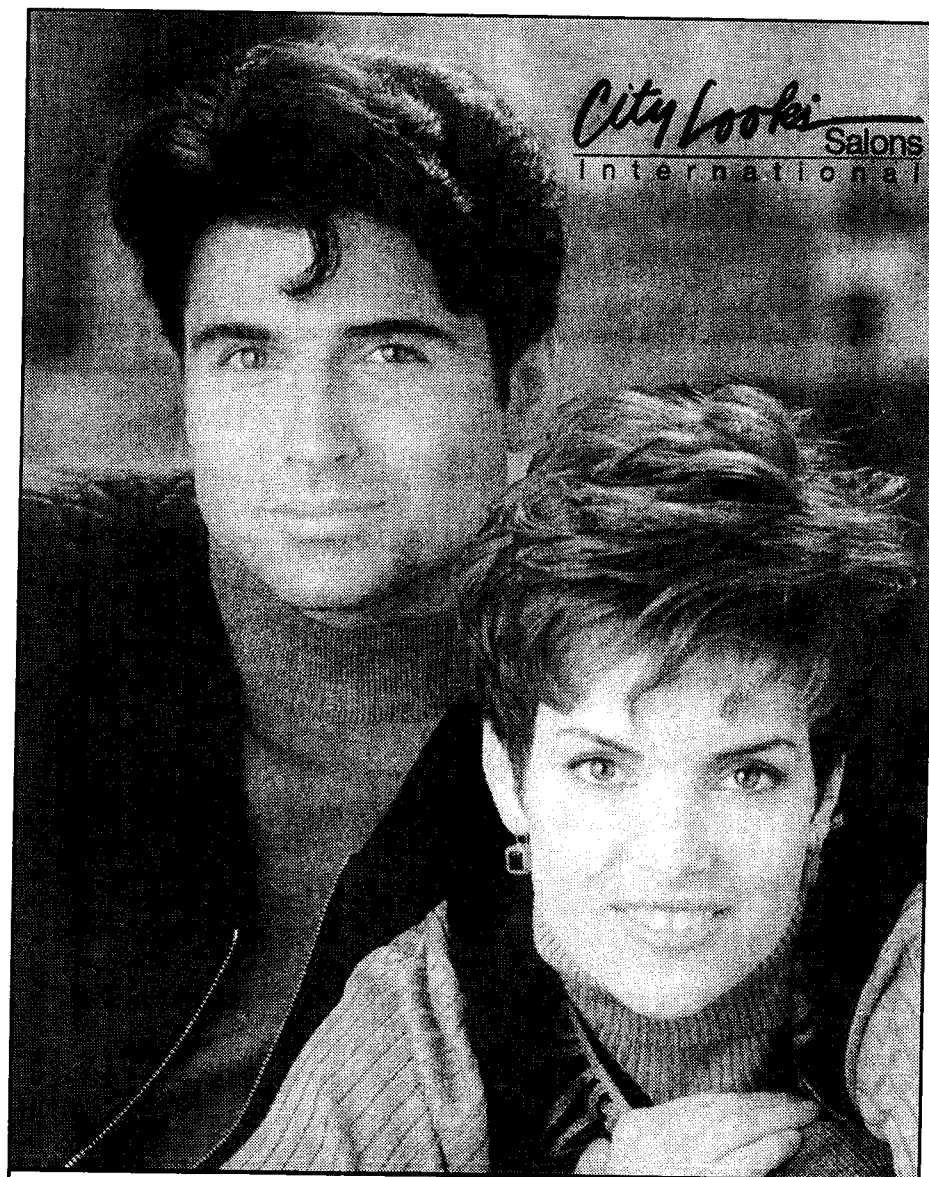

Moby has released his "Everything You Touch Me" on video. This might be his most mainstream dance effort to date. If you liked Moby in the earlier Techno days, you will love him now, too. If you thought it was too off the wall before, give him a listen now-you'll love it!

It's been a good December and January for new music, and February is no exception. If you were planning on staying home the rest of the winter, forget it! It's time to dance!

CENTER PROJECTS "HAVE A HEART" DINNER IS FEB. 18

"Vanna White's autographed hand drawn heart will be one of the highlights of our silent auction at this year's Have a Heart Dinner," said
Jean Buschke, Executive Director of Center
Project in Green Bay. The 4th annual Have a Heart Fundraising Dinner is set for Sat., Feb. 18,
at St. Norbert College in DePere.

Besides Vanna's artwork, the silent auction will include an autographed photograph of Nolan Ryan, original artwork from the Wisconsin Artists for AIDS Calendar and much more. According to Buschke, "Each year the committee adds more to the dinner to make it even more special than the year before. The variety of auction items this year should spark lots of interest!"

This year's entertainment line-up features the nationally known C.C. Rae (aka Green Bay's own Randy Bouche) who will be performing portions of his 1995 show for the first time in Green Bay. Jeff Jennings, the vocally talented
Mr. Gay Wisconsin-USA, and Zoomie, Green Bay's popular Contemporary, Swing and Country diva, will round out the after dinner show.

Tickets remain at $35 per person; individual tables of eight at $240 (corporate tables also available). Applicable phone numbers: (414) 437-7400 in Green Bay, and (800) 675-9400 for out-of-town folks.

It's a Center Project benefit, obviously!

CENTER PROJECT EXEC. DIREC- TOR TO JOIN CAMP HEARTLAND

Jean Buschke, executive director of Center
Project, Inc., based in Green Bay, will join Camp Heartland Project, Milwaukee, as its executive director on April 3.

"Jean has played an integral part in the ongoing development of Center Project as a valuable community resource," said Mary Ellen Marietta, president of Center Project's board of directors.
"She will be a great asset to Camp Heartland Project in managing its rapid growth."

Center Project is a private, non-profit AIDS service organization serving nine northeastern Wisconsin counties. At Center Project Buschke supervises a professional staff of eighteen. She coordinates all development activities along with agency community relations and public policy activities.

"I am leaving Center Project feeling secure in a committed board of directors and talented staff to meet client needs," said Buschke. "I look forward to watching Center Project continue to move forward in providing an essential service to people in the Green Bay area."

An American Red Cross certified HIV/AIDS instructor, she has a B.S. degree in Social Welfare with special emphasis in volunteer administration, and brings eighteen years of service organization experience to her new post at Camp Heartland Project.

Neil Willenson, Camp Heartland Project's founder, comments, "We are growing rapidly.
With Jean at the helm, I know the growth will be controlled and we will stay on track with our mission serving children affected by AIDS."

The long term goal of Camp Heartland Project is to purchase a camp facility for use as a year-round retreat and education center. The population served will include not only children infected with HIV/AIDS, but also their families and AIDS orphans.

Miss Buschke's replacement at Center Project is a big question mark as of press time.
