AT HYDRATE IN CHICAGO

IGBO by bringing it back to one of the 1980 founding cities.

IGBO is committed to serving and educating nearly 13,500 members on an international level by promoting Unity, Communication and Fellowship throughout the International gay and lesbian bowling community. In 1997, the IGBO Board of Directory adopted the following Mission statement:

"IGBO, an International gay bowling organization, provides educational services, communication avenues and social opportunities to promote the sport of bowling and to enrich the lives of individuals through leagues and tournaments worldwide."

With the foundation of committee members already in place, we are well on our way to provide a most memorable anniversary tournament to 800—1,000 bowlers from around the world in May, 2005. Many of these committee members have an incredible amount of tournament experience. Without this knowledge and commitment, we would have been hard pressed to receive the support of IGBO's General Membership allowing Milwaukee, Wisconsin to host this historic event.

With the continued support of Milwaukee's gay and lesbian community, the IGBO 2005 Tournament Committee is excited to host this community's most exciting event.

During the next nine months, fund-raisers and special events will be hosted by the IGBO 2005 Tournament Committee. Your continued support is greatly appreciated. Please watch for our adds in Outbound, WI or visit our website at www.igbo25.org for updates on upcoming events.

IGBO 2005 Milwaukee will be in need of numerous volunteers during the Memorial Day Weekend in May, 2005. If you may be available to volunteer during the tournament weekend, or are interested in joining a committee, please contact us at IGBOMILW2005@aol.com.

THE HISTORY OF THE INTERNATIONAL GAY BOWLING ORGANIZATION "IGBO"

The History of the International Gay Bowling Organization, or IGBO as it is known around the globe, is rich and diverse, reflecting the Organization's ideals of Unity, Fellowship and Communication. From its original six member cities in 1980, to over 200 member leagues and tournaments worldwide, IGBO has grown into the largest International Gay and Lesbian sports organization in existence today. The amazing growth of Gay bowling is not surprising, as it is one sport that truly does not discriminate among its participants. Whether young or old, male or female, wheelchair bound or deaf, strong or weak, tall or short, bowling is a sport that virtually any living person can enjoy recreationally or as a member of a league. Gay and Lesbian leagues began emerging in the United States in the 70s, primarily as a social outlet for men and women who wished to fraternize with their "family" members in a non-bar atmosphere. IGBO was created out of a desire to unify all the gay leagues, and open lines of communications between them, as well as promote the sport through league and tournament participation. Over the past 24 years, the organization has dealt with topical issues such as increasing participation by women, memorializing members who have succumbed to AIDS, raising funds for charitable organizations and the ongoing pursuit of increasing membership worldwide.

The Beginning—

The International Gay Bowling Organization, or "IGBO," began as a simple idea in 1980 by league bowlers in North America. The "seed" was laid on August 29th, 1980, when representatives from six cities met in Los Angeles, CA, to participate in a joint bowling/softball tournament hosted by the Inter-City Athletic Union of Los Angeles. The representatives from Houston, Los Angeles, Milwaukee, New York City, San Diego and Toronto agreed that there was a strong need for an organization to help unify a growing gay and lesbian bowling community. At this meeting, the representatives agreed to contact other cities that might be interested in joining, and selected Milwaukee, Wisconsin, as the site for the first Organizational meeting.

The foundation was set.

In Milwaukee, in addition to the original six cities, Atlanta, Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Seattle also attended, bringing the total number of cities present to 11. The first Board of Directors was elected, and preliminary sets of By-Laws were adopted. It was also agreed that Memorial Day weekend would be designated as the time for an annual IGBO bowling tournament. The six original cities all bid for the first ever IGBO Annual Tournament, with Houston, Texas eventually being selected. The tournament would be open to league members of the participating cities, and a format of three games in singles, doubles and five-person team event was adopted.

Milwaukee History—

From 1980 to 1984, the IGBO Mid-Year tournament was held during the Annual Holiday Invitational Tournament in Milwaukee, Wisconsin over each Thanksgiving weekend. During the Annual IGBO Tournament in 1985, IGBO Mid-Year tournaments achieved permanency, allowing potential host cities the opportunity to bid on hosting this tournament.

IGBO hosts two tournaments per year, an Annual and Mid-Year Tournament. Although Milwaukee has been host to five Mid-Year Tournaments, the Annual Tournament had never been held in Milwaukee.

