PAST/OUT

BY DAVID BIANCO

August 30, 1975 (22 years ago this month): Sgt. Leonard Matlovich's picture appears on Time Magazine's cover with the words, "I am a Homosexual."

Who was Leonard Matlovich?

Long before Keith Meinhold, Tracy Thorne, and Zoe Dunning dominated the gays-in-the-military headlines, Sergeant Leonard Matlovich brought attention to the military's policies of discharging homosexuals, whatever their service record.

The son of a career Air Force serviceman, Matlovich joined his father's branch of the service a year out of high school, in 1963, and immediately volunteered to go to Vietnam. In the year before he was granted his request, he became involved in Republican politics, campaigning for ultraconservative presidential candidate Barry Goldwater. Despite his Catholic faith and conservative politics, Matlovich's private sexual thoughts were exclusively towards other men.

His service in Vietnam was exemplary by all accounts, winning him both a Bronze Star and a Purple Heart - but contrary to military expectations, he continued to find himself drawn to his fellow servicemen. These feelings troubled Matlovich, as they distracted from his primary motivation to serve his country with honor. Eager for a way of life that was even more hierarchical and authoritarian than the military, Matlovich was baptized into the Mormon Church in the South China Sea in 1968.

But Matlovich continued struggling with gay feelings, which became politicized after he began teaching racial sensitivity courses to servicemembers as part of the military's efforts to combat racism among the troops. At one point, he asked his students who the most discriminated-against group in America was, and when they answered "blacks" or "Jews," he wrote the word "homosexuals." Soon, Matlovich's class was debating the military's exclusion of gay and lesbian personnel, and one of the students mentioned the name of a local gay bar. Intent on doing "research," Matlovich went to it one evening, met another man, and had his first sexual experience.

Increasingly, Matlovich wanted to integrate his burgeoning homosexuality with his loyalty to the armed services. He also recognized that his medals and his all-American background made him an idea test case in a court challenge to the ban on openly gay servicemembers. So he contacted Franklin Kameny, a long-time D.C. gay activist who himself had successfully challenged the government's discrimination against gay employees. Kameny urged Matlovich to consider the implications of coming out on his career, but once Matlovich indicated he was sure he wanted to mount a challenge, Kameny helped Matlovich find a lawyer.

In March, 1975, Matlovich delivered a letter to his superior officer in which he indicated that "my sexual preferences are homosexual as opposed to heterosexual" and urged a waiver of the military's anti-gay policies in light of his continuing abilities to perform his duties.

At first, the Office of Special Investigations didn't even believe him. Its agents demanded that Matlovich offer proof that he was actually gay and not just trying to make a political point. While the sergeant refused to "out" other gay personnel, he did write a letter in which he indicated having engaged in specific sexual acts.

While awaiting an administrative hearing on whether Matlovich should be discharged, the sergeant faced decidedly mixed reactions from other military personnel. Several of his non-gay coworkers at Langley Air Force base, particularly those who were African-American, came to his defense, insisting his case was one of civil rights. Others were less supportive, and Matlovich even received threatening phone calls and gunfire aimed at his home. At one point, Matlovich was ordered to conduct an after-hours inspection of a barracks of young servicemen, and he was convinced he was being tested to see if he would stare at the half-naked bodies under his command. But the reaction of many service members was disbelief, as expressed by the sergeant who told Matlovich, "You can't have a Purple Heart and a Bronze Star and suck cock."

By this time, Matlovich's case had attracted broad media attention, including the honor of being the first openly gay man to be pictured on the cover of Time.

At his hearing, testimony on the nature of homosexuality was offered, along with the inconsistent fashion in which the Uniform Code of Military Justice was enforced. (Adultery and wife-swapping allegations were never investigated, the defense pointed out, unlike charges of homosexuality.) But the presiding judge made it clear that the board would have to base its decision on whether Matlovich was violating current regulations, not the fairness or constitutionality of those regulations. Matlovich lost and was given a general (less than honorable) discharge.

Matlovich appealed, and in December 1978 the U.S. Court of Appeals ruled that his discharge had been illegal - and that a lower court should determine whether he should be reinstated. Almost two years later, a judge ordered the Air Force to reinstate Matlovich, but the Air Force - desperate to keep Matlovich a civilian - offered the former sergeant a tax-free $160,000 settlement. To the surprise of many observers - and the rage of many gay activists, Matlovich took the money, citing his dim prospects of winning a government appeal to an increasingly conservative Supreme Court.

