Hi ho Silver! Happy 25th Terry & Ken!

Milwaukee's very own Baby Jane Hudson commemorated her B-Day with a special Party/Dinner/Show at The M&M Club.

Due to the importance of the 16th Annual AIDS Walk Wisconsin, many people have been hosting unique, interesting and creative ways to raise much necessary funds... A tip of the hat to Doug Barron for offering up his B-Day as a fundraiser, in lieu of gifts ... contributions to The Walk, Dave & Thor threw their Fourth Annual Gala, and Dan Taylor and the Folks of Taylor's had their Third Annual "Art Pop!" For a $20. Contribution, you got a Piece Of Artwork, a Cocktail and the good feeling of contributing to a worthwhile cause.

A new place to play on the near South side: City Lights. 111 Howard Avenue (414) 481-1441 Making their "Debut" Saturday, October 1st! Join Smiley, Pat, James, Bob and the Gang, As they provide a new venue of fun... I can't wait for the "Coming Out Party!"

It seems lately, I have had to close my Column with a Memorial, a sad farewell if you will... It's the end of an era, indeed with the passing of John Clayton Cest La Vie's main man since 1973! With this effort I also have to say good bye to Kathleen Arenz, the Columnist who brought Society to us in The Milwaukee Journal Sentinel. With her must read effort R.S.V.P. from January, 1996 - September, 2005. No need to wipe your eyes, she is just stepping down, to spend her weekends once again with her husband and a grandchild who is on the way. I have spent the last near decade starting my Sundays off with Kathy, she will be missed, hopefully R.S.V.P. will not get an R.I.P. This very Column "Cordially Yours," came to the mind of Patrick Farrell, in part due to Kathy's Column. Patrick convinced InStep's Publisher & Editor, Bill Attewell & Jorge Cabal to bring me on board. Well, that was over six years ago and two publications ago and so it goes... Allowing me to remind you -- it's the Glamour, not the Grammar!

Have a hauntingly delightful month ahead, As I remain STILL Cordially yours.

Dear Ruthie

All I gotta say is, "What the hell happened to summer?!" Sweet, wounded Jesus! How can it be October already when it feels like I just rolled off the curb after the closing night of Pride-fest?

Every year as the leaves change, I realize it's time to put away my clam diggers and get out my snow pants. It's time to trade my sequined sun hat for sequined earmuffs, kiss the baseball players goodbye and kiss the football players hello.

Which reminds me...this is also the time of year that straight men stop talking about their lawns and turn their thoughts to Fantasy Football. I hate Fantasy Football. As my friend Anita once said, "Fantasy Football means something very different to women and gay men then it does to straight guys." And she's right.

When straight men talk about Fantasy Football, they think of numbers, scores and winning cash. When women and gay boys think of Fantasy Football, their thoughts involve locker rooms, towel snapping and jockstraps...and winning cash. (Hey - you have your fantasies and I'll have mine.)

Needless to say, fall wouldn't be complete without the arrival of my favorite holiday. No, I'm not talking about septic day at the trailer park. I'm talking about Halloween, of course...the day the Gay community pays homage to drag queens around the globe.

How many of you have your hell-rific costume picked out? What?! Don't know what to dress as? Well, visit www.dear-ruthie.com for some ideas. You'll find photos of sexy studs and sultry sirens from local galas. That oughta jumpstart your imagination where this year's festivities are concerned.

This fall got off to a helluva start with the M&M Club's Wigstock, a rip-roaring annual benefit for the HIT. See photos at my Web site or stop in the bar and hear all about it from birthday-girl Rita or one of the other friendly bartenders on staff.

Well, that's enough reminiscing for me.

Let's get cozy and read a letter.

Dear Ruthie,

My partner is super courteous when he's with his business partner, but he seldom extends that courtesy to me, and it's really pissing me off. He practically bends over backwards for this guy, yet is down right rude to me. A client, I can understand, but he sees this guy nearly everyday so what gives? He sees me everyday also. What's his problem?

ness with his drinking buddy Vinnie. (Who later became my fifth ex-husband).

It was 1973, and a leisure suit-clad Lou sold Amway products to nuns and lonely senior citizens. Lou realized that he could milk a few more nursing homes each week if he brought a partner onboard, so he teamed up with Vinnie.

They were quite a pair. It was like watching the Starsky and Hutch of the polyester set sell arms to Arabs. Their middle-aged bellies, receding hairlines and High Karate cologne prevented them from becoming American Gigolos, but they knew how to turn a trick when it came to convincing old women that their lives would be complete with a case of white Amway shoe polish.

I never considered their relationship until Lou's car was repossessed and I had to pick the two of them up everyday. Knowing his old lady customers watched him squeeze into my Pinto, Lou always poured on the charm. Holding the car door open, he'd say, "Vinnie, please, you first."

Not one to be out shinned, Vinnie responded, "That's okay, friend. You go first. I don't mind."

"Mercy, no," Lou answered. "I insist."

"Truly, dear buddy, After you," Vinnie would say.

