Dear Ruthie & Bitchin' Kitchen

It's an all

Hello, and a slaphappy February to ya! Hopefully Valentine's Day is a special day between you and your sugar booger, whomever that may be.

Thank goodness we're well into 2006! So far I'm lovin' this year. My bosses at "Outbound" were just as happy as I was to receive messages and letters praising not only the magazine's updated look, but my new cooking column as well. Now maybe I can get a raise and buy that Joan Rivers Embalming Kit I've had my eye on for so long.

Anyhow, seeing as how so many of you liked the recipes in the last issue, I decided to combine my two columns into one. Each month, I'll offer a little neighborly advice to a reader, then I'll toss together a no-fuss dish or two to help comfort the poor bastard.

Thus, on to this week's troubled heart....maybe I should make that troubled hearts. You see, several weeks back this unorganized broad got an e-mail from a distressed reader who felt his lover jilted him on his 40th birthday. The next day, I received an e-mail, inviting me to someone else's 40th birthday party.

Blame it on my long fingernails, an obsession with cleaning my box (my in-box) or my vodka I.V., but I deleted the wrong e-mail. I wanted to keep the reader's query and delete the party invite (since there was no way I was going to a party the same night the Rec. Center was giving away free sponge baths).

Anyway, I read the reader's e-mail several times before sending it to the cyber junkyard, so I'm going to try my best to summarize it here. Hopefully, I don't say misquote the guy too badly. Well, here goes nothing...

Dear Ruthie,

I turned 40 recently and was disappointed with my lover. I wasn't expecting a big bash, but he did little to celebrate this special birthday. He went and invited a few people over for a not-so-special night. In fact, many of these people were acquaintances more so than friends. Actually, he didn't even invite my close friends, many of which had no clue a party of sorts was planned.

2nd Street Rainbow Flag Project

By: Paul Masterson

Director, Milwaukee Gay Arts Center

Walker's Point has long been known as a neighborhood steeped in pride and diversity. Its unique make up is celebrated throughout Milwaukee, luring thousands of city residents to our vibrant streets.

Because your business contributes greatly to Walker's Point as a destination for arts, dining, commerce and entertainment, we are reaching out— to ask for your help!

As you may be aware, 2nd Street Rainbow Flag Project, as a part of the Milwaukee Pride Parade, a coalition of both gay and non-gay area business and community representatives, announced a plan to install rainbow pride flags on 2nd Street in the January 2006 edition of Q Life. While this concept has received praise from many in our neighborhood, we can not move forward without your support.

As part of the recent surge in Milwaukee neighborhood development, the plan for 2nd Street in Walker's Point entails a year-round display of nearly 50 pride flags extending from Pittsburgh to Lapham Avenues. The flags measure 18x36" and will be hung vertically from city light poles.

The city government has already given us a green light for the project and all ordinances and regulations for hanging the flags have been discussed and complied with.

The purpose of the flag project is multifold. Beyond beautifying the neighborhood by creating public art, a sea of color along its 15 block route, it will identify our Walker's Point community as one celebrating its diversity. As in many of Milwaukee's revived areas such as the Third Ward, Brady Street, Riverwest, and Bay View's Kinnickinnic Avenue, the combined efforts of a broad spectrum of citizens have contributed to the revitalization of one of Milwaukee's oldest and most historic neighborhoods. Residential and business development, restaurants and bars, community and arts centers have sprung up in a wave of entrepreneurial enthusiasm that promises to continue unabated.

The addition of the rainbow flags will attract more visitors and new residents alike, pushing forward the appeal, attraction and value of the neighborhood.

The 2nd Street Rainbow Flag Project invites businesses, individuals, and organizations to sponsor one or more of the flags. The cost is only $85 each and includes a nylon flag, its mounting hardware, city rental fee, as well as a replacement flag.

Installation will take place in May just in time for PrideFest and a bigger and better Pride Parade that will march along 2nd Street.