In May, 2003, 22 individuals traveled to Phoenix, Arizona to promote Milwaukee, Wisconsin and bid to host IGBO's 25th Anniversary tournament. Due to the perseverance and dedication of these individuals, Milwaukee was chosen over New Orleans to host the 2005 Annual tournament at the General Membership Meeting.

This will be the first Annual Tournament ever held in Milwaukee!! A very fitting way to celebrate the 25th Anniversary of

Cruisin' Carl — Military Days, Special Training Division

By Cruisin' Carl

An overwhelming popular demand dictated that I bring you some more about my days in the Military. This one is about how I got myself into trouble and consequently with the STD (that's Special Training Division in the Military).

Next in line for chow, I saw a big beefy guy serving up the collard greens that we all loved so much. No, most of the guys did not really like collard greens but I do, even though I was not raised a Southern boy. As he was plopping the greens onto my plate I was eyeing the flopping in his form-fitting-but-not-so-tight shorts. Well, due to my lack of attention of what was happening in the here and now, I wavered just as the greens would have landed on my plate. I say would have, because they did not. They landed on the floor and for the third time for the month and I think the stud was starting to catch on to what was going with the dumb founded look I seemed to have each time it happened.

"Hey Shithead, that's the last time you do that in my mess hall." The mess hall sergeant walked over, took my plate and then said, "You'll have to go without chow this time and clean up that shit off the floor, then report to STD. DO YOU HEAR ME, SHITHEAD?"

"Yes Sir!"

I new I was in trouble now. You don't get sent to STD for being the Sergeant's pet and everyone that I ever knew that had been there came back with a whole new attitude and walked like they had been through the mill—walking like they had "blessed" with a new ass hole.

Dear Ruthie

Dear Ruthie,

I have a major problem. I've been with my man for like 2 years, and we live together and things is ayright. But my whole life, I've had this thing for guys with lots 'n lots of blonde hair. I mean, I'm always thinking about players with blonde hair—from head to toe.

Ruthie, my guy doesn't have any blonde hair. He's ayright, but no blonde hair. Actually, he don't have hardly no chest hair at all. Instead of being with the hairy man of my dreams, my man is smooth.

I was with a guy years ago who was blonde and all, but we only kicked it once in awhile, and even then, he was no real blonde, you know? Now, I'm with my man, but he ain't got those gold locks I dream about.

I got a guy that wants to kick it with me, and he's blonde and all, but I'm not so sure. This guy is the bomb, he's got a hot blonde chest and all. Should I just do it with this guy and get over the blonde thing?

If I kick it with him, I figure I'll get over my fetish and back on track with my man.

Should I or shouldn't I do it with the blonde guy?

(signed)

Daddy Pimp

Dear Mr. Pimp,

I had to edit your letter a bit, so please don't be offended if it doesn't read in the manner in which you intended it to. I did my very best, I swear!

As far as the fetish-thing goes, I gotta admit that I have a fetish, too. It's not for men with blonde hair, though. I have a fetish for possibly the hottest men in the world ... copy-machine repairmen.

I don't know what it is, but there is something about them that drives wild. Maybe it's the white short-sleeve shirt, or maybe it's the hand-me-down necktie. Perhaps I'm attracted to the toner-stained fingernails or the black briefcase filled with tools of the Xerox trade ... I don't know. Whatever it is, however, I'm completely hooked.

This all started in the 1970s. When George Lucas brought his special-effects nerds into the makeup room at 20th Century Fox, I was temporarily transferred to the studio's payroll department. (Do you have ANY idea how much Gene Hackman gets per picture?!) Anyway, that's where I met the man of my dreams—well, okay—one of the men of my dreams.

His very name echoed in my ear like cooing pigeons, welcoming a new dawn. His name was that of a familiar whisper, winding its way around my soul, calling me home to an ecstasy-laden Xanadu. His name was Lester.

Lester came into the office one day to install a new Xerox machine, and, for me, it was love at first sight.

He wasn't the sort of man that usually caught my eye, in fact, he was a skinny, little guy who was a cross between Don Knotts and Horshack from "Welcome Back Kotter." After taking just one look at him, however, I nearly flooded out the crotch of my new L' Eggs panty hose.