In 1988, Matlovich died of AIDS. His gravestone in Arlington National Cemetery reads, "When I was in the military, they gave me a medal for killing two men, and a discharge for loving one."

of attention.

J: I like being "the superstar." I like the fifty or hundred people looking at me...

D: It's a release from being an everyday, ordinary person with a regular life. Up here, everybody wants to be, or touch—they know who you are.

JL: What are the hazards of this line of work?

J: Well, if you do what they call "private parties"...there's always a danger at that.

D: People who expect anything more [than what's happening onstage.]

JL: What about the customers? I always wondered about the "proper etiquette" we audience members should observe with strippers. What's OK, what's not?

J: Something that happens all of the time that kind of gets on my nerves after a while is they always want to grab at you and pull you out [of your g-string]. They wanna hold it in their hand...

D: ...you know what's all right with your own self; you know what's too much for you, or what's not...

K: For me, it doesn't bother me that, y'know, what goes on. It just depends on what state you're in and what their laws are—what you can get away with. If you're in Cincinnati, Ohio, where [the customers] are not even supposed to touch you—hand to hand only. [The clubs] are known to have vice cops in there, and if [the customers] go to grab at you, it really freaks me out. I get scared, because...they'll say you let it happen, and you could get locked up. Other than that...if you're in a state that's cool, it doesn't bother me. It's what I'm here for.

JL: Is Wisconsin a "touchy feely" state?

K: Yes.

J: I'm cool with it, though—it doesn't bother me!

JL: How does Green Bay compare to the other locales you perform in?

J: This is one of the better cities where we dance. It's a shame that it's so far away—it's one of the better tipping cities.

JL: You'd think it's not that far from Indianapolis, but you have to drive, and there's no quick way getting around the Great Lakes. Do you guys perform other gigs on the way, or is it a straight shot up here to Green Bay?

D: No. It's like: We did Indianapolis Thursday night, then we came here tonight, then we're to Eau Claire tomorrow. From there, it's a straight shot home [to Louisville.]

JL: Let's switch gears again: The apparel you wear up onstage. Where the hell do you get stuff like that?

D: I have mine made.

K: Specially made.

J: Me, too. You can go to certain specialty shops.

K: The only one shop in Louisville that has specialty items...

J: ...not in adult bookstores most of the time.

D: ...when you have it specially made, you don't have to worry about it being too small, or ...

JL: So, what do you look for in a good g-string?

K: One that's gonna last you for a while. But see, mine are specially made, so mine fit me right in the waist, and there's a lot of pouch...

JL: Can't cost much to make (laughs) there's no material in it!

K: It only costs fifteen dollars a g. My outfit (Kenny usually wears a special white outfit to start out onstage—JL) it cost about a hundred and fifty bucks...

JL: Do you guys have a set of outfits you use onstage?

D: I've been a doctor—I went out in a surgical gown. I've been a cop—it's been overdone...

K: I just have mine made—they're not characters, just outfits.

J: I've got a "Chippendale"-style outfit, but I've got a wide variety. ...I'll come out as a construction worker...

JL: Something I've noticed is some groups perform more "Chippendale Male Revue" style show, with dancing and singing and what-have-you along with the stripping, where other times, like tonight, you did one number then danced on the bars. What's more common?

D: In gay bars, the [latter] is more common. All you gotta do is go out and do a number, and because you're in a bar.

JL: Any last thoughts?

K: Wanna join the group?

JL: Maybe forty pounds ago!!!

J: "May you come home rich..."

D: ...or maybe, just come!

I still get amazed at my job. Let's face it, when the Nine Inch Males are up onstage (or standing over our drinks) it's hard to see past the g-string (Lord knows, I've tried!) It was a lot of fun to get to meet Deshae, Justin, and Kenny on a more than—ahem—business level. Sure, it's a job, but it's not like most jobs I've had, and it takes a special type of guy to pull it off (so to speak). To the Nine Inch Males—hope to see more of you soon!!!

Jess Littleman Nine Inch Males

What do you get when you put Jess Littleman in a room with 3 dancers from Nine Inch Males?
-Almost a yard.

