yourself. Been down this path,
not going back for seconds.

Of course, while waiting for that perfect combination—wit of Dennis Miller, looks of Brendan Fraser, sex drive of Jake Andrews and money of Bill Gates—I try to date. I try really hard to date. But I have noticed that sometimes while looking for
"Mister Right" I find "Mister Right Now." Not to say I'm an innocent babe in the process of love, mind you. It's always been easy for me to be, well, easy, than to be the man I know I can be.
I'm trying to be more than just 'last Wednesday night,' and I think a lot of other guys just like me are trying also.

At any rate, you'll be hearing all about it right here. While I try to find my one true love, the one who owns a house out West and wants to hire me for thirty kay plus benies, I'll be telling you about everyone I meet along the way. So belly up to the bar next to me, don't ask me my sign, and ask me to dance. Who knows, it could be sensational. Or maybe just my next article.

Boyd and Cary are into body piercing! (Who knew?) Boyd (left) is a certified nursing assistant who works with psych patients. Cary (right) is a hair designer and plans to be a salon owner very soon. Both guys are into clubs and the rave scene.
Cary prefers House music,
Boyd likes it Tribal. So why do they pierce? I asked Boyd. I asked him if it was a sexual thing or what? Boyd says that while some of his piercings are sexual, most are just for fashion. He likes to stand out from the crowd and get a reaction.

Munch on this...

Hey! How's it goin'? Allow me to introduce myself. My name is Jess. I'm in my mid-twenties, slightly above average in height, putting on weight, but still OK for my build. I work full time, I do odd jobs, I am broke. I know my astrological sign, but don't see why it's any of your business. I've cut back on my drinking, and I've quit smoking—three times already this year.

Turn Ons: Good Films. German Cars. Italian Food. Cotton Clothing—as long as it's pre-shrunk.

Turn Offs: Rush Limbaugh. Men who grab other men in the crotch before they can spew off a phone number by heart. Really obvious and bad pickup lines, particularly when they're coming out of my mouth. Unless, of course, they work.

When I grow up, I hope to have a house that I like, a salary attached to a job I like a lot, and a significant other that I like even more. Not necessarily in that order, but all before I am thirty-five. Right now, I bat 0 for 3.

You've probably seen me around, on the dance floor, drinking at the bar, maybe even in passing at the Mall or supermart. I may have looked back your way. Depending on my mood, I even may have smiled.

I have been in relationships before, some of them successful, some not. One of the problems I've discovered about being a gay man over the last couple of years is it's hard to be single. I mean, I think it's easy to get into a relationship with a potential "Mister Right," but that doesn't mean actually being in a relationship with him is the way to go either. It just means you've found someone even more tired of being alone than you at about the same time you were about to give up looking

Past Out Continues...

Do these friendships and her relationship with Hickok "qualify" Roosevelt as a lesbian? Some historians have angrily said no — insisting on proof of sexual intercourse with another woman before any woman can be called a lesbian. Even without this standard (which is never applied before labeling someone as heterosexual) we should certainly be careful not to casually label as lesbian someone who not only married a man and had children but also carried on a long-term romantic relationship with a younger man, her bodyguard Earl Miller.

With evidence of her erotic involvement with both men and women, it is tempting to simply categorize Roosevelt as "bisexual." But since none of these labels was ever embraced by Roosevelt, it may be safest to avoid labels altogether — and point to Eleanor Roosevelt as a clear example of the fact that many of those whom history has traditionally assumed were "straight" had enormously complex romantic and sexual lives.

David Bianco, M.A., teaches gay and lesbian history and politics at the Institute of Gay and Lesbian Education in West Hollywood. If there's anything about the history of gays and/or lesbians you've always wondered about, contact him care of this newspaper or through his E-mail address: AriBianco@aol.com. "Past Out" appears twice a month.

PAST/OUT

BY DAVID BIANCO

When did American gays, lesbians, and others first start calling themselves "queer"?

