Brown Hair, Hazel Eyes
69 inches tall.

Hobbies:

Song writing, playing guitar, drawing and sex.

Favorite sex toy:

(He wouldn't let me print his name.)

Favorite B Movie:

"Texas Chainsaw Massacre"

Favorite Gay Movie:

"Priscilla, Queen of the Desert"

Favorite XXX Movie:

"Power Tool"

Pet Peeve:

Finding soggy toilet paper in the men's room.

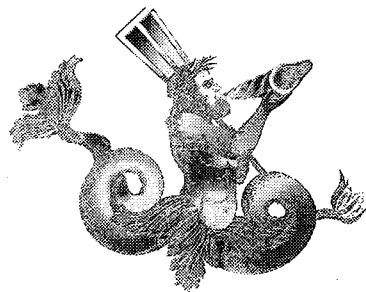

Shawn originally comes from Fort Lauderdale, Florida, and now lives in Milwaukee. He says he moved to escape the heat. (He likes the snow!) He also likes the people of Milwaukee.

Only the brick outer walls remain. Fortunately, there were no fatalities. 110 employees are out of work. Some believe this is the result of a hate crime, but it is most likely an electrical fire started in the kitchen area. Bars effected include Rod's, The New Bar, Cafe Palms, The Microbar, Barber's Closet and Club De Wash. The hotel was enjoying a year-long celebration of its 90th anniversary.

Our deepest sympathy goes out to the Scheel family, Hotel Washington's owner.

Welcome to issue two of our third year at Quest! We have made several changes with a few more to come, so I thought I would take a moment to highlight these.

Last issue, we joined papers from around the nation to bring you the insightful column PAST OUT by David Bianco, a professor of Gay History from West Hollywood. Quest has exclusive rights to carry this column in Wisconsin on a regular basis. It is part of a re-working of Quest to make it a little more fun to read.

In this issue, we introduce a new column for the leather/levi community called OPUS I by Papa Joe. Papa Joe is from Milwaukee and will cover the leather and levi scene all over the state. Even if you are just curious, you should check out this column!

In the next issue of Quest, another new writer will tempt you with a list of Jazz selections great for parties or that intimate evening for two. Also on the horizon will be more information from areas of the state that are so often overlooked such as Eau Claire. Our goal this year is to bring Quest's focus truly statewide!

Anyone interested in helping us reach this goal by providing writing or photography should contact me soon.

Another change you may notice in this issue is our calendar. We now list all of the re-occurring weekly specials by day under Night by Night. Specials events will now be listed separately under Diversion of the Day. This change will make more room available for articles and at the same time be easier for you to use.

We hope these and other changes to come will be welcomed by our readers. Your comments are important to us as they have in the past and will in the future help us shape Quest to fit your needs.

From the Desk of Chinequa Advice for the Adverse

Dear Chinequa,

I am lost in my insane jealousy. It's my boyfriend. He travels all the time for business & I'm always afraid he is going out and looking for trouble, A piece of bootie that is. What can I do to lesson the chance of his wandering?

Green Eyed in Georgia

Dear Green Eyed:

You sure are a worried little queen. Well I have some advise for you. First of all, get used to it girlfriend. A man is a man is a man. Secondly, fight back. Don't sit there waiting to see what happened. Be offensive. Get him before he gets you. Not playing around darlin', playin' dirty. Hint one, never send a horny man out of town. Get him good and tired before he leaves. In fact, try to see he hits the road with a scorching case of Hemorrhoids. That will keep him in line. To be truly safe, a nice cold sore works well too. And when you have exhausted those tries, sit back darlin', Chinny has some news for you. All you can do is be you. If he loves ya, he'll resist the temptations. And that's where the security of your relationship comes from. Remember all you can do is be good to you and demand he be good to you. Good luck darlin', my hopes are with ya both.

Chinny Go Girl

Dear Chinequa,

My husband and I are not talking as much as we used to. Our kids are even noticing. I even think he is looking at other women. What should I do?

AHW

Dear Allouez House Wife:

Call Abbey, cause I don't do no tired column.

The always to the Point Chinequa

DuWanna not only packed em' in at her recent benefit held at Pivot Club, but she apparently also booked every Queen in the state for this one! At least 14 performers graced the stage to honor DuWanna.

OPUS 1 by Papa Joe

Mark, who da thunk it, eh? Would you believe it, just a couple of years ago, maybe a few days before The Village People were machoing it up in every gay dance bar, we met, you as The Manhole's DJ, I as the owner. Now, a few short years later, as you celebrate the beginning of your third year as publisher of Quest, we again find ourselves working together. This time, you are in charge and I get to do the pissing and moaning. I am proud to join your crew. Congratulations on your achievements and much success in the future.