The problem was that I was already dating a guy—Vinnie. Overweight, foul-mouthed Vinnie would soon be one of my ex-husbands, but Lester was man enough to make me want to put those plans on hold for awhile.

Should I cheat on Vinnie? Was Lester really the right man for me? I didn't know, but I felt like I had to meet Lester and investigate my yearnings for copy-machine repairmen. (And what woman doesn't have those yearnings?)

Thanks to a nail file, Super Glue and a few handfuls of sand from the ashtray in front of the elevator, I was able to break the Xerox machine regularly, making Lester a near-permanent fixture in the payroll department.

Whenever Lester arrived, I got so hot that I had to keep from touching myself ... something I usually did at home in front of a Mark Spitz poster.

Lester pretty much ignored my advances, but with a bottle of tequila, tickets to an All-Star Wrestling event and a Xerox copy of my boobs, I finally got Lester to go out with me.

Well, let me tell you, no matter how nasty Vinnie might have been, he was a prince compared to Lester. Lester was far from the Gremlin-driving knight in shining armor that I imagined him to be.

Lester's idea of taking me out for a roast beef dinner meant dining inside of the Arby's as opposed to using the drive-thru.

And no matter what cologne I bought Lester, he always smelled like a combination of copy machine toner, V8 juice and feet. (Charming, 'eh?)

After a few weeks of dating, Lester admitted that he had a part-time job, dressing up like Nancy Sinatra and performing in a tribute band. Needless to say, the relationship was going down in flames faster than then Hindenburg.

Worst of all, Vinnie found out I was two-timing him and nearly had Lester AND me sized for cement boots. I dumped Lester, and Vinnie and I were married shortly afterward.

Sure, Vinnie and I didn't last forever, but he was by far a better catch than Lester was. So you see, giving into temptation isn't always the best way to go. I don't think that cheating on your guy because you're tempted by another man is going to help you "get over the blonde thing." (If every married man in this world left his brunette wife for a blonde, I'd invest my life savings in L'Oreal stock.)

Sure, I still dream about the copy-repairman of my dreams, perhaps Fabio in sensible shoes, but I move on and appreciate whatever life hands me.

There will always be men that turn your head—always; but obviously, there's something about your guy that kept you around for 2 years. Focus on what he has, not what he doesn't have.

So, okay, you've got a thing for hairy blondes and you're not with one. Get over it! Move on and cherish the man you actually have.

Contact Ruthie at www.dearruthie.com. See Ruthie in the title role of "Auntie Mame," Oct. 22 & 23, a benefit for RSVP Productions. Call 414-327-3552 for tickets. Ruthie will also perform at 5:00 pm on Sept. 12 at Pump (722 N. Milwaukee St.) and at the M&M Club on Sept. 26.

XXX Video Review LITTLE BIG LEAGUE (Rascal Video)

Many of us have this sexual fantasy of having sex with a military man. Some of us enter the military, while others let the military enter them. This video shares nothing in common with the hit reality TV show, "Queer Eye for the Straight Guy," other than the fact that we know the Fab Five appreciates a good man in uniform. We also thought the title is clever. Do you have a queer eye for the GI.?

This one has lots of deep penetration. If you are into GI's, army pig bottoms and uniformed men, this is real hot treat for with lots of military action—will keep you begging for more!

Opening Fall 2004

Sarge had been quiet, not a word since we left his office and he continued to remove his pants. He was putting on a show for me, acting kind of proud of himself for having such a sexy muscular body. After getting the snap and zipper open on his pants, he reached in to grope his huge piece. He looked at me and ran his tongue across his upper front teeth and let his eyes bore into mine, reaching the innermost depths of my soul. Gradually he brought out his torpedo to let it stick out the top of his pants. It reached at least three inches above his navel, glistening in the moonlight, glazed with his essence of man lust.

I was getting so turned on that I began to moan from the strain I felt between my legs. My tool was at its most excited state in my entire life. I was dripping with lust and desire for Sarge to hurry up.

Sarge continued to slowly slide his pants down to his boots. He managed to kick off his boots which seems impossible to me but then his pants were in a pile behind him as he walked up to me. He started licking me from neck to crotch. His hot breath was like the devil's own, penetrating me sexually like he owned my soul.

I felt his wetness and my probe was fully stimulated. Sarge was doing me. His expertise was the best in the world and my own essence was coming to a rolling boil and soon I was spending myself as Sarge took it all.