The term "queer" has been used by at least one segment of the gay and lesbian community for more than eighty years. The word's exact origin is unclear, although it may have developed from the Old English "cwer," meaning "crooked, not straight" or the British slang "quare" meaning unusual. Some say the word originally referred to 18th-century counterfeit money, which explains the phrase "queer as a three-dollar bill."

There is plenty of historical evidence that as early as the 1910s, a subset of American men who we might call gay preferred to call themselves queer. Historian George Chauncey, in his book Gay New York, explains the overlapping and ever-shifting lexicology of men who had sex with other men in the early 20th century in the nation's largest city. Men who adopted a feminine style in mannerisms and sexual behavior called themselves "fairies." "Trade" were conventionally masculine men who pursued effeminate men for sexual encounters. And "queer" was used by men, of both the middle and working classes, who categorized themselves as different because of their affection for members of the same sex, regardless of their masculinity or effeminacy.

By the 1930s and 1940s, though, all these terms began to be eclipsed by "gay," which was particularly preferred by younger and middle-class men. As gay became more popular, many men began to reject "queer" as a term that highlights difference and strangeness. By the 1950s, the term was heard much more often by belligerent or condescending heterosexuals than self-referentially by gays themselves — although some prominent figures such as Christopher Isherwood and Gore Vidal continued to prefer the term to "gay."

By the late 1980s, though, queer was making a comeback, particularly among younger activists. And in 1990, the group most responsible for cementing it as a primary term used by a subset of the gay and lesbian movement appeared: Queer Nation.

Queer Nation was founded in New York City in the spring of 1990 by activists who wanted to use ACT UP-style tactics on issues other than AIDS. Their first major public splash came in June 1990, when they distributed an incendiary pamphlet entitled "Queers Read This," which was best known for its mantra "I hate straights." The pamphlet, soon faxed and xeroxed across the country, struck a chord with many — especially young gays, lesbians and bisexuals — who didn't feel the traditional gay-rights movement spoke for them.

Queer Nation soon became known for its irreverent strategies — from pasting "Queers Bash Back" stickers in public places to invading nightclubs and shopping malls not identified as gay or lesbian for "Queer Nights Out."

Central to Queer Nation's public persona was its members' determined advocacy of the word queer as opposed to "gay and lesbian" or "homosexual." Queer, they said, was inclusive of gays, lesbians, bisexuals, transgendered people, and (sometimes) supportive heterosexuals. Unlike gay, they argued, queer recognized that their difference didn't always make them happy. Many were unaware of the word's history, and felt they were reclaiming a pejorative term and using it in a positive sense for the first time.

This "new" use of the word queer brought sharp criticism from other segments of the gay and lesbian community. Some worried that the word would only play into the hands of the gay and lesbian movement's enemies. Others felt the term simply evoked too many painful memories to be used to name something they wanted to feel proud of.

Mostly because of internal divisions and organizational exhaustion, Queer Nation largely ran out of steam by 1992. While the group is no longer the visible force it once was, the term queer appears to be here to stay. Students and professors debate Queer Theory in the universities, computer users discuss topics of the day on "queemet.com," and thousands of Americans use the term to refer to themselves — either interchangeably with gay, lesbian, or bisexual — or as a primary identity.

Was Eleanor Roosevelt a lesbian?

She certainly would not have used that term to refer to herself. Nonetheless, we do have ample historical records to confidently state that Roosevelt had at a passionate romantic involvement with at least one woman — Lorena Hickok.

Hickok was a reporter for the Associated Press assigned to cover Roosevelt when her husband was elected president in 1932. The two became close very quickly. While much of the correspondence between them was later burned by Hickok's family, many letters remain, including an oft-cited one in which Hickok writes of how she remembers "the feeling of that soft spot just north-east of the corner of your mouth against my lips."

In addition, many of Roosevelt's friends, particularly in the years following the First World War, were involved in romantic relationships with other women. Many of these women were involved in women's organizations that fought for world peace and social responded Cortez Baker to one of the questions asked by the emcee and when it was over, Cortez was the new Mr. L/L BOY 1996/97. Confidence seemed to be the strong point of all 8 candidates entered in each the Daddy and Boy contests. All 16, each in their own way, were comfortable with the life-style they chose and it showed.