Hey, folks, I am Papa Joe. If you don't already, you will get to know me as we go along. Mark and I agreed that a column relating to the clubs and GDI's of the Leather Community (hereinafter referred to as LC) is needed. We agree that this column should serve the persons already "out" in LC with a "dishy bulletin board" as well as offer our curious brothers and sisters an inside look.

This inside look will be through the eyes of one who has been there, done it (even have the T-shirts to prove it) and will have a positive spin to it. Eventually, we hope this column will be the LC's (wannabes and camp followers included) ultimate guide for planning time out.

Expect this column to deal with current club and bar activities. To get and keep a handle on this, I ask the clubs and bars who consider themselves part of the LC for schedules of your events as well as reports (complete with photos) of your events.

Put a little spice in your life at Positive Voice's fourth annual chili supper Saturday, February 24 at Bill & Jerry's, 2016 Fem Lane in Green Bay. Bring a hot or cold dish to pass and your favorite beverage. PV will supply the Chili fixin's and the soda. Happy hour's at 5:30 PM, dinner's at 6 then its games and chitchat 'til everyone's drowsy. For more info & good directions, call Bill at (414)468-3259.

The Argonauts will host Milwaukee's Oberons for a St. Pat's weekend of food and fun March 16 & 17. The fun begins with a club night March 16 at Java's starting at 9 PM. Enjoy a buffet, beer and soda for just $7. On March 17 there will be a raffle and auction as part of a joint club program beginning at 2 PM at Brandy's II. According to Argonauts publicist Steve Jones the leather/levi social group is expecting men and women from all over the state.

Music, Mocha & More: Northern Womyn's annual fundraiser has been scheduled for March 16 from 7 to 11 PM at Preble Park Presbyterian Church, 607 Ravenswood Ave. in Green Bay. Admission will be $3 for members and $4 for non-members. Expect flavored coffees and great, gooey desserts!

Jason Takes Green Bay: Openly-gay comic Jason Stuart's five-day run January 17-21 at the Funny Bone comedy club can only called an unqualified success, according to the club's management. With the exception of Thursday night the comedian sold out every show. The comic was particularly impressed with the gay community's promotion of his appearance. "You guys (PV) and Quest were terrific!" Stuart said. The Los Angeles-based comic admitted that the local gay community was far more conservative than the one in his hometown. "I'm being serious—I couldn't tell the lesbians from the housewives," Stuart quipped.

Self-Discovery Confab Doubles in Size: PV's third annual "Day of Self-Discovery" lesbianigay issues conference February 10 at the Downtowner Best Western in Green Bay was attended by nearly sixty men and women from Wisconsin and Michigan. Attendees heard Wisconsin State Representative Tammy Baldwin, Action Wisconsin President Juliet Brodie, Log Cabin Republican Scott Evertz and others views on the upcoming presidential, congressional and state elections and the need for the activation and empowerment of the lesbianigay vote to counter the gains of the radical right. Drs. John Laabs, Rebecca Wolfe and James Lacey, who filled in for Dr. Ray Bachhuber, discussed lesbianigay health issues, Milwaukee attorney Steve Byers outlined lesbianigay status in the state and Green Bay therapist Judy Hodel moderated a panel of men and women in long-term relationships shared the secrets of their success.

Have A Heart Packs 'Em In: Center Project, Inc.'s 5th annual "Have a Heart" dinner and silent auction had a nearly 100% increase in attendance for this year's event, which "sold out" prior to the reservation deadline, according to dinner coordinator Vicki Terlap. "The evening was planned for projected 180 attendees and we served 240 guests," Miss Terlap said. A greater individual and corporate awareness of HIV/AIDS and increased media and public interest in the celebrity artwork included in this year's auction are two of the reasons believed to have boosted this year's attendance. Rainbow Charity Raises $800: Rainbow Over Wisconsin, Inc. (ROW), the new Green Bay/Fox Valley-based non-profit charitable group raised over $800 at its first fundraising event February 3 at ZA's night club. The organization has been founded by the owners of the eight gay/lesbian taverns which annually co-sponsor Green Bay's "Alive With Pride" Memorial Day picnic: Brandy's II, Napalese Lounge, Sass and Za's of Green Bay; Pivot Club and Rascal's Pub & Grill of Appleton, The Blue Lite of Sheboygan and Madhatter of Wausau. ROW has invited the leadership of various lesbianigay groups to participate on the 15 member board of directors. Proceeds from ROW's fundraisers will benefit civic and charitable projects of lesbianigay interest and concern.