Spent, I wanted to stop. Sarge had more in store for me since he was still fully charged and armed with a torpedo that needed to find its target. Sarge walked around behind me and put his slab up between my legs and used it to lift me up on my toes. It stuck out in front of me with my own lying directly on top of his. Mine only came about half way to his full length. He reached around and rolled on a condom. Where does he get them that large?

Gradually he pulled back and began knocking at my back door. I eagerly opened and let him in. He plunged and I thought I would split apart. He continued to work it and suddenly started pounding furiously. It felt wonderful and I was about to let go again. Sarge made one more huge lunge and started shuddering. I could feel him pulsing, making me let go with another volley. Wave after wave of pleasure consumed us.

Sarge finally spoke—whispering in my ear. "That's just the start of what I have in store for you, dirt bag. You're not expected back for another 24 hours, Private."

Cheap Talkin' Chi-Chi

By Chi-Chi

Greetings Gossip Mongers!

With Summer winding down, it seems like we got cheated out this year. Hopefully we will have a long Indian Summer to enjoy going into September and October. So let's get to the gossip and the happenings for the month of August.

Birthday shouts go out to the following: Miss Cindy of ICU promotions, the incomparable Miss Candy Stix, the leather boys Jay, Lee and Phil; and Fluid's very own Jared. Also new transplants from the burbs, David, who was seen celebrating at M&M Club. Congratulations for getting another year under your belt as well as any other things that might find themselves there. Quick post script to Jill who celebrated with the boys and girls from Walker's Pint as well.

Miss Baby Jane Hudson will be celebrating her Annual 39th Birthday Bash at M&M Club on Sunday September 19th with the show to start at 9pm. I guess she must count in dog years for her birthday, because she is a little long in the tooth to be 39, again.

Could it be that a certain recently buff boy toy from up-north is enjoying what all the Milwaukee boys can offer. His name is synonymous with a local frozen custard landmark. I guess he's trying out all the flavors. Let me know when you get to 31.

Bartender news to share; the always scintillating Brady is leaving Woody's for a job transfer to Green Bay. I will miss seeing that chiseled torso on Wed. nights. Good luck in Packerland! Not to worry since David, formerly of Pulse, will be at Woody's on Mon. 5-9; Tues. and Fri. 9-close, as well as that import from Russia Roman who always likes to disrobe at a moment's notice. I think Steve will be in good hands.

Speaking of taking clothes off, my new "husband" was doing just that late on a Sunday night. Chicago's loss is our gain with this fine specimen. Rona may be getting his "organ" but he has more from where that came from. I usually do not get very flustered, but he had me blushing like a new bride.

On to some serious news. Milwaukee's very own David "Dame Edna" Howser is going through a personal bout in the hospital. Our thoughts and well wishes are with you. You are a fighter and I know you will be stronger and more outrageous than ever.

It's been brought to my attention that some in our community have been victimized recently. Please be careful out on the street especially if you are alone. At least two instances there are reports of muggings, one in which there was someone shot. Thank god it wasn't life threatening. "We're thinking of you John," so be safe!

My bosses in print were peddling their wares with the rest of the vendors in Chicago recently at Halsted Street Days. They said they got some great pics, but they couldn't bring in the magazines into the cordoned off area. I guess the "FIBS" were not interested in what our own "Laverne and Shirley" had to offer. However, they went around the block and got some shopping bags at the Pink Frog and smuggled the magazines in inside the shopping bags.

I hear that we might be represented on a new "Cops" episode. After the smoke cleared a certain staffer was whisked away. I guess "jailhouse" rock will not be on her itinerary to play on weekend nights. I hope that will not be the case since "she" would not look good in stripes anyway.

Theater news has Oklahoma, Mama Mia, and Hedwig And The Angry Inch playing in town. I met some of the dancers from Mama Mia and they were absolutely delightful, not to mention having asses you could bounce quarter off of. Supporters of the show Hedwig And The Angry Inch enjoyed a kick-off party in M&M's party room. If you have seen the movie or not, try to check out the show which will be playing at the Broadway Theatre in the fashionable 3rd Ward. I met Abby, A.K.A. Ab Fab, from the show and I hope it's a tremendous hit. Any play that has the lead in drag has to be! Right? Also in drag, courtesy of Miss Goldie Adams, is the Queen of Harbor Room, Miss Danielle. Maybe she tried out for the show, but didn't make the cut, so to speak.

