THE BITCH IS BACK! MABEL KANE RETURNS

Mabel Kane makes a rare return to the stage in a benefit for Madison AIDS Support Network on Fri., Feb. 16, at 8 p.m. in a show called Coming Out of Hiding.

The inimitable, chubby drag queen has been out of circulation for nearly seven years. With just one public appearance since 1989, she felt it was time make a come-back -- for a good cause. As OUT! put it before the One woMan Show at the Madison Civic Center, the folks of Madison will "have the opportunity to feast their eyes on an infamous phenomenon."

Tickets for the show are $5 in advance and $7 at the door. Available by phone at (608) 241-8633 or by visiting the regular ticket outlets at The Barrymore Theatre, The Exclusive Co., Magic Mill, Star Liquor or Green Earth.

"It's been a long time, and all of my clothes are out of fashion," said Ms. Kane. "I'm just thankful that rhinestones never go out of style."

The Wisconsin State Journal called Mabel Kane "...a gaudily dressed drag queen with a whole lot of stage presence" with "a natural instinct to schmalztz it up." And The Capital Times said "Mabel King is a darling!"

Mabel Kane toured to clubs and cabarets in Chicago, Milwaukee, South Bend, Madison and the Fox Valley in the 1980s with her friends, Rosa Rivera and Sass DuBois.

"It was time to bring her back and have some fun," said Darrell George, who created the character of Mabel Kane in 1981. "Your biggest mistake in life is taking yourself too seriously. I'm not doing this to be pretty, I'm doing it to entertain."

TIRED OF THE "ILL WIND" WINTER BRINGS? FIND & BOOK A DREAM VACATION ALL BY YOURSELF - ON THE INTERNET!

Planning that dream get-a-way yourself can be a tricky thing for the novice, and that is why there are plenty of helpful travel agencies out there. For some however, making your own arrangements are as much a part of the fun as the vacation is. If you own a computer and are using a service that provides Internet Access (this includes providers such as AOL, Compuserve and others) we have some travel web sites that will help make your job a whole lot easier and perhaps save you a little money too. Here then are a few of the better sites:

Anton Guide [<http://ocsi.com/anton>]

An international gay travel resource. New feature includes web links to weather information to help avert tropical storms or other nasties. There are links to gay travel related newsgroups, info for HIV+ travelers plus some virtual getaway brochures from around the world.

Rancho Mirage [<http://www.gay-travel.com>]

Links to just about all the packages: RSVP, Olivia, Atlantis, Men on Vacation etc. A section with hot specials, great deals on tours and flights and travel articles concerning queer-friendly locales across the globe.

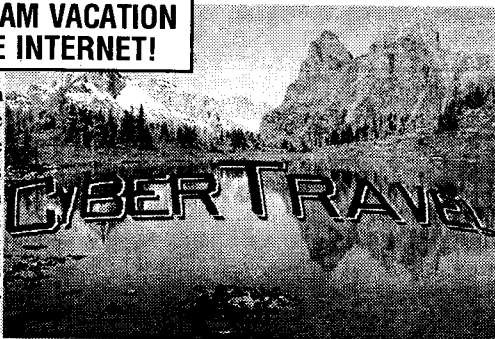

Gay Travel Network [<http://www.gaytravel.com>]

Similar to Rancho Mirage. Features a travel agent offering info on P-town and Key West establishments and is especially helpful for trips to Montreal, Cuba and Thailand.

Gay & Lesbian Travel Web [http://www.cts.com/~drcarr/gay_travel]

Again similar to Rancho Mirage, but includes lots of stuff from the party circuit calendar. Eventually they plan to include destinations to every continent. Also some political information such as international gay rights activism.

Well off you go to book your flight and hotel reservations. Don't forget to pack your Danrom Guides and Quest's address. I expect you'll send me a postcard so I can be really envious!

EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW WITH AMERICA'S TOTALLY OUT GAY COMIC, JASON STUART

"It'll be a first for northeastern Wisconsin and a giant step forward for the gay community," says Quest publisher Mark Mariucci as he alluded to the Jan. 17-21 engagement of actor/comic Jason Stuart at Green Bay's new Funny Bone Comedy Club, just off highway 41 (Ashwaubenon Plaza) at 2801 So. Oneida St. (One show Wed. & Thurs. and two each nite Fri. & Sat.)

Stuart, who plays a co-starring role in "GAY TV: THE MOVIE," scheduled for release in theatres across America this summer, will be performing in Wisconsin for the first time. He plays the role of Mar, the fabulous producer, in the movie about a brother and sister starting the first gay cable network.

While shooting the film in Dallas, Jason performed at the Texas State Fair for National Coming Out Day and shared the stage with Candace Gingrich and Chastity Bono. And if that's not enough, he flew to St. Louis to headline Gay Pride and received a standing ovation.

How did he get the part? "Well, I read about the proposed movie as I was flying to Vegas to headline at Harrahs. I faxed the producer, 'I can't believe you're doing the story without me!' Several days later they called, and the rest will be summer time entertainment.