G/L Guide Now Available: Northeast Wisconsin's first-ever Gay/Lesbian Guide has begun initial regional distribution. A mailing of the guide to all listed resources was completed February 9. In addition to gay owned and operated businesses, the guide will be available in libraries, chambers of commerce and other visitor centers. If you would like a free copy mailed discreetly to your address, write to: G/L Guide to NEW, P. O.Box 595, Green Bay, WI 54305, enclosing your name and address and $2 for postage and handling.

Angel of Hope Move Delayed: Zoning and parking conflicts have delayed Angel of Hope MCC's planned move to its new site until later this year. Services will continue at the Downtowner Best Western, 321 S. Washington Ave. in Green Bay Sundays at 11:30 AM.

Wausau's Icebreakers Seeking Members: Are you interested in gay men's spirituality discussion group? If you live in central Wisconsin or are willing to travel one Sunday a month, then Icebreakers discussion group is looking for you! The group meets at St. Anthony's Retreat Center in Marathon, WI, just west of Wausau monthly. The next scheduled meetings are on Sundays, February 11 and March 10. For more information about the group, contact group facilitator Mary Pat Campbell at (715) 359-7432. t

AIDS Drug Touted As Lifesaver: (WIN) The Abbott Laboratories protease inhibitor Ritonavir reduced the risk of death by 43% in late-stage AIDS patients in a clinical trial with 1090 volunteers, according to a report published February 9 in AIDS Treatment News. All the volunteers in the study had 100 or less CD4 (or T-helper) cells with a median of 30 for the group. 25% of the volunteers had counts of 10 or less. All volunteers in the double blind study had also used approved retroviral drugs like AZT or d4T and were permitted to use up to two other anti-HIV drugs is they so chose. Use of 3TC, the recently approved antiretroviral, was not permitted because the study started prior to its FDA approval. Improvement was most dramatic in the first month of the study with a 58% decline in AIDS-defining health problems or death. About 1 in 6 volunteers on Ritonavir had to discontinue use due to adverse reactions as opposed to 6% of those taking the placebo. Because Abbott Labs focused on late-stage patients it was able to recruit volunteers quickly as no other drug trials are normally available for advanced AIDS patients.

If you feel your club, group or bar is part of or will be doing something relating to the LC, please contact us.

The types of clubs, the purposes, goals, as well as the histories of the LC and clubs, will be explored. Expect to meet the movers and shakers through this column.

You will know what a run is, how it came to be, and how the LC changed it to fit its needs.

Those of you who know me know I am wont to repeat juicy rumors and slightly tainted dish. My new boss has, with a somewhat firm hand, asked to suppress those urges.

Letters expressing views/ opinions as well as suggesting matter may not be answered individually, but will be much appreciated. Names withheld on request.

You may find a bit of BS in future issues, but don't expect to be dazzled with brilliant dissertations or theologies regarding abstract variations or nuances in and of the LC. Just facts, man, just the facts.

To be sure, it will come up, but there will be no more than casual mention of issues such as S&M, B&D, top and bottom, fetishes, etc. These issues, while already accepted in the LC, for the most part, are not fundamental or inherent to the LC. Further, the debate of these subjects, with all the nuances, would eat up too much space; it is best left to those who by training or experience (preferably both) are experts.

We hope, with your participation, you find this column a friendly and informative exchange, much like a letter from a buddy bringing you up to speed on what the old gang is doing.

You should be aware I am not necessarily politically correct, and I am too damn old to give a crap if you are troubled by it.

I wanted to touch on the Daddy and Daddy's Boy Weekend, slated for the weekend of April 26. As I started this paragraph, guess who called? None other than (you read it here first), Lenny Broberg, to announce he would love to come to Milwaukee to help out with the weekend. One catch, he won't know if he is standing watch until the first of March.

Lenny, a 2 die 4 hot man, International Mr. Leather 93/94, all around neat guy, now one of SF's finest, has been working the boards that weekend 2 of the 4 years it's been in existence.

The weekend, originally an Argonaut of WI (Green Bay) function, now also includes The Castaways of MC and Oberons (Milwaukee) and the Unicorns of Madison, and is a pet of mine, having served as coordinator for three years. In the past, the activities have centered around the Daddy Contest, Boy Contest and an auction full of new and used treasures. To be sure, late night parties are included. Weekend rates available and you out-of-towners can expect reasonable rates at local hotel(s). Keep an eye open for it; if they let me know, I'll pass it along. Pen these dates in. This is the weekend that hot men from the upper midwest drop in to look over the latest crop of Daddies and Boys.