We hope you'll agree that the 2nd Street Flag Project will create an inviting atmosphere of neighborhood pride and will show your support for this endeavor.

Should you wish to sponsor a flag, have questions or concerns, please contact James Kuchta, project director, at 414-915-3806.

Let's build on the momentum of our community's development together.

NEW Dear Ruthie!

Again, I didn't want a big party, but something somewhat special would have been nice. Like most people, we're watching our money these days; however, I took him to Chicago for his birthday, paying for drinks, meals, etc. Am I wrong for being peeved that so little thought went into my special day?

Signed,
A Friend

Dear Friend,
Again, let me apologize for summarizing your letter. Hopefully, I did it justice.

That said, I have to ask, "Who the hell wants to celebrate getting older?!" What the hell is the matter with you? On my birthdays, I dress in black and get fetal in a corner of my closet. I cry myself to sleep, worrying about new crow's feet and gray pubic hair. But if you want a party, that's your business, doll.

Was this the first time your boyfriend planned a celebration for you? If so, remember that not everyone is a skilled (or even average) party planner. He may feel he did a great job of ringing in your 40th. Drop the pity party and give the guy a break this time. Next year, however, tell him exactly what you'd like to do on your birthday. Until then, focus on the good parts of your birthday instead of the disappointing.

I can't recall if your Boy Toy provided a cake or not, so here's a simple no-bake cake that's big in the trailer park. Whip it up and enjoy a successful year. And as always, eat good and shut up!

I-Forgot-My-Kid's-Birthday-Cake

Ruthie's Bitchin' Kitchen

"I-FORGOT-MY-KIDS-BIRTHDAY-CAKE CAKE"

Here's a cake that's not really a cake at all. It's more of a salty-sweet, trailer trash treat. Toss it together the next time you forget someone's birthday. Thank God I don't have kids, but if I did, this would be mommy's special sweet. Tell the kids to get their Big Wheels outta the alley and come inside for a slice of this no-bake beauty.

- 1 package (16 ounces) miniature marshmallows
- ¾ cup vegetable oil
- ½ cup butter
- 2 tablespoons peanut butter
- 5 quarts popped popcorn
- 1 package (24 ounces) spiced gumdrops
- ½ cup almonds
- ½ cup salted peanuts

Spritz a large saucepan with no-stick spray; combine marshmallows, oil, butter and peanut butter in pan. Melt combination over medium heat, stirring until smooth. Combine popcorn, gumdrops and nuts in a large bowl; cover with marshmallow mixture and stir well. Press into a well-greased 10-in. tube pan. Cover and refrigerate overnight. Place tube pan in a dish of hot water for a few seconds. Remove cake from pan and dig in.

Culinary Clues

- Mix a few tablespoons of caramel ice cream topping into the marshmallow mixture for a cavity-causing punch!
- Try chunky peanut butter, or replace the gumdrops with M&M candies.

Got a question or recipe for Ruthie? Contact her at Ruthie@dearruthie.com. And don't forget to see Ruthie in person. She'll be performing in A Night of One-Act Plays by Christopher Durang at the Astor Theater. The show runs Feb. 23, 24 and 25, and March 2, 3 and 4. “mr. Pam” mP: I think it was five hundred acres of land. They had about three cows running around and it's immaculate inside. It was decorated so beautifully. The two men who own it were the best hosts. One of them, Bruce, who you saw in the film, was wonderful. Anything we wanted, he got it. Just to have a location to be so secluded, so we could walk around naked and swim nude.

GS: The “BuckleRoos” location is a ranch built in 1914. What was it like to work in such a setting?

GS: Some of the scenes near the highway seemed little precarious, with cars and trucks zooming by.

mP: We put the vans and truck up so we could block ourselves. One moment somebody went by in a boat (laughs), so we put these flags up.

