PARDON OUR DUST

ESCAPE is currently moving into our new production facilities with Love Letters Inc., and if you notice some major changes (No Calender of Daily Events, NO PERSONALS — sorry folks) but don't worry . . . it's only for this issue.

We've done the best we could under the circumstances and we owe Gay Life, Chicago, tons of gratitude for use of their production facilities while our new equipment is being installed.

We'll be back to normal size with some pleasant new changes, on the 26th

808 E. CENTER

Legally Speaking By Ron Ehemann

On February 25, 1982, Governor Lee Dryfus put his name on Assembly Bill 70, and gay civil rights became a reality.

The "Gay Civil Rights Bill", which was effective the day after Dryfus signed it, added the words "sexual orientation" to previously existing law prohibiting racial and other forms of discrimination. Among those areas where discrimination against gay men and women is now prohibited are: housing, employment (both public and private), accomodations and administrative rules.

"It is the intent of this section to promote fair and friendly relations among all the people in this state, and to that end, race, creed, sexual orientation or color ought not to be made tests in the matter of the right of any person to sell, lease, occupy or use real estate or to earn a livelihood or enjoy the equal use of public accommodation and facilities."

With the enactment of this law Wisconsin becomes the first state in the union with anti-gay discrimation protection. Though Michigan, California and Pennsylvania have Executive Orders banning discrimination against gay people, those Orders apply only to executive branch governmental employment. No state has even approached the magnitude of Wisconsin's protections... think about what the new law says....

"The denial by some employers, licensing agencies and labor unions of employment opportunities to such persons soley because of their age, race, creed, color, sex . . . sexual orientation . . . and discrimination against them in employment, tends to deprive the victims of the earnings which are necessary to maintain a just and decent standard of living, thereby committing grave injury to them."

That all men are created equal . . .

As a freshman law student I remember walking into a gay community center one day and seeing a poster of the Bill of Rights on the wall. Across the poster, in bold red letters, someone had printed "NOT VALID WHERE PROHIBITED BY LAW".

As an attorney I came to realize that the poster was true. If not directly, at least indirectly. For while no laws may directly prohibit your freedoms, without protections to guarantee those freedoms you have nothing. The Wisconsin Gay Civil Rights Law protects your freedoms!

Historically second only to criminal prosecution, employment discrimination has been the greatest threat to gay people. Millions have been incarcerated in closets or inhibited in their enjoyment of life for fear of economic reprisal. The new law prohibits discrimination against gay people in the "hiring, upgrading, demotion or transfer; recruitment or recruitment advertising; layoff or termination; rates of pay or other forms of compensation; and selection for training." It provides those protections for all employment, both private and public.

No longer will the threat of exposure threaten your job, whether you're a computer operator at the bank or a cop for the city. What's even more unbelievable, given recent campaigns by the likes of Anita and California Senator John Briggs, teachers are protected.

Of concern to my profession? Well, law students, medical interns, all licensed professionals. . . . you needn't fear your board of examiners anymore.

Every contract with the State of Wisconsin, whether for goods or services, must contain a clause whereby the contractor guarantees that it will not discriminate... even if that contractor is from another state!

"Contracting agencies of the state shall include in all contracts executed by them a provision obligating the contractor not to discriminate against any employee or applicant for employment because of age, race, religion . . . sexual orientation . . ."

In areas of housing, whether you're selling, buying, renting from or renting to... in the public or private housing market. . . no more discrimation. In fact, when you fill out those applications which ask for your marital status, financial or business status, no questions may be asked about your race, color, physical condition or sexual orientation.

The law as it applies to housing and employment is fairly straight forward in application. . . public accomodations, National Guard and public agencies leave some doubt.

While those areas seem clear to me as an attorney, my gay mentality tends to doubt what the State says.

As an attorney, the law is clear. No discrimination in hotels or restaurants, amusement parks or bars. . . . public accomodations are free from discrimination. That would seem to mean that my lover and I can check into one hotel room with no questions asked, order and receive the reduced price "Sweetheart Special" at our favorite restaurant and dance together on the floor of any disco we choose, whether gay or non-gay. My gay awareness tells me that kind of change won't come easy. ... better count on a lot of resistance and plenty of lawsuits.