I'm out of here; ride easy and with the wind.

How Did San Fransisco Become So Gay

Americans who know little else about homosexuality know that San Francisco has a lot of gays; an ice cream shop where I grew up had a shake called "the San Francisco" — it was filled with fruits. Some of this reputation is overblown; San Francisco has plenty of straight people, of course. But the political power and unusual visibility of San Francisco's gay and lesbian community is no myth, and deserves explanation.

The Gold Rush of the late 1840s and 1850s turned a small town into an important city, and most of the newcomers to San Francisco were single men seeking their fortunes. These men lived together, drank together — even danced together. While the gender imbalance was not permanent, some variation of an all-male social world has existed in San Francisco since the mid-19th century. We also have evidence of lesbian prostitutes and women who "passed" as men in this period.

By the 20th century, the city had gained enough of a reputation for homosexuality and other vices that the massive 1906 earthquake was blamed by many ministers on the moral excesses of what they called "Sodom by the Sea." This reputation was not due to an open, politically active gay and lesbian community; rather, gay life in early 20th century San Francisco consisted mostly of private parties, furtive encounters and discreet relationships.

The Second World War represented a sea change in San Francisco's gay and lesbian life. Most Pacific-bound sailors and soldiers came through San Francisco, many of them eager to sow their wild oats before risking their lives against Japan. Opportunities abounded, from prostitutes to girlie bars. For soldiers seeking same-sex company there were a growing number of bars and lounges — The Black Cat, the Silver Dollar, the Subway — in which they could meet civilians who might offer a place to spend the night.

During and after the war, the military discharged thousands of gay men and lesbians, often sending humiliated soldiers and sailors back to the mainland through San Francisco. Many of these personnel were too ashamed or uncomfortable to face their families and hometowns with a "blue" (anti-gay) discharge, so they stayed in the port city which held often held fond memories of pre-war flings.

In the postwar period, San Francisco saw an increase in both gay bars and gay bards — as "Beat" poets such as Allen Ginsberg drew attention to the relative florescence of gay life in San Francisco. Equally significant was the founding of social and political organizations. In 1953 the Mattachine Society came to San Francisco, followed two years later by the founding chapter of the Daughters of Bilitis, America's first lesbian social and political organization. Many of those organizing for social change were veterans who had been forced into seeing their sexuality as political by their discharge from the military. By 1960 San Francisco was one of three major nodes of gay and lesbian organizing, along with New York and Los Angeles.

In the 1960s, San Francisco saw events that were unthinkable elsewhere, from a drag queen running for city supervisor in 1961 to a gay dance sponsored by heterosexual ministers in 1964. By the end of the decade, San Francisco's Haight-Ashbury had become the center of the hippie movement, and homosexuality was but one of many deviations in an atmosphere of free love.

Gay and lesbian immigration to San Francisco heavily accelerated in the 1970s, providing neighborhoods such as the Castro and Noe Valley with heavy concentrations of gay men and lesbians. The gay community's political strength could be seen in the election of Harvey Milk as a city supervisor in 1977 and a widely praised coordinated public response to the AIDS crisis beginning in the early 1980s. Today, San Francisco continues to be a pioneer — three of the city supervisors are openly gay or lesbian, and San Francisco City College is the only place in the country where a college student can major in gay and lesbian studies.

What are "Boston Marriages"?

The term "Boston Marriage" refers to a pair of women who set up same-sex households, particularly in the late 19th and early 20th century. Some of these couplings were among teachers and students in women's schools on the East Coast — including the most celebrated example in Henry James' novel The Bostonians. Often the women were thought of as two unlucky spinsters who were unable to find husbands (and undoubtedly this was sometimes the case), but we have plenty of evidence that many of these relationships had a romantic and a sexual component.

The irony of the term, though, is that while many who used it were gently poking fun at the women involved, these women had the last laugh. They were able to live together, share expenses, sleep in the same bed, and even publicly treat one another as husband and wife — all with the tacit implication that the pair couldn't possibly be actual lesbians.

But most were actual lesbians, usually members of the middle and upper classes, and many of their stories are quite remarkable — for example, M. Carey Thomas, the president of Bryn Mawr College, lived in a Boston Marriage with one of the school's largest donors, philanthropist Mary Garrett.