At this point, I'd scream, "Oh for Christ's sake, will one of you assholes get in the damn car!" This is about the time I noticed Lou spent over an hour picking out a tie to impress Vinnie, yet as soon as he was home with me, he'd throw on his "Who Farted?" T-shirt. He'd compliment Vinnie on his picture-perfect smile but use my toothbrush to unclog the bathroom sink.

Months later, I discovered that Lou was charming Vinnie to hide the fact that he was banging Vinnie's wife, Cookie, while Vinnie was practicing lawn darts.

Moral of the story: Never trust an ass pipe in a "Who Farted" T-shirt.

Seriously, honey, you're ultimately responsible for your happiness. If you're with someone who isn't making you happy, tell him.

I bet he didn't treat you poorly when you first met. There's a good chance that he's just taken you for granted and that he has slipped into an area of extreme comfort, forgetting the importance of treating you with courtesy and respect. Remind him how you expect to be treated. And if his attitude doesn't change, you may want to move on.

Cruisin' Mazo Beach

By Cruisin' Carl

I am finally back. I know it's been a long time. The guys here at Outbound were kind enough to let me come back and share some more of my adventures. You may be asking where I've been all this time. Well what started out as a well-needed vacation turned into something else entirely. I'm not quite ready to talk about it, but I will when the time is right.

Suffice it to say that I am back in Wisconsin and back to my cruising ways! I've been enjoying the unseasonably hot weather we've been having. It takes me back to my military days in San Diego and my excursions to Black's Beach which is a nude beach for those of you not familiar with it. So I finally decided to check out Mazo Beach, the often-whispered-about nude beach near Mazo-manie which is about 25 miles west of Madison. I had heard about this place for years but never made it over there. Now was my chance to check out all the hot naked beef lying on the sand along the Wisconsin River. It was a perfect Saturday with not a cloud in the sky as I headed out at Noon for the 90-minute drive.

I made good time as I turned onto Laws drive having printed out the directions from the Web as there are no signs to the beach. I pulled into the gravel parking lot which was almost completely full. I grabbed the bag with my towel, sunblock and water bottles and began walking down the path to the beach. I didn't realize it was over a mile-long hike so by the time I reached the beach I had pretty much sweated through my shirt and had a line of sweat running down the back of my shorts. As I made my way onto the beach I saw a large assortment of totally naked men and women (some were extremely large) and wondered where the gay section might be. I took a chance and headed south weaving between the bushweeds and the individuals staked out on their towels. I purposely tried avoided staring at the women but nonchalantly gave a quick once-over to a few of the beefier straight guys.

None of them did much for me but as I continued south, I started noticing more single guys and a couple of pretty hot studs just lying on their towels with their manhoods stretching out on their naked thighs. When I had passed a few more bodies, I figured I was in the right place and found an open spot, perfect for eyeing the parade of beef to come.

I spread out my towel and stripped down to bare skin, applied a thin coating of sun-block and laid back to catch some well-needed rays. I must have dozed off because when I woke up my chest was covered in sweat. I squinted at the bright sun light and just barely caught a glimpse of a hot humpy dude walking right in front of me. The first thing I noticed was his all-over tan with a great chest and a high-riding set of buns that seemed to grind together as he walked. I sat up to see where he was headed, but he disappeared through the undergrowth too quickly and I wanted to make sure he was interested before I went after him.

As my member was starting to swell from the heat and the hot stud that just walked by, I decided to cool off in the river for a bit. I stood up and walked across the hot sand down to the water. I dove quickly into the cool water which sent a shock to my overheated sweat-soaked skin. There is really nothing as freeing as being totally naked in the water. I broke the surface and wiped the water from my face as I stood up about chest deep in the river. Several other guys were in the water, some of them just lying on their backs floating down the river. Thoroughly refreshed, I got out of the water and went back to my towel to wait for that hunky stud to pass by again.

I laid back down on my towel propped on my elbows and waited, but the only men who walked past were older than I prefer. I tried not to make eye contact with them as they sauntered past me and headed into the bushes. Just as I was about to give up and lie back I spotted him heading my way. This time I got to view the whole package from top to bottom and he was a knockout to look at — strong jaw line and a flavor-savor patch of hair just below his full lower lip. I couldn't see his eyes behind his shades but I had a feeling he was eyeing me over as well. His manhood was not hard but plump and rode proudly on top of his man jewels as he strode confidently through the sand. As he got closer I stared openly at his package, imagining what it would look like at full mast. I got so wrapped up in my vision of our sweaty bodies pressed together that I missed my chance to say "Hey." He was already well past me heading down a path leading from the beach into the woods. I knew then that he was looking for some quick action so I got up to follow him to ease the burning in my loins (and I don't mean sun burn...).

