from the publisher...

In our previous issue I mentioned you should write me with your comments and suggestions; some people have. We are taking these suggestions under careful consideration and will use the ones we are able to. You may have noticed we changed our banner to read Quest, Wisconsin LesBiGayTrans Entertainment. This was a result of a suggestion made by a group from Milwaukee.

I have always considered the word gay to stand for the entire homosexual community. In today's politically correct climate, LesBiGay is preferred. The suggestion was made to include transsexuals as well and so we now have LesBiGayTrans. What a mouthful! I still prefer to use just the word gay, but I made the change to indicate we include all elements of our community.

Another change you can look forward to are expanded calendars which will include Minneapolis/St. Paul bar events. We will be adding this information as it comes back to us beginning in our next issue, the first one of year four. We will also increase the number of copies sent to the Twin Cities as well. You can thank several readers from the Twin Cities for these suggestions.

We are working on maps for Milwaukee, Madison & Green Bay which we will use when space permits. These make it easier for an out of town guests to find their way around.

I want to take a minute to ask you to thank our advertisers. They pay for Quest so that it is free to you. Free including the classifieds! We think Quest is an outstanding value for everyone concerned.

We are all excited about beginning our fourth year and to find ourself still growing! If anyone would like to appear on the cover, please send me a photograph of yourself along with your address and phone number to:

ODDS 'N ENDS

by Jess Littleman

It's amazing what someone can accumulate in a lifetime. Hell, fourteen days can be miraculous enough. Here we go...

I need to be more careful with my spellchecker; last article should have said I had "...a lowkey Christmas..." not a "...lackey Christmas..." Apologies to those of you scurrying to your pocket dictionary!

It's three days before my vacation. I get my airline ticket and discover the departure day is incorrect. I panic. I stress. I call the airline and discover all other possible flights are booked. I worry that I may get fired. Turns out, the boss is glad I'm burning my vacation days. Who knew?

I call my sister, just to talk, no big whoop. We discuss the most influential trait we inherit from our parents: Passive Aggressiveness. It affects our personal lives and our respective relationships with our boyfriends. We also discuss the ultimate in P.A. religions--Lutheran Christianity. We have just been recently excommunicated from our church in a way so energetically unassertive it was amazing.

I go to a bar after work. Some unnamed heterosexual employee takes my keys as a joke, just mere hours after I have replaced all of them from a theft that occurred at the locale. I do eventually get my new set back, along with his pager. My revenge? Any number I receive, I will be polite and return the phone call, explaining how my "snookums" can't come to the phone right now because he's shaving his pubes. I pray his grandmother calls.

Guys are hitting on me again:

Sunday, downstairs, looks like eighteen going on twelve. Not my type, but it's fun to look back while I'm dancing.

On my way out of Naps, attractive, hair covering eyes just enough to disguise his age in a cut popular five years ago with teenagers. The jacket he wears looks like the one I got at Christmas, but isn't mine. We lock gazes; I walk back to my car alone on purpose.

The Aussie is back in town. All over tan, down ten pounds in all of the right spots, new job with a raise. Sex with him is great; I hope he gets some. It's all Greek To Me. I think these new fonts are fucking with my hard drive. One the paragraphs in this article keeps on rewriting itself in Greek.

I get a call from Mark in Madison early Monday morning. We talk the talk of friends in different cities catching up. His upcoming vacation is to his timeshare on the Gulf of Mexico. Mine is out West to the mountain towns and the ski resorts. We're each going with our current men. Our pictures deserve to be lithographed next to Ed McMahon's & Dick Clark's on the envelope just under the phrase LOOK AT THESE PEOPLE WHO ARE NOW BIG WINNERS!!!

Mark says to me, "You said you had a question for me." "Oh, yeah," I clear my throat a little uncomfortably, "The last time I saw you said you had something you wanted to discuss with me. But when I asked you about it, you said it's not important now. I know I should just let sleeping dogs lay, but..." "Oh, I don't even remember now. Don't worry about that. Sorry." Hmmm. Am I reading into this, or is he being cagey? I was curious before, now my inquisitometer is reading off the scale!

Jerald told me the other day he wants me to look for the next apartment he's going to live in. Implication: I'm going there, too. I've worn out my welcome playing houseboy to straight couple Robert & Lu, and I'd like to live in the city again. Besides, I practically live with J now--I sleep, eat, cook--hell, I do my laundry there. I guess the part that scares me is Jerald is going to buy a house in a year. I'm sure he wants me to settle in with him there, and I don't know if I'm ready for that. Ugh. Well, at least we'll have something to talk about on the flight...