GS: Early in the documentary, there is some concern expressed about the chemistry between Dean Phoenix and Marcus Iron, the two leads. But when you see them together, you know it is a good match. What do you think it is that makes for a good match on-screen?

mP: I think having people who are already sexual. Marcus Iron and Dean Phoenix, especially Marcus is super-sexual. A lot of times they do the sex scenes first and then do the dialogue, so if there is a chance that there might not be a connection, we don't discover that until later on. But the directors also try to talk to the actors and models to see what kind of men they're into, and that really helps create a scene. But that barn scene was magical. It was amazing (laughs). That was the moment in that barn where I thought, “This is where I belong.”

Cordially Yours

By Michael Johnston

Happy month of love -- otherwise known as Valentine's Day.

I may still believe in sending out an expression of gratitude in written form, a loss art form - I know. Maybe Hallmark should instigate a "You're Welcome Card"? While sharing this concept with all of you, I hope I don't lose another chance of making a million.

Charlotte Lorraine that Princess of a friend and of the stage threw a dazzling Christmas Night Party. We gathered once again and did our annual "Christmas Fairies". Over $700. was raised and gifted to The BestD Clinic this year.

The best part of the Holidays besides the parties - was seeing old friends gathered at the home front. This Christmas provided the opportunity to catch up with Bob Schmidt the founding father of The M&M Club, Philip "Patsy" Parks - former Miss Gay WI and M's bartender, Oof-Da the toast of Iowa that really heated up The Wreck Room way back when and T&T of Palm Beach all bringing warm smiles and memories.

New Year's Eve is always a special night and this year was no different. Mark Hagen & Todd Richards had a household full of revelers -- everyone was searching every floor for the three Christmas pickles. And three floors of guests and flawless decorations!

Then it was onto Miss Rona's where a charming group of friends of yore gathered around the roaring fire, while tantalizing Trixie teased us as he tickled the ivories. It was there over Champagne toast, with "Auld Lang Syne" bellowing from the Victrola we welcomed in 2006. From there it was to Boom/The room -- to meet & greet Doug Jeffries star of adult film and occasional bar room... Following the fleet of friends, I ended up at The Boot Camp. It was here I could wish Sy and CS my favorite doorman a Happy New Year! At the stroke of four, as The Boot closed their doors, we toddled over to the neighbors - The Triangle. Josh was as cordial as ever. Here I clinked with Velveeta, now in residence as a bartender at The M's, BestD Clinic's Kevin Lynch, from The Hilton Jim/Dan, Susie and the rest. I was tempted to follow the flow to Fluid -- but the Sun was up and it was time for me to do the opposite! A first time, for me at this age? Yes! I went with Michael & Tim to the lakefront to see the Polar Bears. Thank God it was mild! Ed was my favorite!

Even though it isn't playing anymore... kudos to The Milwaukee Rep and "The Andrews Brothers" that played The Stackner. Ben Cherry, Adam Estes and Michael Jenkinson rocked or I guess boogied would be more fitting. It was a blast taking in this nostalgic trip with Rona, Charlotte and Tom G -- No strangers to a USO Show.

Leapin' Lizards -- "Annie" is back! So the Sun really will come out tomorrow. Tuesday, March 28 - Sunday, April 2 The Marcus Center for the Performing Arts. Celebrating the antics of the lovable orphan will be Conrad John Schuck from Phillips of "One Day At A Time" and Marissa O'Donnell in the lead role. Tickets go on sale Sunday, February 12 - Noon (414)273-7206 www.ticketmaster.com

Speaking of special shows, this month marks a special day for a special bartender. Rona commemorates his special day on Saturday, February 4 - The M&M Club. "Wheel Of Miss Fortune II." Cheap

On the Set of eXposed with Mr. Pam

Gregg Shapiro: My friend Dan, who considers himself something of a porn aficionado, told me that there is a history of behind the scenes videos shot on gay male porn sets, with Kristian Bjorn being an example one such filmmaker. How do you see "eXposed" fitting into that genre?