I DON'T WANT TO BE A BOY, I AM A BOY,

Out of all the winners presented, the judges chose: The New Daddy is J. P., 1st runner up Matt (both from Milwaukee), 2nd runner up, Glen from Green Bay.

Cortez is the new Daddy's Boy; Joe, 1st runner up and Jerry placed 2nd runner up. All are currently from the Milwaukee area.

EGG ON MY FACE and a thousand pardons for my two blunders in the last column. First, the Firebirds is one word not two. I'll bet the person(s) who paid for changing the Bay View's library sign wish they could have gotten off with just an apology.

Secondly, I mentioned a club night instead of an after hours party in connection with their first anniversary. That wouldn't have been too bad by itself, BUT the Oberons scheduled one for that night. That is a no no to anyone, club, bar etc., who competes for the same guests.

Accidents do happen, but every now and again it is done to be spiteful, which goes against the grain of the community. The resulting barbs will make a voodoo doll look like Barbie.

That was not the case this time. The Firebirds carefully chose their party schedule to dovetail with the Oberons affair, allowing the Firebirds and their guests time to take it all in.

This will teach me to take notes while in the 1101 Club with a bevy of boys and Lee out of town. Say you will forgive me.

And what a nice party it was. You know you enjoyed yourself, when the party is over and it seemed like it just started. Everyone headed out to the Oberons' bar night at the Wreck Room. From the after hours party for over 120 invited guests.

We have a good time in this town and it is especially good when two or more clubs work together to make it a full night like this, the recent joint bar nights and the Mr. L/L party weekend.

Again, my apologies to all the men, guests and friends of the Firebirds and the Oberons.

In keeping with goals for this column, I requested and the Firebirds gave me a write-up about their club. Because of the room involved (that's a hint) and the pictures I hope to see in this issue, I will save most of it for later. You will need to know about their Tom of Finland party on May 4th at the Boot Camp. They will have TOF stuff available, door prizes and all those things that make for a fun night. While there, take a good look into the hot merchandise available through TOF, from T shirts to tapes (The Wild Ones is my favorite).

For further information about this, other Firebirds' events or to get on their mailing list, call 414 299-9707.

Sponsors of the event include The Trading Company, Linen Effects and Lavender Lifestyles Magazine.

Door prizes, as of press time, have been donated by Hotel Amsterdam, Variations on Spring, Dudley Riggs Brave New Workshop, Cafe Zev, Mickie's Junction, Laurie Bieze's City Center, Portfolio Men and Eagle Cove Bed and Breakfast.

All proceeds from the event will benefit programs of the Northwest Wisconsin AIDS Project.

Tickets for the semi-formal event, limited to 100, are $15 in advance/$18 at the door, and may be purchased by mail. Send checks to The Trading Co., 304 Eau Claire St., Eau Claire, WI 54701.

Miss Possum Queen, a title Di lusts for and if the old queen allowed, would vie for. A title that puts the winner in the rarified atmosphere with previous Queens like De De Diavon (that's with an umlaut over the o) and Althea Later the current reigning queen, both of flawless beauty, charm and inbred nobility. A title, denied to our own leather community's, Ms. Ma Barker, who's petit and charming, debonair and saluve'e demeanor fell prey to the chinnaray much like what is happening in this years campaign.

To the horror of your reporter, the following came to light, creating a stink not unlike an imploded septic tank in August.

Issue 1 Volume 1 of Possum Droppings, (a sleazy rag long noted for it's yellow journalism) cast thinly veiled innuendos and aspersions on other candidates in the lead article titled "All the Possum Queen News that's fit to Print". Mucking at a new low.

This nasty, denigrating article, when it hit the gutters of Milwaukee, raised more than a few sequined eyebrows, understandably causing a good deal of ugly, vicious buzz and tilted wigs. To be sure, things will not be the same again.

Is nothing sacred one can ask. What sleazy, over ripe and underhanded villification can we next expect?