Well, my last load of laundry is almost done. I need to shower, go to work and get my coworkers prepared for the next couple of days sans homo importante. I'll see you when I get back.

QUEST PUBLISHER RESPONDS TO SI SMITS!

Prior to my responding, it is important that we share Si Smits' letter of Jan. 10, 1997, on Boot Camp Saloon stationery.

THE BOOT CAMP SALOON

209 E. NATIONAL AVE., MILWAUKEE, WI 53204
(414) 643-6900

January 10, 1997

Quest Magazine
P.O. Box 1961
Green Bay, WI 54305

Dear Mark:

Today I am writing to you in regards to Mr. Malliens article in Volume 3, Issue 25, concerning my business and the police problems that have occurred in Milwaukee.

Mr. Mallien may have been a customer at the time of the incident, however I don't feel this qualifies him to report on the incident unless he gets all the facts correct. Once again he has reported only what he wants, making innuendos and telling lies. Have you or Mr. Mallien ever considered contacting the source of the news article before going to press? Is your reporter writing a gossip column, an editorial, or a news article? I consider this bad journalism, and hope this kind of journalism won't get your publication into trouble some day.

I am requesting that the Boot Camp's listing under Leather/Levi bars be removed from the Quest publication. Also, I further request that any reference to me or my business, or any innuendos and/or comments be deleted from Mr. Malliens articles. Lastly, I ask that you do not deliver the Quest magazine to the Boot Camp Saloon. If your policies change in the future I may reconsider.

Si Smits
Si Smits

IN RESPONSE....

Mr. Smits, I was not present at your place of business when the reported incident occurred; consequently, it would not be appropriate for me to comment one way or another, and will not.

Mr. Mallien writes a column, as most everyone knows, under his byline. As a matter of policy, I do not (nor would I even consider it) tamper with the text of his column, except, perhaps to correct punctuation. (He ain't no expert in that department.)

We consider it our duty and privilege to allow you, or any other reader, to sound off to us...and, to our readers throughout Wisconsin, the Twin Cities and Chicago areas as well.

The listing of your club will not be removed; it is a service to our readers and must be as accurate as possible. Mr. Mallien's column will not be edited; we will cease to deliver Quest to your club, showing respect for your First Amendment right to control your own place of business, pursuant to the laws of the City of Milwaukee and State of Wisconsin.

I see the whole matter as a First Amendment issue for all parties; you are welcome (as we've proven by printing your letter verbatim) to state your case.

Please know I have a healthy respect for you as a businessman. We appreciate the ads you've placed during our first three years of publication, and welcome you as a steady advertiser in the future.

--Mark Mariucci, Publisher

PAST/OUT

BY DAVID BIANCO

January 30, 1946 (51 years ago this week): A Congressional Special Committee releases its report on the "Blue Discharges."

What were "blue discharges"?

During the Second World War, military personnel who were removed from service because of suspected or confirmed homosexuality were often given "Section Eight" discharges on blue paper, which became known as "blue discharges." The struggles of lesbian and gay veterans to overcome the discrimination and prejudice related to their blue discharges were among the first organized political struggles by gays and lesbians in the United States.

Army psychologist William C. Menninger described the typical situation as follows: "A man on his own initiative, or because of noticeable difficulty in adjusting himself, might visit or be sent to a psychiatrist for consultation. When it was found that the basis of the difficulty was homosexuality, if this was reported to his commanding officer, the man probably received a blue discharge, or perhaps would be tried. Objections to this were raised by many homosexual individuals, whose request for help from a medical officer ended up in a discharge 'without honor.' This action undermined confidence in medical officers. Furthermore, the Army required that doctors report even those statements given in confidence in a consultation room."

Blue discharges - which were also given for non-gay-related reasons - fell in a category between dishonorable discharges (which were usually given to military personnel convicted of homosexual acts) and honorable discharges (which were sometimes available to gay and lesbian soldiers with otherwise impeccable records). Still, they carried with them the stigma of less-than-honorable service as well as practical obstacles for the gay and straight soldiers and sailors who received them. Blue discharges (whose stories are told in detail in Allan Berube's Coming Out Under Fire) would be stripped of their uniforms and medals and forced to return in shame to the draft boards of their home communities to present their discharge papers. The military justified these procedures in part as a way of discouraging straight soldiers from feigning homosexuality to evade service.

But the worst indignity of the blue discharges was the denial of benefits under the GI Bill. Veterans with honorable discharges received thousands of dollars in monetary benefits in the areas of education, housing, and credit - but the Veterans Administration refused to make such benefits available to those with blue discharges.