Harbor Room had their jockstraps contest with Eddie taking top honors at a bid of $129. I arrived to late to catch the show, but received my very own Harbor Room shirt as a consolation prize. Thanks Greg. Someone who didn't fare so well was Princess Debbie who happened to trip on her cha-cha heels on the patio. Looking like a starlet that was forced off a movie lot, she was able to get a ride home from a good samaritan. She must have been playing the part of Blanche Du Bois from "Street Car" always relying on the kindness of strangers.

The ladies at Walker's Pint raised over $4,000 for the Susan G. Komen Foundation with their employee auction. The auction for breast cancer had the top bidders for Bri for $500, Bet-2 for $320, Bets's parents $420, Sheena $430 and yummy Mike for $280. Great job you guys and I'll be saving my pennies for next year.

Well that's about all for now, I'll be at "The Room" to help them celebrate Men's Magazine Anniversary party, so look for an update in that column as well as hitting Halsted Street without my cohorts Heidi Ho and Patti "A" Holic who are taking a much deserved rest at the Betty Ford Clinic.

As always, keep the talk cheap and the liquor flowing!

Fetish Night at Out-N-About

both hands to give himself the needed attention his torpedo was demanding. He worked it violently but precisely as a flood of dirty talk came out of him. He was drooling profusely. His chest was sweaty and his navel was full, overflowing with clear evidence that Sarge was one helluva horny stud.

I was holding on to the window ledge with failing strength and I was about to drop back to the floor when Sarge suddenly stopped. He let out a huge agonizing moan and shouted "Shit, now what?" Sarge picked up the phone and answered a call. My arms finally gave out and I dropped to the floor exhausted and lost consciousness again.

When I came to again, the image of Sarge's huge torpedo was foremost in my mind. In fact I had been dreaming of taking his man meat in all possible ways imaginable. My own tool was at full mast and I started working it without even realizing what I was doing. I sat on the floor with my back against the wall, eyes closed and my legs in a crouched position. Stroking my own slab, I imagined that it was Sarge's big torpedo, veiny and hard as steel. With my free hand I started feeling my own chest, I imagined that it was Sarge's massive pecs, lightly hairy with hard protruding nubs. I pinched my own nipples and then reached down between my legs and started working my man hole. I began moaning and talking dirty, saying things like "Oh Sarge. Your big torpedo is so hot. Give it to me. Let me make you feel good. Let me ride it." I was delirious and I ranted on and on.

"PRIVATE!" I nearly ripped my man meat from my body. I opened my eyes and it was Sarge, standing in front of me. He had a leather leash and collar in his hand. He reached down and wrapped the collar around my neck in one smooth quick motion and attached the leash. Out of his pocket he retrieved a small brass padlock and snapped it on so the leash and collar would not come off except with a key.

I realized that Sarge had heard my ranting and now knew exactly what I had been thinking about while I was working my meat and fingering my man hole. I looked at Sarge's bulging torpedo and then at his ear-to-ear grin and I did not know if I should be excited or terrified. It looked like I was in for the ride of my life and Sarge was going to be doing the driving.

With a jerk on my leash, Sarge made me stand up and I was led out of the sweat box. Sarge then led me down a hallway and outside. It was dark. More than a few hours had gone by since I first reported to STD. I could not tell exactly where we were going but I suspected that it was toward the gym.

I was right. Sarge opened the door to the gym. We went in and I was sure that no one had seen us, much to my relief.

With a few more jerks on my leash and me stumbling as Sarge led me upstairs to the gymnastics equipment and we stopped at the rings. Sarge then took my hands, one at a time and tied them to the rings. Now I was standing with my hands up like I was ready to be drawn and quartered.

It was dark but I could see quite well in the light of a nearly full moon. The upper floor of the gym had a roof that was nearly all glass like a huge greenhouse.

Sarge stood directly in front of me and started taking off his clothes. Slowly unbuttoning his shirt his massive chest came into view. He had the perfect physique. His well defined pecs had a bit of hair and his nipples were standing out at attention, begging for service. But Sarge seemed to have something else in mind since my being tied up prevented me from reaching them even if he tried to let me.