The National Guard clause is misleading. The new law clearly indicates that "notwithstanding any rule or regulation prescribed by the federal government" membership in the Guard will not be denied to anyone on the basis of sexual orientation. Unfortunately, though the National Guard controlled by the State, it exists as a member subservient to the federal military system. . . . it belongs to the Army. And the Army, like the Air Force after Matlovich, has adopted a regulation which discriminates against homosexuals. Federal law takes precedent over state, and Wisconsin can't do much about it. In my opinion, the law does nothing for us here.

Wisconsin's new Gay Civil Rights Law is probably most incredible when one considers the implications of the government agency prohibitions. The law clearly states that no state agency may promaulgate any rules or regulations which discriminate or tend to discriminate against gay people. Though it's hard to believe, this apparently could mean that the Department of Health and Social Services cannot refuse to license a gay foster parent.

about any controversial law. . . . particularly one which might not be completely understood by the public in general. First, you don't change people's attitudes by legislation, and second, many test cases and much judicial determination is necessary to discover exactly what is and isn't permissable under the law. Just because it says so doesn't make it real.

Actually, there is a third thing to remember about the law. Prior to its existance, we couldn't file those test cases nor invoke judicial interpretation at all.

Where the hell have you been all my life?

I could fill this magazine with a discussion about what the Gay Civil Rights Law does and doesn't mean. That's important knowledge to be sure. But equally important is the knowledge of where this law came from and how it got where it is.

Even in Chicago we've heard the backwash arguments of who's taking credit for who's actions. There have been other Bills introduced both to quarantee freedoms and to decriminalize "Sodomy". The present law came from an Assembly Bill (AB 70) introduced by Rep. David Clarenbach of Madison. All our supporters of the past must be recognized. If not for their efforts over the years, many of those "yes" votes we've received might not have occured. With each reading of a Bill, with each sentence of testimony, one more legislator may be influenced, one more vote gained.

As Chief Sponsor of the Bill from which the present law was born, Clarenbach was joined by four other Representatives, Becker (a former Catholic Priest); Leopold (a former POW); Ulichny (a woman); and, Coggs (a Black woman). All four are from Milwaukee.

The Assembly Bill was originally introduced in 1974 and has been subsequently introduced to four sessions of the legislature. Current success can be credited to a number of things.

Several credible organizations lent their support, among which were: The Committee for Fundamental Judeo-Christian Human Rights, America Bar Association, American Psychiatric Association, American Medical Asso., of Social Workers, From business we received the support of ATT, IBM, Bank of America, McDonald's Corp., Honeywell, American Airlines and Citicorp to name a few.

It was perhaps the religious community's support which helped the most. Across Wisconsin, religious leaders stood up for civil rights, including the Archdiocese of Milwaukee, American Lutheran Church, United Methodist and American Baptist Church groups, the Episcopal Diocese of Milwaukee....a complete list of organizations, businesses and church groups follows this column.

We must also credit our own community. As the Assembly Bill hit the Senate floor, Sen. Opitz (Port Wash.) attempted to defeat it with a motion of non-concurrence. Opitz asked for a roll call vote, a move designed to force the senators to place their names next to their votes. In the subsequent vote to amend the Bill to delete provisons requiring affirmative action and to eventually concur, the vote was taken by voice.

no individual names were called.

Once passed, the amended Bill returned to the Assembly where it was pushed ahead of 140 other Bills and the amendment was approved.

Those who would oppose us were mortified. Christian radio programs began broadcasting the Governor's phone number. . . . call and register your complaints! By late in the afternoon on Friday, 235 calls against his signing and only 20 in favor were logged by the Governor's staff.

The gay community went into gear, word spread and throughout Monday and Tuesday, phone lines were jammed. The rest is history. On Thursday at 1 p.m. Governor Dreyfus issued a prepared statement and put his pen to the Legislation.