It is as an ambassador of peace and ameliorator, that this brave reporter dares to put a toe in this pile of dodo. Stirring the pot to investigate the facts so you my loyal readers, have all you need to know to make a intelligent decision when you cast your many votes.

With trepidation befitting an experienced egg walker, this reporter crashed a hastily called impromptu meeting of the afore-mentioned and wannabees, gathered over prebrunch boiler-makers to discuss the issues.

Robert's Rules of Order were used to wedge one old queen to a bar stool.

False Fact one. The afore-mentioned publication claims or at least insinuates, that Nelly Mae Jones's name, forgoing her ravishing beauty (except when smiling), would alone carry her to the title.

"Nay" spaketh her detractors, including such noted names as Dayla Drama, Dinah Thirst, Jackie O Gasm (charming photo enclosed) Tammi Nadene Troutspring and a host of others vying for the title. "It ain't got class" they shouted as one.

A sub committee was appointed to plot the strategy designed to leave the bad mouthing, helium heeled bitch planted on a hydrant, where she has a chance to find a mate.

False Fact 2. and I quote the biased comment of J. St Clair, "There's simply a lack of good possum queen names"

"Ain't neither so" sputtered Althia Later, whos

Running for Possum Queen, Jackie O Gasm

gay nerves was visibly shaken. Slamming down a side of Black Label, she added, "that copyright infringing witch even stole my effective campaign slogan, of 'Vote early and vote often'"

So stressed was the reigning queen, she dashed off a royal proclamation on a brandy soaked Blatz coaster which this reporter alone possesses and deems necessary to share with you.

With flared nostrals and pinky with wedgies dug in, She wrote "Althea Later, 1995 reigning P. O. is monitoring this year (race). She is expected to turn over her crown at the finale (coronation) on Mother's Day, May 12th. IF in Her opinion the leading amount raised doesn't top her votes ($5,300.00) A.L. will add up to $1,000.00 to the highest amount and retain her crown."

No sacrifice is too great nor price too high for the honor of wearing the Possum Queen Tiara, hand crafted by spot welders in the basement of Goldmans of Mitchell Steet.

The meeting was adjourned when De De Diavon's (again, the umlaut) snorting of au jus juice was mistook as a second and two power nappers when elbowed grunted approval.

HIV SERVICE PROVIDERS UNITE

Three Milwaukee area providers of HIV/AIDS services have announced the establishment of United HIV Services.

UHS is a cooperative venture of BESTD Clinic, STD Specialties Clinic and St. Camillus HIV/AIDS Ministry. Brother Stephen E. Braddock, Ph.D, executive director of St. Camillus, comments, "U.H.S. is committed to providing a continuum of quality, wholistic care and support to persons infected or affected by HIV disease."

Ross Walker, BESTD Clinic president says the three partners "model cooperation between service providers and promote sensitivity to all individuals regardless of race, religious beliefs, age, gender, sexual orientation or disability."

Brother Braddock said, "As we discern and develop new initiatives and services for the months ahead, such as case management, early intervention and more programs for women and children, U.H.S. will stay focused on what is best for the people we support. It's long past time to make collaboration more than a buzz word."

And Fred (Casey) Reilly, RN, executive director of STD Specialties, agrees, adding, "We're all in this together. The more united we are, the more effective we are."

CREAM CITY CHORUS HAS NEW BOARD

Election to four executive board positions was accomplished at the annual meeting of Wisconsin Cream City Chorus on April 17.

President Matt Pamperin was re-elected to a second term, having assumed the vacated office last October.

The other three positions were all filled by newcomers: Evelyn "Bahtyah" Jones, vice president; Chuck Ellingson, secretary, and Kris Mixdorf, treasurer.

Publicist Emory Churness was confirmed for a third term.

The chorus' spring concert, Bridging Dreams, will be held June 15, 8 pm, at MCPA Vogel Hall.

Info on the chorus is available by writing PO Box 1488, Milwaukee, WI 53201, or calling 344-WCCC.