"Reporting for STD, Sir!" I addressed the sergeant and saluted as best I knew how. For it was said that any sign of disrespect to him was punished severely and you would soon know why his victims came back walking like he drilled them a new ass hole. No one ever talked about what the punishment was—no one.

"Private! I'm surprised to see you here. I thought you were better than the rest. You always worked hard as evidenced by your strong healthy body." He looked me up and down and I thought I detected him lingering in places no one usually lets themselves get caught looking.

Sarge was lecturing me while I was looking down at his crotch. I looked stealthily, pretending to look at his feet and acting sullen. He had a huge tool hidden away in his trousers—a not-so-faint outline of it reaching down to where the bottom of his pocket would be. It looked to be nearly three inches thick with a fireman's hat that was even bigger. I realized that my own tool was starting to stiffen and I looked up to avoid the inevitable. Sarge looked at me with the meanest scowl.

"Look at me when I'm talking to you, Private! I'm going to have to put you in the sweat box to teach you some manners."

He marched me through a door to an adjoining room to his office. The door went nearly to the ceiling and had a small window only a few inches from the top. The inside was basically featureless. The walls were smooth but padded and it was uncomfortably warm—not hot. He gave me a shove and I stumbled into the room and fell near the other side which was only about eight feet away. In fact, the whole room was not more than eight feet by eight feet, square. I was instructed to remove all of my clothes and was told how despicable I was. I felt puny and degraded, standing there naked. Sarge turned and shut the door.

Sitting on the floor, leaning against the wall, I fell asleep. As it began to get a lot hotter I woke up while dreaming about Sarge. I was rock hard and drooling with a large wet spot on the padded floor. It was so hot, with rivulets of sweat running down and creating an outline of my ass, also on the padded floor. I was drifting in and out of consciousness, hallucinating. I could not tell when I was dreaming and when I was hallucinating.

I came to at one point. My vision was clear. I could think rationally and thought perhaps it was not quite as hot. Although still very hot, the heat had been turned down some. I could faintly hear a gruff, tuff sounding voice coming from the other side of the door—very faintly, as the padding in the room muffled nearly all sound from outside. I listened carefully and the words came. "Take my hot bayonet, Private! I'm gonna stuff you with the biggest one you ever dreamed of. Oh, agh, agh, agh. Take that Private!"

There was no mistake in my mind. Sarge was enjoying himself and I had to see. I got up next to the door, directly under the window and jumped straight up. I reached up and just barely caught hold of the small ledge at the bottom of the window. I pulled myself up and looked out and down. I could see Sarge across the room sitting in his office chair. He was reclining back with his feet up on the desk, totally naked except for his boots and socks. He had his tool in hand and was working it rigorously. Although, the term "tool" was inappropriate, neither was "schlong," "hog," "saber," "spear," "hose," nor "sausage." No! The best thing to describe the huge piece of meat that Sarge was working on would be "torpedo." Sarge had big hands and his fingers could not wrap completely around and had resorted to using

Cordially Yours

By Michael Johnston

And now it's "STILL Cordially yours."

- This column will hopefully have a decidedly French flair to it, as I share with you my Montreal holiday. Welcome to September, the Autumn of this year - while you prepare to return to school and/or reality. We still have our Summer memories... This adventure starts pre-Dawn as Holly gathers Rona, Charlotte and moi, so we could make our six a.m. flight - Milwaukee - Detroit - Montreal on Northwest Airlines. By the time we were ready to board for our final destination - here is where the Lavender crowd started to gather. We definitely were not off to Disneyland! Rona and his eagle eye spotted and connected with Tim from Ohio, suddenly the plane seemed friendlier and the flight went faster. Customs were a snap, and Canada here we are!

Perhaps, I should have started this attempt with the reason we went to Canada in the first place. It was the GALA Convention VII, every four years—Gays, Lesbians, BiSexuals and Transgendered Chorus gather to perform for each other. It provides an excellent opportunity to share—talent, music, staging, fund raising, networking... The first one was held in New York City, then the heart of the midwest—Minneapolis, Seattle was the next locale in 1989—the first one I was fortunate to be apart of. This is where The Wisconsin Cream City Chorus, Ltd. debuted and won the hearts and admiration of many. The following gathering was held in Denver in 1992. We were able to participate once more, due to the great generosity of the Miller Brewing Company. After the Rocky Mountains, then came Tampa and they knew the way to San Jose for the VI Gala Convention. This was the first time out of the U.S.A., and the first time I was there since Denver—and as an observer, not a performer. 164 Choruses made up this gathering, 5,700 Delegates, and seven countries: Australia, England, France, Germany, Ireland, United States and Canada.