I think it particularly important to review each victory for its weaknesses. While Wisconsin's gay community won, the margin was slim. The Assembly vote was 50-46 and in the Senate 19-13. Many state residents were not aware of the Bill and many more won't understand its implications for some time. We should expect backlash. . . . we should prepare for it.

Organizations and individuals need to send letters of thanks to each yes vote and supporter.

Wisconsin can be proud of its lead in the gay civil rights movement, but at the same time must acknowledge its responsibility to the rest of the nation. By taking the initiative, the eyes of gay America are upon this State. Wisconsin has given hope to citizens in 49 other states. And, if you believe Wisconsin isn't being watched. . . , think again.

Think Pieces By Jon-Henri Damski

We are about to be awakened from our post-Vietnam slumber by a disturbing crash.

El Salvador may well be our new international alarm clock.

The world is dividing and taking sides again; the global civil war continues. The war we left in Vietnam did not end in Vietnam. The two great superpowers have shifted their grids, and the same old ugly war reappears in Afghanistan, Poland, and El Salvador.

In Vietnam, we went in like deer hunters and came home like mutants, who had seen or experienced one too many close encounters with the apocalyptic edge.

No one got out of Vietnam the

After Vietnam, morality, in the real world, is no longer a struggle between good and bad; it is reduced to a choice, as our smartest diplomats say, between bad and evil. Sanity is choosing the less bad. And there is no distinction between doing right and doing bad, or doing what is heroic and doing evil.

After Vietnam, no one, except a supersquare, would try to get news directly from the news. We know now that the function of all established news is to disinform.

To be informed in this surreal world, you have to turn to music or fiction. Reality is no longer an easy handout; you have to look for it where it doesn't first appear. To understand El Salvador and what we are doing there, you should, perhaps, consult that three-volume work by the Clash called "Sandinista," or read Robert Stone's A Flag for Sunrise.

After Vietnam, all former opposites turn out to be the same, and old opponents turn out to be the same kind of people. To want peace makes you a militant. To want war makes you a militant.

The old divisions break down: East vs. West, capitalism vs. communism, the "Free World" vs. "the liberated world" make less and less sense. There are no definite sides left: The "we" vs. "them" mentality arises from a deluded ego. "They" have a government of remote old men, and "we" have a government of remote old men. In their war rooms, people are shifted like robots on their video grids; and in our war or "defense" rooms, the same people are shifted on our video screens—again, like robots.

We play El Salvador as though it were a rented videotape. We have the situation, but no grip on the situation; we have the program into which we are fitted like robots, but no sense of timing or history.

Why did we dump them 160 years ago? On Nov. 22, 1822, when Mexico was trying to dominate them, the Salvadoran Congress formally declared the country a state of the United States in an Act of Annexation. Our Congress, however, being as near-sighted then as now, denied their request.

Now, when they don't really love us anymore, we declare them our "chief concern": We are coming to join them, force the marriage, make them a part of our Union—or else.

To be an Ivan or GI Joe, a guerrilla or a Salvadoran soldier, in this kind of world is to be a robot. If you can choose sides in this kind of civil war, if you can compute an answer in this mess, then you are not human but a robot.

If, however, neither side compels you, or if you can't find a bottom line anywhere, or if nothing fits or comes together, then you are a misfit.

Homosexuals are probably the classic misfits of the Western World. By quirk or nature or fate, homosexuals are born with a congenital lucky break. We don't fit into any political camp. All politics is straight camp for us. That's why we can't be robots except in camp personas.

We are everywhere, too universal to take sides. As the Nazis marched into Paris, Jean Genet was obviously on the side of the Resistance. But he could also sit in his jail cell and masturbate to fantasies of young fascist soldiers.

Homosexuals, like other political misfits, don't want to be red or dead.

Warren Beatty, on $36 million, can afford to be romantic toward John Reed and the Red Revolution. Early in 1917, proletarian workers kissed red soldiers openly in public. Then came Stalin, and the men of steel and iron, and the homosexuals were among the first to be shipped to the death camps.