I followed, pushing aside underbrush that at times almost choked off the path completely. He was still in my sights as I stepped over and under branches trying to keep up with him. I saw him stop and look back once just before he entering the woods. I couldn't be sure if he spotted me and I certainly wasn't trying to hide from him but the underbrush had gotten very thick by this point. When I finally reached the woods I couldn't see him anymore and I panicked for a few seconds, but after a few more steps down the path I caught a glimpse of him behind a huge tree. I slowed down as I approached and stopped a few feet from him. His legs were in a slightly spread stance with his shoulders and head back against the tree. One hand slowly playing with a nipple and the other cupping his man jewels. He was blatantly offering me one of the juiciest, most delicious looking piece of meat.

I couldn't resist the tasty spread before me and I dropped to my knees. My mouth was no longer parched as I salivated, relieving him too of a critical condition of dryness. He wasn't making a sound but I could tell he was enjoying it by rocking his hips back and forth. My own groans of pleasure were muffled and sweat started dripping from my brow into my eyes but I wasn't about to abandon the best tasting meal I'd had in a long time.

Suddenly the stud withdrew and stood up, with a sexy grin on his face and grabbed me under the arms, pulled me up, and stepped behind me, pushing me against the tree which I had to wrap my arms around to keep from falling. He pressed his well-built chest against my back and used his knee to spread my legs further apart. I glanced over my shoulder and saw him pulling a condom packet out of the side of his shoe. Using his left hand to keep me pressed against the tree, he tore open the packet with his teeth and expertly rolled it down the length of his man tool one-handed. He dropped a long drop of spit into my crevice which mixed with my own sweat. I grabbed the tree tighter as I felt his hot poker nestle against my back door.

see on Ripley's Believe It or Not. These are usually done with hooks or needles and can last for hours. Spiritual suspensions are very difficult to describe do to the complexity of them. The person who is suspended will usually see "visions" during their time in the air and could possibly have an out-of-body experience. These suspensions often involve no spoken language and tribal drums and other music is usually played to help immerse the person suspending in a world completely different from the everyday monotony of city life. These suspensions are often very intense and the person suspending usually needs a recovery period of usually twice as long as they suspended to fully "sober-up" and be able to walk and talk clearly. The experience is so intense for some that they become addicted to the feelings that they have felt and suspend themselves at every opportunity they can find.

In both cases Suspensions are not exactly for the novice to take a stab at. (Yes I see the Irony in that statement) Suspensions in and of themselves should be respected and the people performing these suspensions should be extremely knowledgeable. Suspensions to a great number of people are very sacred things and they should be treated that way.

Well it seems once again I have babbled my way through another column. Just remember if you see me around or want to ask questions please feel free to talk with me or E-mail me at Brent@outboundwi.com. Until next time have a great month of October and try not to steal kids candy . . . Unless it's those popcorn balls, man I LOVE those things!

Skin and Steel

By Brent

Well here we are again in this wonderful month of October, and as we sit around figuring out Halloween costumes it comes time to talk about piercings again. This month I will touch on two topics, scrotum piercing and suspension. So with out any rants and raves on to our piercing of the month.

The scrotum piercing, also called a hafda (half-duh), is a fairly simple piercing. It has no real placement and go anywhere on the scrotum. Although they are usually done is vertical rows either down the center of the scrotum or done equally on each side. This piercing is primarily done for decoration but some people like the way that they feel swinging around during sex or while they are just walking around. One kind of funny thing with hafda's is that if you get enough of them and you loose enough clothing they will actually clink together as you walk. (So just think about that the next time you see someone and you think your hearing the coins in their pockets!) The hafda is very easy to heal and takes very little effort to clean; all you have to do is wash it with an anti-bacterial soap at the end of your shower. There are no real sexual restrictions with the hafda as the scrotum pretty much stays out of the way during sex. (Unless your one of those dirty boys who doesn't get clean with AXE Body Wash. Sorry that just slipped out. I promise I will hit myself later for that.) Hafdas can be pierced with almost any type of jewelry and in thicknesses up to 10ga. For most people 14ga is a better size to start off with. (That's right all you pigs, I said thinner is better). That is about all there really is to tell about the hafda.

Ah, Suspension. You are all probably wondering what the hell I am talking about. (Well except for the guy in the back that people are afraid of :). Suspension is ancient form of Body Modification; it basically involves hanging a person in the air for a short or long time using needles, hooks, or rope and sometimes a combination of all three. The purpose of a suspension is very difficult to put into words. I am reminded of a quote I heard a long time ago and have long since forgotten who said it, "You will never get what you want out of it, but you will always get what you need." Suspension is usually done for one of two reasons. In one case it is a very spiritual thing and all those involved are bound to the person suspending on some sort of a spiritual or emotional level. In the second case the suspension is done for sexual gratification.

Sexual gratification Suspensions are the types usually done in the leather community. This is where the Sir will suspend his boy in a sleep sack or by ropes and once the boy is suspended the play begins! (I usually prefer to play video games after they are in the air j/k.) Sexual gratification suspensions are usually impromptu suspensions and do not have the symbolism that a spiritual Suspension will have.

Spiritual suspension is a whole different ball game compared to sexual Suspension. Spiritual is typically what you would