Approximately one-fifth of the blue-discharge veterans were African-American, in part because some racist commanders used the blue discharge as a way to punish black soldiers and sailors in their command. In response to this inequity, black leaders - led by the black newspaper The Pittsburgh Courier - urged Americans to pressure the government to bring relief to those denied benefits because of their blue discharges.

Many did, including gay and lesbian veterans who resented their blue discharges. One lesbian former officer wrote an anonymous letter to the Army publication Yank in which she complained of having received a blue discharge when a lesbian affair was discovered. She wrote, "The public in general is uneducated in the psychology of handling my type of discharge, hence I find it embarrassing and impossible to elucidate upon just why I left the [Women's Army Corps]."

A congressional subcommittee chaired by Congressman Carl T. Durham of North Carolina investigated the situation, and its report (released on January 30, 1946) found fault with the system that punished the blue discharges without any due process. It even singled out gay discharges as victims of unfair treatment, charging that the Veterans Administration should be stopped "from passing moral verdicts on the history of any soldier." Blue discharges should be abolished, the report concluded.

The combination of public pressure and the Durham committee's report led to a temporary reprieve for holders of blue discharges, many of whom found success by appealing their individual cases. And in May 1947, the Army abolished the blue discharges altogether, replacing it in most cases with a general discharge for unsuitability. But the good news was not shared by gays and lesbians, who were specifically excluded from receiving general discharges. More than one observer has linked this exclusion with the growing concern about rivalry with the Soviet Union, in which gays were seen as potential security risks.

Without such public "scarlet letters," many gay and lesbian veterans would otherwise have returned to the closet or perhaps opposite-sex marriages and conventional lives. But the very public discriminatory treatment itself led to group consciousness, as experience of the blue-discharges led to a growing sense among American gays and lesbians that they were a minority group that suffered official prejudice. Although it took another several years for such specific language to be applied to their situation, gays and lesbians were already beginning to band together to discuss and address their challenges in society.

David Bianco, M.A., teaches gay and lesbian history at the Institute of Gay and Lesbian Education in West Hollywood. The author of Modern Jewish History for Everyone, he can be reached care of this publication or through his E-mail address: AriBianco@aol.com.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY Wisconsin's L/L Daddy's boy, Cortez B. Many more, how was dinner?

Because of the next 2 issues of Quest being 3-weekers instead of two, the next two deadlines are FEB. 4 and FEB. 25.

B 4 I go any further and because of Si' Smits' (Boot Camp) letter, which I understand will be in this issue, I have only heard about, I want to reaffirm that this column is a voice for the Leather, Levi and Fetish Club Community. You as a person/club of that community, as well persons who are interested in us, are the ones I hope this column serves. To be sure, there are many who can do it better, but so far no volunteers. I admit I do go into dish, hopefully factual, I do kid around and I am not afraid to mouth off (editorialize) when I feel mouthing off will be informative or serve a useful purpose. This column is like a letter to and about friends with whom we want to keep in touch. I take full responsibility for what is written and will not devote any of this column as a response to that letter. That doesn't mean I won't respond.

By now you have seen all the hot poop and press releases regarding the February 1st, Leather Swap Meet, beer bust and after hours party at The 1100 Club. This promises to be a hot time attracting a lot of hot men. The Pigsville Heights Bed and Breakfast is filling up with folks from Minneapolis, Chicago and other points.

Vendors, space is going fast, so contact Bob of Wholesale Boots (414) 682-8880, if interested. A local leather artist is premiering his work during the swap meet. I have seen some of his work, and I think you will enjoy the energy he brings to the boot scene.

And, a reminder of 1100 Club's Club Appreciation Buffet, on Sunday, February 2nd. All clubs in the upper Midwest have been invited. It's free, of course, but for food preparation purposes, let them know how many are in your group.

By the next issue, I will have info as to how the above events went as well as The Argonauts Anniversary Party and the Mid-Atlantic Leather Contest which Lee and I are taking in with friends.

Missed the Oberons January 11 Club night, but we heard it was jammed for Jerry and Warren's uniform fantasy. According to my sources, it was hotter than all get out. Look for them to do more soon. Maybe Feb. 1??

While on the subject of Warren and uniforms, It was officially announced at that club night Warren is pulling together a uniform group. If you want more information, see Warren, who works Thursday nights at SWS Docks for their leather/levi night.

From Unicorns of Madison, Richie L., President, edited from an E-mail. He stated the Club had not missed any of the expectations and goals established six months prior and new member Rod's initiation was fun and special. They have four new pledges, Don S., Gustavo G., Richard M., and Jason C. Pledge Timmy was welcomed back.

