Papa Joe

Hauled ass back from the Black Hills (PAHA SAPA), So. Dakota in just under 15 hours, too tired to sleep so went to the Oberons Club nite at The 1100 Club. Nice turnout and nice fantasies put on by Mr. SE Fantasy, Mr. SE Wis Leather, Mr. NorthWoods. The Wisconsin Daddy and Daddy's boy were also there. Sashes for days.

After a few beers, the blood returned to my butt and with it, my mental state improved. I was ready to catch up on the dish I missed. Green Bay area dish came from two Argonauts, Russ and Steve, who were in town for the party. Except for NorthWoods, The ROW Pride Weekend and The Guernsey Queen Contest, ain't nothing going on, certainly nothing dirty.

NorthWoods was in last issue, so The Guernsey Queen Contest is first. Like the Possum Queen Contest, it is a fundraising spoof on contests, raising money for Center Project Inc. It is serious fun and a fair amount of money is raised. It is hard to pick a favorite with such beauties as Brenda, Holly Hot Damn and Miz Mona (nee Inthe) Night in the competition. You maybe should not show bias and vote often for all. The Guernsey Gala is at Napalese Lounge on Aug. 17. Be there or be straight.

NE Wis does its long running Labor day picnic. Now known as Rainbow Over Wisconsin (ROW) Pride Weekend, it is held Sat. & Sun in Memorial Park, Appleton. If you are anywhere near, the picnic is a must. You will enjoy.

Now that the Wreck Room is out of the picture, the rumors are of The 1100 Club. Would you believe, I still run into people who believe they are closed for good. Also heard from someone who quoted a reliable source, (aren't they all) that The Boot Camp was closing October 1. Yah sure.

Maybe I am too damn jaded, but to my way of thinking, this is the product of petty egos and/or low self-esteem. Why don't we talk about important stuff like Leathermen, Leathersex, Leather, Boots and Harleys? Yah man.

Or maybe - The M.A.D. Bar- (Maneuvers After Dark) a whole new bar in Madison is turning out to be a popular spot opening at 9 PM daily, Sundays at 8. This cozy, geared toward Leathermen, bar features daily drink specials and speciality (fetish) nites on Thursday. Also have pool, darts, pinball. Tell em Papa Joe sent you; see if Charles springs for a drink.

And speaking of Madison, Geraldine's will be opening a new bar on the second level called the Men's Room. It will also be a Leather - Levi bar. Work is in progress and some time in September you can expect it to open.

The Castaways MC's, Sat. Aug. 24, beer and soda bust at The 1100 Club in conjunction with the Joe Gallagher, 1996 International Mr. Leather, "Get Linked" project. As mentioned last issue, this is a chain made from individual metal links that you can bring or get there. It is a symbolic thing, a show of unity and strength, for like a chain, every added link makes it harder to deny its worth. If you want, your group or club can get linked together. Nice touch - Sorta warm feeling when you think of it.

Mr. Chicago Leather, 1996, Jeff Affolter will be there and will have chain links available. There is no charge for the links. It starts at 10 PM

The Castaways will donate a portion of the party proceeds to the "Get Linked" project to help defray costs. You can also throw in a buck or two if you wish.

And speaking of links, The Links Block Party is on for Sunday, Sept. 1st, on the street near Fannies and The 1100 Club, within walking distance of Designing Men, The Triangle and the Boot Camp.

Bob of Designing Men is again the ringmaster. According to him, Miller Beer is one of the co-sponsors. They are having 22 hours of entertainment on two stages, live music, female impersonators, a lot of something for everyone. It is a benefit for United HIV Services. Donations accepted and volunteers are needed. Call ASAP. If you need info, call him at 389-1200, or better yet, stop at the store. <http://www.designing-men.com> on the internet

Saturday, Sept. 7th, the Rodeo Riders of Chicago and the Castaways will do a joint club night at The 1100 Club starting at 10 PM. Another fun evening with a beer and soda bust and prizes throughout the evening. For further Castaways information, contact Bob or Tom at 764-1135

Seems that the Men of Rubber (MR) field trip to Milwaukee is on for Sat., Sept. 14. What happens on a field trip, I'm not sure, but what happens at a rubber party, I know. Whether it is open to the public, I don't know. The letter says "If you think that you can possibly attend, please return the questionnaire and we will get additional details to you on times, transportation, cost, accommodations, and directions."

If you have a thing about rubber, this is a must. Probably best to write (see below) for info.

Rich (MR founder), was asking about Milwaukee accommodations six weeks or so ago. He was made aware of the two bars and their facilities and that was the last we heard until we got back from So. Dakota. Waiting for a reply to my E-mail for details.