Friday, our first day provided us the time we needed to become acclimated. Lodging was assigned by the GALA organizers. Charlotte and I had dreamy accommodations at The Delta Hotel, Rona was bunking at The Travelodge—about six blocks away. The rest of the Chorus—Men's Voices Milwaukee were at The Lord Barry in The Village. Although, we were at separate hotels, we did unite at the Place des Arts. Their answer to the Marcus Center of the Performing Arts. About twice the size - we had use of two major theatres: Theatre Maisonneuve (where our boys did us proud) and Salle Wilfrid-Pelletier. The complex had a beautiful courtyard with a major waterfall—one end had two cows the other end chickens - very "Beasties!"

There are no shortages of waterfalls in Montreal! Montreal put me in mind of New York, we were East side, to get to the night spots, our spots - we went to The Village. Here is where we spent some très magical moments... We started out at The Piano Bar, with Eric. Unfortunately, no piano—replaced with: Karaoke!

From there we toured to Club Medo, their A-list drag bar. Very fun, very campy—like a circus. Madame Simone is the "Door Diva," perched outside welcoming everyone in. He was most kind and gracious. Medo hosted and by the reaction of the audience, a riot. You can not tell by me—see the show was in fluent French. I could pick up a word or two, but certainly not enough to get it. The Performers however did lip synch in English. You tip with shots of Cognac, not cash. A couple became engaged (a straight couple that is—in Canada, we CAN marry). The man dropped to his knee, pulled out the rock and thank God! She said "Oui !"

Onto our spiritual home Oscar Wilde's located in an enormous complex including: a restaurant, bar, hotel, disco, patio, terraces and party rooms. Here is where we met very dear acquaintances Eric (a popular name here) and his lover Denis'. They could have not been sweeter and won a special place in our hearts. When in Montreal you must visit them. Bourbon Hotel 1578 rue Sainte Catherine Est Montreal (514)523-4679 Eric and Denis' are at your service: Thursday—Sunday 4 PM—2 AM. The place is open 24 / 7 and an attractive staff, managers: O'Neal, Daniel and Karen, Servers: Kristoff, Bruno, Sebastian and many more—trés magnifique!

Another emporium of fun was Bar Relax with Mario and Mario. 1309 Ste Catherine Est Montreal (514)523-0578. Mario—quite a handsome and flirtatious bartender and Mario his friendly barback, a successful fashion photographer by day, made our nights unforgettable. Of course there was: Sky, La Adonis—where we discovered Antonio, Campus, The Eagle, The Stud, E-Man's and many, many more. What a night life!

Saturday morning dawned and, up and off were Rona and I to register as Delegates. This gave us the chance to trot around and familiarize ourselves. Opening ceremonies would take place that night—so we had the day to tour, as Charlotte rested.

A most charming and engaging taxi cab driver took us on an exclusive excursion. The church on the highest peak—like waterfalls, no shortage of houses of worship. An observation deck where we could look across the way at their Olympic site.

Notre Dame in old Montreal, a most beautiful facade Unfortunately, we could not get inside—a VIP wedding be prepared for, it was Saturday...

The city, besides being noted for waterfalls and churches, is referred to as the City of Festivals—sound familiar? The Fest going on while we were there: obviously the Gay Chorale, a comedy festival, African American Festival, a fireworks fest—these were the ones that come to mind. They were also gearing up for their Gay Pride—the last weekend in July.

Opening Ceremonies was a sell-out, standing room only! So glad I had a Delegate badge! The hostess/entertainment of the night: Kate Clinton! In a word hysterical! Or would that be “Her-styrical?” The humor of this stay was very anti-war, very anti-President Bush and very pro-Gay marriage. Whether you agreed with it or not this was the mood.

After Ms. Clinton got the ball rolling, all 164 Chorus could cross the stage and introduce their organization’s name, city and state. That was it! Nothing else! Representing Wisconsin, Milwaukee, M.V.M.—Ms. Rona. What an exciting moment. And so launched the festivities...