Regarding the Annual Winter Dinner, I quote

"Fantasy" From the Mr. Southeastern Wisconsin Leather

directly. "The most significant signal of our successes was the Annual Winter Dinner held at the home our gracious Pledge Master John. It was fun to see everyone. The food from the Blue Plate Catering was excellent. The dinner was wonderfully garnished with attentive and handsome waiters Kiro and Phil. And, don't forget the beauty and fun of the "human punch bowl" and the "living two-branched Christmas tree." Everyone overall helped to make the night fun and smooth."

Regarding the GLSTN High School Scholarship Fund-raiser, Saturday, Jan. 25, 1997 9:00 pm, Richie said "It's hoped we can raise $500.00 for GLSTN Scholarships offered to gay/les/bi teens. Larry Palm, a coordinator for the scholarship, is excited about the Unicorns possible contribution to the fund. I'll firm up more of the details at the next meeting."

Quote "One of the last things that Robert tried to accomplish after the destruction of the Hotel, was a regular bar schedule for the club. The purpose of this not only benefit the membership; it's also for the leather boys that follow the group and for out of town people to know where we will be when visiting Madison. It may change, but for now this is what is arranged. R Place, Wednesday Nights; Shamrock, Friday Nights; Manoeuvres, Saturday Nights."

Oberons Bob, Tim & Mike

Richie signed off as follows. "Well, I guess I had a lot to say. The club is doing great, and getting better. It's nice to see. I think we're just out there having fun, yet still getting things done. I guess that's what the brotherhood is about."

You got it right, guy, it works that-a-way. Keep us posted on your progress. We will catch up with you at the 1100 Club for the Swap Meet and/or dinner.

Oberons club night in February 8, 10 PM to 1 AM at Mama Roux, Valentine theme. A $5.00 beer bust with a 20-inch mountain bike being given away.

For the benefit of you folks in the NW part of WI, we will be mentioning the Club scene activities in Minneapolis area, this is especially needed now that The Main Club is gone. Quest is already in many of the area bars; it is now a matter to get the clubs and special interest groups to advise. If you belong to or know of any that you feel should be involved, let them or me know. Write to Quest or e mail PPAJOE@aol.com -- That's if you can get on AOL.

Minneapolis, Black Frost 20, the anniversary run of the Black Guard is Feb. 14-16th. This is an in-town run that is a lot of fun. A group from Chicago and Milwaukee take the train on Thursday and come back on Monday, making this weekend five-day party. Get in touch with the Castaways MC if interested in the train ride.

If you recall a few issues back, I mentioned Jeff E was going to confirm the Firebirds bar night schedule. I am told by hearsay, The Firebirds info line and by a note in a holiday flyer, The Firebirds will hold a bar night of some nature every first Saturday of the month at the Boot Camp Saloon.

There are several reasons I ask you to questioned this. Sometime back, I reported one of their events incorrectly making it directly in conflict with another club's event. When I was set straight, rightly so, it was pointed out, they may schedule events in conjunction, but never opposite another club's event.

As published in early fall and again early winter, the scheduled listed for the clubs show the Castaways MC have that day traditionally. Don't be surprised if there are changes. For now you are on your own. I'll report any change as it comes in.

Well, out of room again, but did want to say the information I was told about the meeting with Chief Davis was incorrect. It was not open to the public and the time I was told was 1/2 hour after it was scheduled to end. If you tried to get in based on my report, I'm sorry. The person who told me wouldn't talk to me after the meeting. Was I set up? Nah, not by a pillar of our community?? When will I ever learn??

Later Dudes, and remember Dr. M.L. King Jr. made us all freer, we have to do the rest.

Our primary purpose is to stay sexually sober and to help others achieve sexual sobriety. Members are encouraged to develop their own sexual recovery plan, and to define sexual sobriety for themselves. We are not here to repress our God-given sexuality, but to learn how to express it in ways that will not make unreasonable demands on our time and energy, place us in legal jeopardy - or endanger our mental, physical or spiritual health."

Still quoting from SCA literature, the question is asked..."What is a sexual recovery plan, and do I have to stick to a list of SCA 'rules' in making one up?"

Their answer: "A sexual recovery plan is a personal listing of sexually-related behaviors that we believe to be unhealthy, self-destructive, dangerous, obsessive, degrading, or simply unwise. This list may include things that fuel our addiction of that 'trigger' us and make us want to act out our compulsion. It is a list of our bottomline compulsive behaviors from which we wish to abstain on a one-day-at-a-time basis. These are the things we are ready and willing to give up and which we attempt to turn over to our Higher Power. The list is balanced, on the other side, by those things we want to reward ourselves with and add to our lives in recovery. These rewards are a very important aspect of the plan. They may consist of personal, professional and spiritual goals that we sacrificed through "acting out" our compulsive patterns. They may be as specific or as general as you desire. Many members, especially newcomers, find this side of the recovery plan especially difficult because they are accustomed to thinking of themselves as unworthy and undeserving of rewards, but the rewards should not be neglected. They are the things that make staying in recovery worthwhile.