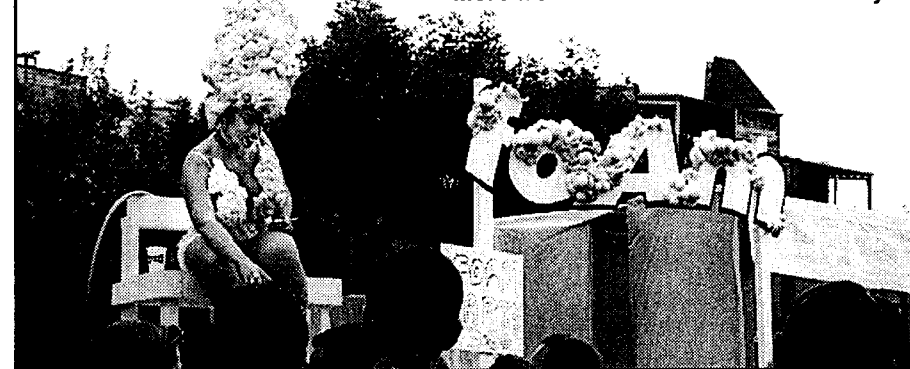

Again, for you rubber folks, MR with co-hosts The leather Knights (Boston), will be doing a Rubber Blowout, Nov. 8-10 at the Chicago Cell Block Bar. The full weekend will include the "Mr. Vulcan Rubber" contest. You rubber enthusiasts will enjoy both events. Tell 'um Papa Joe sent you.

For more info, write Studio R, 3023 N. Clark St., Suite 210. Chicago, IL 60657, 312-506-8747, or Internet at MVR97@aol.com

No brag, they really do have a big deck. La Perla, I mean, they also have consistently good Mexican food, decent margaritas and easy prices. Very popular and casual (even Milwaukee Mayor Norquist in shorts). If you hit the peak times, expect a short wait before being seated.

PAST/OUT

BY DAVID BIANCO

What was the Boise Sex Scandal?

The Fifties were generally a harsh time for gays and lesbians in the United States. The decade of conformity, McCarthyism, and atomic hysteria was also a time of repeated persecutions of gay men and lesbians, who were subject to firings, arrests, and imprisonment in cities across the country. Perhaps the most famous episode - and certainly one of the best-documented - took place in 1956 and 1957 in Boise, Idaho, the tiny (pop. 35,000) food-processing capital of the state of Idaho.

As in many other places, some of the male students at Boise High School in the mid-1950s engaged in mutual masturbation. Some of these students, often from the "tough" crowd, would also allow older men to perform oral sex on them, for a price ranging from a quarter to ten dollars. By targeting men who were rumored to be gay, some of these teenagers were able to collect ever-higher sums of money with threats of exposure.

This situation, not all that different from informal male prostitution in other cities, became a matter of public concern on Halloween 1955, when three adult men were arrested on morals charges. A few days later, the Idaho Daily Statesman published a highly inflammatory editorial urging immediate public action and warning that the arrests had only "scratched the surface" and that the youth of Boise were in danger.

According to the analysis of former Time and Newsweek journalist John Gerassi (whose 1966 book The Boys of Boise remains the most thorough account of the scandal), the Halloween arrests and later prosecutions of several more Boise residents, including highly respected citizens, were a part of an ongoing political struggle within Boise's elites. A group of prominent men, who Gerassi calls the "Boise Gang," used the arrests and publicity to attack their enemies, but the scandal grew out of control and ultimately hurt members of the Gang as well as the reputation of Boise itself. One member of the Gang, whom Gerassi calls "the Queen," was an extremely wealthy gay man who was investigated and never arrested or publicly identified.

Another member of the Gang was a city councilman who had hoped the arrests would eventually reach the brother of a city official with whom he had clashed with. Instead, the councilman's own son was implicated in the scandal, discharged from West Point, and sentenced to three years in a penitentiary for engaging in gay sex.

The effects of the scandal on Boise were widespread. An investigator, fresh from Washington, D.C., where he had worked in the McCarthyist campaign against homosexuals in the State Department, came to Boise and interviewed hundreds of gay and straight men - many of whom were coerced into naming gay friends. The police were deluged with calls, mostly from nervous mothers, accusing specific men of homosexuality. Straight men went out of their way to avoid incriminating appearances - even inviting women to participate in previously all-male poker games.

With coverage in Time and other national outlets, Boise quickly gained a reputation as a locus of gay activity, leading both anti-gay crusaders and men in the Northwest looking for gay sex to label it "Boysy." But as more men were arrested and some were convicted to sentences as high as life in prison, Boise became anathema to gay men, and many left town for friendlier locales. For years thereafter, Boise symbolized oppression in gay circles. The 1972 travel guide The Gay Insider included a description of the scandal in its "Idaho" section, along with the warning: "Stay out of Idaho." When in 1977 similar accusations of a "sex ring" involving gay sex with children threatened Boston's gay community, the organization formed to oppose a government witch-hunt called itself the "Boston/Boise Committee" in an explicit analogy to the scandal from two decades earlier.