Sunday night, after a low-key day and a tasty gourmet brunch in the revolving 30th-floor restaurant of our hotel, Charlotte and I had a night of original, exciting, unpredictable tunes! Everything from “Nuns” doing “Sister Act” to a group of East Coasters dressed as cowboys two-stepping to the “Sodomy Hoe-Down.” Talk about A-to-Z! That is just an example of what the week held in store.

Afternoon and evening blocks—in both major theaters. Wednesday “Hump Night” a little something special—Ms. Lily Tomlin! She is still innovative, passionate, mega-creative and has a gigantic gift of being able to take you into her world—demented yet strangely endearing characters. Tess, the bag lady who takes credit for the color choices of Howard Johnson’s yes, orange and turquoise, Mrs. Judith Beasley—who now has land mines in her front yard, Ernestine the Operator—doing her own show “Ernestine Calls You On it!” Now she does the calling, including The White House! And perhaps her most intellectual member of her tribe—Edith Anne, out of the mouths of babes... We were so impressed and up on our feet, clapping away. So was Ms. Tomlin—she could not believe so many people, choruses, fans... This terrific Theatrical event started with a lovely cocktail party at Doug’s hotel suite which helped to adjust our collective moods for a night of laughs. Rona, Charlotte and I were thrilled to attend a special V.I.P. Reception in Lily’s honor at the Sheraton—a marvelous buffet supper and a chance to meet and greet Lily! Including being photographed with one of “Laugh-In’s” brightest stars.

Rona, Lily and KV

Thursday was here oh too soon! However, it brought about MVM’s time in the lime light—5:15 PM, Theatre Maisonneuve Concert Block 10-A, July 22nd. Their set included six songs, their performance—sterling—earning them two standing ovations, thunderous applause, and a most dynamic welcoming debut to GALA.

Finally Friday, Charlotte and I are provided with the chance to help Rona and pull together a victory soirée for the Chorus—an opportunity to bond, commemorate, relax, lunch and laugh. The performance was behind them and it was the weekend! Oscar Wilde’s at the Hotel Bourbon was the place, with their Lavender Carpet rolled out—Montreal’s answer to The M’s. O’Neal our accommodating host went the distance—Eric and Denis’ were our bartenders, Kristoff and Bruno our servers—and the night was ours!

Did I mention we were in our Habits? Well we were—Sisters! What would you hostess a party in, in Montreal? Of course have Habit, will travel. We not only just mingled and sanctified the experience, we did a number! “Lady Marmalade” came to our demented minds and it brought down the house! When in Montreal—so popular, très popular was it—we repeated the bit down the street to another standing ovation!

Charlotte and I ended the night back at Oscar’s, as she let them know—“It Must Be Love.” And trust me, dear readers, it was!

What fun! Why do vacations go soooo fast! In the flash of a Maestro’s baton, it was Saturday!

Our last evening, a lovely gourmet dinner, Italian, if you please—al fresco. Oh yes, I remember it well... From there to the Village to bid a fond adieu to all our bons amis—then race off to bed, for a day of travel ahead.

It is now September, we are home, we have all re-established our lives. Therefore, remember to take part in the AIDS Walk Wisconsin 2004, Sunday, September 26th, noon, The Summerfest Grounds.

The Milwaukee LGBT Community Center’s “Big Night Out” is the night before Saturday, September 25th. The Potawatomi Bingo Casino Northern Lights Theater, black-tie-optional event. A Gala Dinner, Auction and Performance. To make your reservations call: (414) 271-2656.

Saturday, September 4th—The Final Foam Party of the year at Switch, 9:30 PM—all the SSBL-ers, DairyLand Ball Players and You all together on the patio—let your imagination take it from there... Sir Face will D.J. And it is time once again to sign up for Dart League Wednesday Nights at Switch.

Tuesday, September 14—Vote! Come out and toast your candidate! And we all know the importance of our vote, even in the Primaries.

Love the sun-shin-y look of The Room at Boom and so does most of Milwaukee.

Remember, it’s the glamour—not the grammar—enjoy these precious Summer nights, until we meet again in the Fall—I shall remain STILL Cordially yours

Remember, it is the Glamour—not the grammar! Enjoy the “dog days” of August—hopefully, you will have something to bark about—as I remain, STILL Cordially Yours