"The plan may be unwritten or written. However, the Program suggests that the sexual recovery plan be written. A written plan is clearer, more concrete, easier to remember and is the vehicle by which we measure our sobriety."

dent. "Hopefully, we'll be able to find a director soon and will be back at least for Christmas '97."

Until a new director can be found, the thirty members of the group will meet socially and participate in fundraising activities for the chorus during the interim period, as well as possibly sing in smaller groups in area clubs. The chorus board will continue to meet periodically to conduct business and, hopefully, interview candidates for the director position.

Persons who may be interested in the director position are encouraged to call Richter in Green Bay at (414) 469-2969. Rehearsals are usually held on Sunday nights September through May at Union Congregational Church in Green Bay. Salary is negotiable.

The reward of directing experience and the chance to work with a fun and growing choral group awaits the right person!

"Those Who Fail to Learn History Are Doomed to Repeat it Again & Again & Again..."

New York City--On Feb. 12, the Lesbian & Gay Community Services Center will host author and historian Martin Duberman to discuss "Queer Politics; Then & Now." Admission is free and open to the public.

Lesbian and gay people have been historically excluded from conduits of public discourse such as media, publishing and politics. Today, however, many modern lesbian and gay figures such as Mike Signorile, Camile Paglia, Gabriel Rotello and Andrew Sullivan enjoy the exposure of pop media analysis afforded to gay people. But, in fact, controversial issues such as assimilation, "outing" and marriage rights have pre-dated their arrival into the queer movement. Most Americans (gay and straight) do not know these issues have already been debated by the earlier generations such as the founders of the Mattachine Society (1950s), Daughters of Bilitus (1950s) and the Gay Liberation Front (GLF - 1970s) during a much less visible time.

Former director and founder of the Center for Lesbian and Gay Studies at the City University of New York, Martin Duberman is a noted historian and author. His recent titles include "Queer Representations," "A Queer World: the Center for Lesbian and Gay Studies Reader," "Midlife Queer" and "Stonewall."

Ben Stulp, communications director at the Center, said, "Once the queer community has the opportunity to learn, understand and interpret our own past, we will be more effective in dealing with the issues and obstacles we continue to confront. Ultimately, the gay community must master the lessons of other historic movement to profit from the victories of battles previously fought, instead of being thrilled with ourselves for having these repetitive debates. The Center's National Archive and the lectures and forums it sponsors are intended to empower our movement as well as to entertain participants."

It's About COMPULSIVE SEX

Todd and Peter (not their real names) are members of Milwaukee's Sexual Compulsives Anonymous (SCA) group. Both are addicted to sex -- "a disease," they declare, and both have found their lives again and are now "sexually sober," largely as a result of their association with SCA.

Todd has been active in SCA for two and a half years and says it's resulted in "finding my life again." Having anonymous sex four or five times a week was not unusual; on the advice of his therapist, Todd checked out SCA. "After my first meeting, it was like ding-ding-ding. I'm home! I knew that was the place for me to be. There is a way out of the disease!"

Todd and Peter met with Quest recently to share information about SCA and their individual lives.

"SCA is a 12-step program, based on Alcoholics Anonymous, and it works," Peter attested.

My problem was anonymous sex, phone sex and pornography. I couldn't stop doing it, even though I wanted to stop doing it, I couldn't. I would tell myself I'm not going to go out and cruise anymore and I'd spend four hours cruising."

Milwaukee's SCA group meets four times every week: Tues. & Thurs., 7 pm, at the Galano Club, 2408 N. Farwell Ave.; Fridays, 7 pm, at Milwaukee AIDS Project, 820 N. Plankinton Ave., and Sundays at 6 pm at the Galano Club. (These meetings are listed in the Night by Night section of every issue of Quest.) The SCA hot line number is (414) 299-0755.

Here's SCA's Statement of Purpose:

"Sexual Compulsives Anonymous is a fellowship of men and women who share their experience, strength and hope with each other, but they may solve their common problem and help others to recover from sexual compulsion. The only requirement for membership is a desire to stop having compulsive sex. There are no dues or fees for SCA membership; we are self-supporting through our own contributions. SCA is not allied with any sect, denomination, politics, organization, or institution; does not wish to engage in any controversy; neither endorses nor opposes any