The situation for gays in Boise itself has improved somewhat. Boise's first pride parade was held in 1990, although one participant marched with a bag over his or her head. In 1994, Idaho voters narrowly defeated a Colorado-style anti-gay amendment. And according to the editor of Idaho's largest gay publication, Diversity, the city now has three or four gay and lesbian bars, depending on how you count.

David Bianco, M.A., teaches gay and lesbian history at the Institute of Gay and Lesbian Education in West Hollywood. If there's anything about the history of gays and/or lesbians you've always wondered about, contact him care of this newspaper or through his E-mail address: AriBianco@aol.com. "Past Out" appears twice a month.

RAINBOW OVER WISCONSIN PRIDE WEEKEND LINEUP

Final arrangements have been made in preparation for Rainbow Over Wisconsin's Pride Weekend to be held over Labor Day Weekend, Saturday, August 31 and Sunday, September 1. This is the first major fundraising effort for the recently formed non-profit organization located in the Fox Valley.

The weekend begins on Saturday, August 31 with a 9 pin tap bowling tournament at Riviera Lanes, 2450 University Avenue in Green Bay. Cost of this event is $25.00 per bowler and includes the shoes, a buffet and a donation to ROW. Registration is 1 p.m. and bowling begins at 2 p.m. Bowlers from Milwaukee, Madison, Appleton and Green Bay are expected to participate.

A Pride Picnic at Memorial Park in Appleton will follow on Sunday, September 1, from noon until 6 p.m. There is no cover charge for the picnic. Hamburgers, brats, soda and beer will be sold at the site and proceeds from the sales will go to ROW's fund for distribution later this year. A bus is available for Green Bay participants for $3.00. The bus will leave Brandy's II parking lot at 10:45 a.m. and Napalese parking lot at 11:00 a.m. and will return to Green Bay at 6 p.m. Quest has been told people from Wausau, Green Bay, Appleton, Sheboygan, Milwaukee and Madison are attending. There may also be people from as far away as Eau Claire and the Upper Peninsula.

The Traveling Companion

By Jess Littleman

I've really had a good month. Things with Randy have been going very well. It's really nice to have a stable, loving, normal relationship.

Randy is the best. But I've discovered something else about myself over the last few months. Besides looking for love (sometimes in the wrong places), I've discovered something as important--good friendship. One in particular is my friend John.

We met each other through a mutual friend, and found out we have a lot of interests in common, not the least that we work in similar fields. We've even worked together on a few projects. We would also see each other out at the bars occasionally.

A few months ago we were discussing our jobs and how we wish our respective companies would allow us to check out some new computer equipment. After a couple of beers and compiling some information, we decided to take a road trip down to Milwaukee to attend a seminar on a Monday morning.

"Have you ever been out in Milwaukee?" John asked me after we enrolled. The way he phrased, I assumed correctly the meaning of the word out. "No, I've never had the opportunity before," I replied, hoping he would catch the hint. It had been about three months since I even had a weekend off.

John takes a swig of his beer and smiles from ear to ear. "I know a cheap place to stay the weekend, and I know the bars." Right On! I thought to myself. We made some extra phone calls, and made a one-day seminar into a weekend business trip. Schwing!

In a nutshell, the seminar was great, even though John and I were hung over from the rest of the weekend. We caught an independent film at a Landmark Theatre (my request), ate lunch at the M&M (excellent food, cute waiter in a delightful atmosphere!) and, of course, checked out the nightlife. Not to dis the cute boys attending the clubs--and they were out and aplenty--John and I were almost more interested in the club setups. I, of course, got a major ego boost seeing a guy at one of the bars reading my article in Quest.

Sunday night we stayed in one of downtown Milwaukee's finest hotels--The Washington. It looks like the building from the series The Odd Couple. After cruising the bartender at Zipper's (this is before I met Mr. Right, mind you), we got back to our sixth floor room, ready to collapse.

Instead of crashing, however, we stayed up, smoking up a storm, talking about our lives. As it turns out, we were at similar points in our lives. We both have careers and jobs within them; we both were single gay men looking for some sort of relationship longer than the next morning; we both were trying to quit the cigarettes we were inhaling--tomorrow. We also came up with even something more important in common--we were not attracted to each other whatsoever. We had discovered this earlier at a dance bar when one of the patrons started talking to us and asked if John and I were "together." We looked at each other, and I must have had this really goofy look on my face, because John took a spittake with his mixer. After he dried his mouth, John turned to the other man and answered, "No, Jess and I are just friends."

Just Friends. An interesting phrase. Since our trip to Milwaukee, we've gone to Chicago and are planning a trip out to California under the pretense of training on new equipment, and I get to show him my old stomping grounds. We talk all the time about, well, you name it--work, life, love, sex, money, the bar scene, and friendship. We talk about working together professionally, even talking about going into business for ourselves--not too seriously, but he's the type of person I would like to go into business with. John is an OK guy.

In short, John is my really good friend.