I have sweaty palms, I thought to myself as sweat dripped off my forehead and landed on my opened laptop. Computer, I mean. I could not believe how nervous I was to interview the three members of Nine Inch Males, a touring dance troupe that makes stops all around the Midwest, including ZA's in Green Bay. It was after their last performance at the bar, and now I was smoking a cigarette to kill time before entering the second floor dressing room. A less scrupulous interviewer would have tried to gain access while they were changing. You'll be happy to know he tried, but his boyfriend got in the way. Oh, well.

I knocked and entered the room, to find the fully clothed trio. Sitting on the left by the window was twenty-one year-old Justin, with the nicest tan I've seen in summers. Sitting just to his right on a barstool was twenty-six year-old Kenny, the only member of the group to show up at each and every gig at this bar. Last and hardly least was Deshae, twenty-seven, dark and built. All three looked FINE!

Somehow I was able to avert my gaze from the boys and got to the business at hand. I think what finally snapped out of it was the sideways logic that, since I had already tipped them each a number of times, they should be happy to talk to me. Yeah. Right! In reality, they were very flattered by the invitation to talk to Quest, and, let's face it, I was just as happy to be locked in a tiny room for half an hour.

Jess Littleman: Soooo, what was your first performance in front of an audience like?

Deshae: Terrifying!

Kenny: Very nervous!

Justin: The first time I ever did a performance, this guy (stripper) got offstage, everybody left! I was dancing, and there was nobody there. So I told myself, "Never again—nobody likes me!" It came very close to being my last time onstage.

JL: Have any of you developed any special routines or acts?

K: Nah, we just have to get out there and shake it and let it flop around! (everyone laughs) To get back to the last question, I'd rather perform in front of a large group of people. I performed in Indianapolis in front of a crowd of one thousand people

JL: Truth in Advertising Question—Nine Inch Males, all of the performers—True or False?

D: False.

K: We did not have the size in mind when we created that name. We had "Nine Inch Nails", the singing group. We thought up "Nine Inch Males" as a pun off of that. But, as soon as the clubs started hearing the name...

J: There is a trick to that [huge basket]. Even if you're not, you can tie it off [with a rubber], and then it swells up. Even if you're still not—I'm not, but I get a lot of comments. "Oh, it is nine inches, isn't it?" "No, I'm not—but it's close!"

D: There are some guys who are—Kickstand, our buddy Rick, is the biggest in the group.

JL: He performed here the last time your group was in town. Any embarrassing situations while performing come to mind?

K: Just recently, while I was performing in Indianapolis at The Metro, I use these rubber/jelly cock rings to keep me looking "happy." Right as they called my named to go onstage and I came through the curtain, the cock ring broke. Needless to say, by the time I took my clothes off, I was all floppy...I was so embarrassed!

JL: Is this your main job, or part time work? How does dancing fit into your schedule?

J: I'm in school—my last year of college. I was working at the university as an instructor and a life-guard. In the evenings, I was going into town to work, and I was bringing back more money than I was making all week at the other jobs. I was killing myself doing both, so I decided to quit my jobs as an instructor, and make all the money I can this summer...it's well worth it.

D: Same here. I make more in a night than I used to make all week full time.

K: I would say ditto. I never had a job where I was making enough money to anything with, or to go anywhere...

JL: We've all seen the tabloid stories of your female counterparts getting plastic surgery enhancements. Is it prevalent in your field at all? (All Three) Oh, no!

K: Unless you are incredibly small, and wanted that for personal reasons, that's the only reason to do it.

JL: What's the attraction of a job like this?

D: Money.

K: The Money.

J: Yep, the Money.

D: My dad owns his own business, and I make more than him in a week than he does.

K: I like the attention I get. I like being the center

Madison Bomb Scare Perpetrator Gets Hate Crime Conviction

Ed, the owner of Manoeuvres, a popular dance bar in Madison reports a successful conviction after going to court recently against the person who caused a bomb scare last January at the club. Manoeuvres being a gay bar played a part in getting the man also convicted of a hate crime.

ON OUR COVER...

Aajia Knight is the current Miss Gay Wisconsin Leather. She is also first runner-up for Miss Cosmopolitan USofA '97 and she was Miss Walker's Point 1996. When not performing you will find Aajia working at Walker's Point Cafe as a waiter and cook.