Jason's recent appearance on "Comedy Central's Out There in Hollywood" was one of the highest rated specials for the network and garnered good reviews all over the country. Matt Roush of USA Today says, "A standout sardonic comic named Jason Stuart, who's especially adept at deflating homophobic fears about gays recruiting for their ranks 'What's the selling point? We have no rights and everyone hates us. Please come along, join us!' He's just joking, sorta."

Stuart isn't the first performer to come out of the closet and announce that he's gay. He's only one of the more recent. But even though the heavy weather of persecution for sexual orientation has lifted somewhat in the 90's, his restless anxiety, his eagerness to please mixed with a wariness of being ridiculed, his sense of fun and his sense of fear, all point to the experience of being gay as a full-time vigil.

There's still the potential for culture clash that can erupt in a sudden glare. There's the tough double jeopardy of maintaining one's irreducible identity in a heterosexual world while living in a performer's skin, where self-esteem is treacherously vulnerable to the approval of others.

"I perceive myself differently than other people perceive me," Stuart says. "When I was a kid, everyone thought I was jovial, funny. But I was one of those suicidal kids who went to sleep wishing I wouldn't wake up. It's very, very tiring, being in the closet. It makes you feel bad about yourself. When I don't see myself represented in movies or TV, it makes me feel there's no place for me in this world."

Stuart, 36, has been making his place since 1993, when he first decided to tell all to an audience at Houston's Laff Stop, then to the nation on "Geraldo." Later, he did his act on Broadway for the Gay Games, in "OUTrageous Comedy" with Sandra Bernhard.

As an actor, he has done a number of TV spots within the past year or so, on such shows

as "Sequest," "The John Larroquette Show" and "Murder, She Wrote."

"It's been two-and-a-half years since I did 'Geraldo'," Stuart muses. "The show was called 'Unconventional Comedians.' But what comedian is conventional? What are comedians but people who complain and get paid for it? I think this has made me a better person. And it may help some other kid who's thinking of killing himself. I'm not just out for me, I'm out for everyone."

EDITORS NOTE: Booking Jason Stuart is somewhat of a test for The FunnyBone in Green Bay. Management hopes for a great turnout, and if they get it, you can be sure they will bring in more entertainment targeted to the Les-Bi-Gay community.

FROM THE DESK OF CHINEQUA

Chiniqua Says: Advice for the Adverse
 From my Smith-Coronna to your eyes, Happy New Year

Dear Chinny Go Girl:

Another year has gone by with Christmas at the parents. The hardest part of going home is balancing being out with the need to protect my gay sister who is still in the closet. What should I do about her. I mean how hard can it be to follow a path I already laid for coming out. My parents shouldn't have a problem with her being a lesbian. Should I out her? Push her a little or leave her in the dark closet?

Sincerely Knockin in Knoxville.

Dear Knockin:

Oh darling, I'm recovering from my confusion, I thought your sister was a boy. Silly child, confusing a girl like that. But don't you fret, Chinny's advice is certified gender transferrable. As far as the poor lost sole goes, leaving her in a dark closet seems a bit tough to do (Unless your parents stock it with a good vodka). Maybe a nudge in the right direction will be helpful. Gift giving time next year may be your best bet. Try a simple set of Rosie the Riveter tools. Always a favorite with the Chicks. There is also the membership to Martina's fan club, or the KD Lang CD set. But be careful, if she is not ready to tell your parents of her vagitarian status, it could be messy. (The sceen, not the vagitarianism.) I just hope your intentions are in the right place, and your not trying to pass the black sheep status on to your sis. Now I know you would never do such a thing, but I had to ask. Anyway remember the path we all take to coming out is private and tough, just cause you were ready to risk the coaster ride doesnt mean she is. Just be there for her if and when she needs ya.

Love the Chinny Girl

Dear Cheinqua,

It hapened on the flight to my parents, a holiday treat. I fell in love with the most gorgeous flight attendant I ever did see. He's based in Chicago, & a lot of fun. We spent the whole night together laughing & well laughing. Problem is I live in Greensboro. But I think we can work that out. Any hints for me? Falling in Flight

Dear Falling:

Whatever. Love and sky-ferry rarely fall in the same sentence of a wise girl. (Oh-oh Chinequa is back flying the friendly skies in disguise after this.) Where do you think the phrase air mattress came from? Well this girl will give you a hint it was not from the crew of flight attendants taken from the mones-tary. (Then again maybe it was.) Remember being light in the loafers does help with turbulence, but also tends to carry those girls legs out to the clubs and up in the...anyway, if you insist on the attempt I'll give you some advice. First off, check that this girls company extends flight privileges to domestic partners. A good insentive is always helpful. Then check that girls library, if he has a copy of Chinequa's second best seller "Keepin a Man at Every Port" watch out. That was some of my best advice, but not what you want a potential (Continues)