Mr. Pam: I have seen Ronnie Larson's play "Making Porn," which I loved! It was amazing to see scenarios of my workdays acted out on stage. However, I actually made it a point to not watch any other behind the scenes movies prior to making "eXposed". Instead I talked to a lot of people, both porn industry people and not, to see what they liked and didn't like about other behind the scenes (productions). John Rutherford and I really wanted to emphasize how much fun it is to work in porn (laughs). I wanted the film to come purely from my heart and I think I succeeded! Fast paced, MTV-style editing, and hilarious characters fuel a fun, sexy romp through a seventeen-day porn shoot.

I think people are surprised by how much they laugh while watching the film. It's not heart-wrenching and dramatic, "eXposed" shows that sex is fun and so are the people working in the industry. John Rutherford did an amazing job of casting the most wonderful group of men to create "BuckleRoos" - both actors and crew. This was his first big film after purchasing Colt Studio Group. Just think, this is only the beginning. I'm really excited to work with him on more projects. He Rocks!

They call her mr. Pam: an interview with "eXposed" director mr. Pam

By Gregg Shapiro

Effervescent and radiant, tattooed and pierced, filmmaker mr. Pam looks like she might be an interesting subject for a documentary herself. But, in the case of "eXposed: The Making of a Legend," mr. Pam has turned her camera on the cast and crew of the Colt Studios documentary "BuckleRoos." Containing interviews with film's stars, including porn actors Dean Phoenix, Marcus Iron and Zak Spears, as well as the film's director John Rutherford, and others, "eXposed" exposes viewers to life and the laughs behind the camera.

Fortunately for me, mr. Pam took a few minutes to speak with me at the filmmakers' brunch, during the 2005 Philadelphia International Gay and Lesbian Film Festival where "eXposed" was being screened.

THE MAKING OF A LEGEND

Talkin' Chi Chi turns in his tarnished tiara, fear not he still has a spare from HIT's "American Drag Idol". To honor the Birthday Honoree (Rona) we will all gather, spin the wheel and have a mystery tune to perform. The Show has two rounds and the Entertainer who brings in the most cash is crowned! Proceeds to benefit Men's Voices Milwaukee. Come and see the wheel turn...

The Wisconsin Cream City Chorus, Ltd. began the New Year and Season with a new Concert. Bravo! Scott Malcolm - a tremendous troubadour had quite a January with the release of his first CD. The party on the 21st at The Mosaic was the place to be.

Jerry Grillo, Brew Town's answer to Sinatra shared with me his latest effort "Under The Influence." It's a salute to the great ladies of song. A must for every music library. I ran into Jerry at This Is It on a recent Saturday afternoon. Gary was the mixologist with all the right moves... Jonah formerly of The M's and prior to that The Triangle is now in service at the East Wells Street landmark. Remember, Wednesdays after 9PM, "Our Barn Door Is Open". Congrats June and Joe on your NEW 7 year lease!

Patrick Farrell had quite the successful Holiday Season with a show at The Tori Folliard Gallery - "Flowers, Fruit & Butterflies". As a delicious extra Coquette Cafe offered a complimentary dessert inspired by the paintings of Patrick. So popular was the selection, that the dessert stayed on the menu through out the month! Switch is offering an interesting switch in 2006. Fridays after 10PM Strippers of the male persuasion to entertain you... After "Desperate Housewives" the 1st & 3rd Sunday of the month will be "Open Mike Nite with Dave & Julie". Come on down and do your stand up. Sundays are also Service Industry Night. so S.I.N. on Sun, with a $1. Off. Karaoke kidz come croon with Brandon on Thursdays the "Singing Bartender". He is the 2nd runner-up in "WKTI's Rock Star Project".

Tuesday, February 28 will be "Fat Tuesday - The Mardi Gras Costume & Pub Crawl". Walk on by to The Walker's Point infamous "Fruit Loop". The Triangle will Bead you at 8PM, then Switch will Feather you at 9:30PM, Fluid will Mask you at 11PM and La Cage will Parade you at 12:30AM. Finale Judging is at 1AM. Over $500. in Prizes!