Stalin, Mao, Castro, Khomeini—all these revolutionaries, as their first official act, cut off the hands and heads of homosexuals and queers. Sometimes, you could argue, homosexuals had it easier under the czars, the emperors, Batista, and the Shah.

So don't ask us to take sides.

In any kind of war, from Sparta on, sissies have made the best soldiers. Homosexuals usually love army life. It is never said, but a war zone is also, in many cases, a perversion-free zone. Homosexuals have been in every war and in every branch, entertaining the troops and feeding the hungry men.

But by our nature and instincts, we would rather make love than war. When we see "our team of advisers" in El Salvador going to the hills and enlisting 14- and 15-year-old boys, giving them guns and helmets that don't fit so they can fight and die like robots, it turns our stomachs. This is real perversion; this is the grossest form of child pornography.

So, if you can't choose the right side in an international game, then don't play the game. Don't become a robot.

Stay with the company of misfits. You may feel some agony and pain in the stomach, you may wish you had a will as narrow and as clear as a militant, or you may be frustrated that none of your answers compute—but those are all vital signs indicating that you are still alive and well, at home defending your individual soul.

Flo's Fruits captured the first annual Factory Invitational Scratch Tournament (F.I.S.T.). The one day bowling tournament was held at Pinky's Bowl on Saturday, March 6. Two teams from Chicago joined 14 teams from Milwaukee to fill the lanes. The tournament was the first scratch (non-handicap) tournament ever held for gays. Chuck and the Factory guaranteed and donated the first place prize money in each event totalling over $1,000. Prizes were $500 for team, $200 for doubles, $150 for singles, and $200 for all events for the first place winners. Total prize fund was over $2,450. Chuck also paid for all tournament expenses, including the trophies and medals given to the top 3 winners in each event.

Blistering the alleys with a 2,561 scratch series, Flo's Fruits easily captured the first place trophy in the team event. The team included Jim Swanson, Floyd Woldt, Larry Colle, Bruce Thompson, and captain Jim Five-of-a-Kind finshed Flora. second place with 2,451, while third place went to Easy Pieces with 2,446. Bowling a 1,089, Bill Shepard and Dennis George won the doubles Floyd Woldt and Bruce event. Thompson came in a close second. with 1,078, while Ken Kurtz and Bill Nackers, bowling a 1,049, took third place. In singles, a Windy City participant, Dick Uyvari, took first place with a 599 while Rick Englehart was right on his tale with a 591. Greg Glomski was third with a 566. Rick Englehart got revenge in the all events by edging out Dick Uyvari, 1,750 to 1,722 to reverse the first place-second place order of the singles. Bruce Thompson finished third with a 1,674.

Saturday evening, the bowlers were treated to a delicious buffet dinner served in the Loading Dock of the Factory. Following dinner, the prize money and awards were presented. In addition, "Coming Together", a slide and sound presentation prepared to promote the H.I.T. '82 bowling tournament, was shown. 10 gay organizations in Milwaukee donated bowling balls for the tournament. They were Ball Game, Beer Garden, Club 219, H.I.T. '82, M & M Club, Paradise Book, Silver Stars, M. C., This Is It, Wreck Room, and Your Place. The balls, were given for special bowling fetes. Winners of these events included Bruce Thompson for high individual series in team event, Tim Turrenne for high individual game in team event, Ken Wenzel for low individual series in team event, and Jim La Feir for low individual game in team event.

In doubles events, bowling ball winners were Bill Shepard for high series, Rich Englehart for high game, Bob Schmidt for high individual game in singles event, and the last ball went to a great "athletic supporter" (Does this make her a "Jock"?), Martha Fingleton for the lowest score in all events.

Thanks to the generosity of "Sponsor Charlie" and the Factory the support of the gay organizations who donated bowling balls, the hard work of the tournament committee, and the endurance of the participating bowlers who bowled 9 games in one day, the tournament was a great success. It was once again proven that Milwaukee is not only a great city to visit, but even a greater city to live in.