Kenosha now offers "A Night At Studio 54" at the all new SOS Night Club. 4626 Sheridan Road - Go South young man and see Dan A. at the helm. Cest La Vie has reopened their fabled doors once again. Now they can keep their "sister" bar The Ball Game company on north South Second Street.

The Harbor Room was a most Happy place a couple of Saturdays ago -- could it be that Happy Vodka?

Congratulations Mike & Chris and La Cage on your 21st Birthday! Now you are legal! Don't forget to get your La Cage Card available every Wednesday!

A most Happy First Anniversary to Steve & Don and The TAZZbah!

ARCW's 2006 Giving For Life Campaign now up and running. Over 3,000 MORE people than ever before will need the services of this important agency. I hope the number 3,000 is as alarming to you as it is to me and will provoke you to take pen in hand... Next month: Saturday, March 25th is "The Make Promise Dinner 21" will take place. It's come of age! Returning to their homebase of The Midwest "Strictly Ballroom" is the theme. Do I hear a waltz?

"Brokeback Mountain" is the topic of many conversation at many a cocktail party. Kudos for all the nominations, attention and press this flick has earned. It wasn't that long ago a long forgotten film called "Making Love" starring Kate Jackson and Harry Hamlin and another forgotten male star was forgotten at the box office. Even with a Roberta Flack hit song. We have come a long way up that mountain...

A Friday must -- The M&M Club's Friday FishFry! Be it lunch or dinner - they serve until 11PM. Chef Lori has added potato pancakes and the quality and quantity is as pleasing as ever! Bon appetite!

Don't forget "Angels in America - Part I" at The Gay Arts Center. Remember, it's the Glamour, not the Grammar.

Skin & STEEL

By: Brent

Well here we are again. Apparently we have all survived the past month of drinking and hangovers. First off I would like to start off with a little tidbit about IMSS (International Mr. Skin & Steel in case you haven't been reading this column lately. And shame on you if you haven't!)

The website unfortunately has had some problems with updating however the entrant form and rules are complete. If anyone would like a copy of the entrant form and rules please email me and I will send them to you ASAP. We are also in negotiation for our Emcee of the weekend and I have a sneaky hunch that many of you would be interested to meet their "associates." So otherwise that is about it for this month on the IMSS contest, and on to the interesting things.

This month I decided to explore more of the tribal roots of piercing. To me this is a part of piercing that is seriously overlooked more often than naught. Most of the piercings that we see today started out in one of two places, South America and India, while most of the genital piercings started out in Africa. As with most tribal cultures piercing was and still is a rite of passage from boy to man and girl to woman. A person without these procedures just was not an adult to the tribes that practice these rites.

Piercing is one of the most common rite of passage among tribal nations. There are tribes in Borneo that if a man does not have an Ampallang piercing then he is not a man and the women will not even look at him. Piercing has such a profound relation to the way the people react to you it is almost inconceivable. But after all isn't that why we all get pierced? Piercing not only sets you apart from other people but it places you into a new group of people. This new group of people is always caring and can trace it's roots all the way back to cave men.

To me every time I get a new piercing or a new tattoo I can't help but think about how our ancestors decorated their bodies and embarked on the same life that many of us have today. To explore and learn about life, not only about the world, the stars and everything else, but to explore their own self and push themselves to the limits of what they thought they could never do.

So that is about it for my rant and rave this week. Oh no, wait; I almost forgot the date for IMSS has been announced. (Drum roll please) Labor day weekend 2006. We will have a meet and greet as well as a large circuit party with Mystery entertainment. And there will be many more details forthcoming so stay tuned and don't forget to email me at Brent@outbound.com with questions or comments. And you can check out the website www.skinandsteel.com for news and pics as they become available.