Aajia is 25 years old and has been performing at various bars for the past 7 years including Club 219, Ces La Vie, the 1100 Club and 3B's where she currently is a regular performer. She credits Brittany Morgan as the person who got her started in the business.

Aajia enjoys reading, drawing and spending time out at the clubs with friends when she is not working.

Finally she would like to thank the leather community for opening it's doors to the female impersonators.

Center Project Tips Hat to Guernsey!

Center Project of northeast Wisconsin says "thanks" to all the individuals who participated in this year's Guernsey Gala fundraiser. Whether your involvement was as a bar owner, contestant, contributor or performer, please know that your efforts will help to relieve a financial burden for folks already carrying a heavy load.

The combined efforts of Brandy's II, Napalese Lounge, SASS and Za's raised $6,629! - a new record for the annual event!

All of the money raised for Center Project's client assistance fund is used in northeastern Wisconsin, and no portion of that fund is used for administrative purposes.

Thanks again; Center Project tips its hat to you!

GLEEDA is Great America Bound

Appleton---GLEEDA is sponsoring a bus to Six Flags Great America on Sat., Sept. 13. The bus will leave from the Shopko (Hys. 441 & 47) parking lot in Menasha at 8 am, and will leave Great America to return shortly after 8 pm, the park's closing time. No charge for the bus ride, but the admission ticket to Great America and other expenses are each person's responsibility.

Rain or shine! In case of bad weather, the trip will simply become a shopping jaunt to Guerneville Mills. Non-GLEEDA members are also encouraged to come along! FMI Marty (920) 721-2983.

LEATHER/FETISH

by Papa Joe

Gonna start this with some sermonizing.

The hair on the nape of my neck stood up and I had shivers since I heard a young man make a remark which indicated he was in an abusive relationship. Having been there and recovered from same, I can only say, run don't walk to the nearest door and keep going.

Don't stop for one minute to look back or wonder about what might have been or regret the loss of the stocks, bonds or house you may have in joint ownership. That will take care of itself. You have to take care of yourself.

If you believe more love in the form of doting, cowing and/or submissiveness will change him, forget it; you are only enabling a disturbed psyche. Tuff love in the form of leaving may be one of the ways for him to get help. Sorta like "the 2 x 4 between the eyes" thing.

If you believe or even suspect you are to blame and the abuse is merited, -- YOU NEED COUNSELING AND NOW. Do not continue in this relationship, you are the loser, and, honey, it could be big time.

Confide in a friend(s) and seek their help and support. Do not keep this a secret; you are not to blame and need support which friends will give if you allow. You know how to get ahold of me.

There is support and help available, I have a call in to a friend who is a counselor on the subject. At the deadline for this column, it has not been returned.

THERE IS ONE HELL OF A DIFFERENCE BETWEEN AN S & M RELATIONSHIP AND AN ABUSIVE ONE.

Done preaching.

My espousal unit, Lee, with Mark, Jack, Jim, Fred and Paul headed to Sturgis S.D. Biker Week, leaving me to "batchlorette it" for 10 days. Really missed not going, but did enjoy being with me.

They all came back safe and sound, Lee with a head cold, which he shared.

While in the SW S. Dakota area, the networking through Great Lakes Harley Riders (GLHR) gave them the chance to hook up with 14 Queer Harley men from San Diego, Seattle and other points.

This is an event that, even if you don't have a bike, you should do at least once. The area is beautiful.

While on the subject of Harley stuff, second week in June 1998, is the Harley Davidson 95th anniversary and reunion. GLHR will be trying to line up housing for up to 50 Gay men on Harleys. If you are interested in housing one or more Gay Harley men/couple during that time, contact them. It doesn't have to be fancy, (a bed, toilet and shower minimum), for which you can be expected to be paid. Hell, maybe even find a rich husband with a new Road King and ride off into the sunset.

Make a list of what you can offer and what you expect from the guest and send it in. Such concerns as smoking, parking, compensation, etc. You will be put in touch with known and prescreened Gay Harley bikers.

and now from Tim/Oberons

"Steve had hip-replacement surgery yesterday. He's at Froedert. Michael said the surgery went well. He was still real fuzzy, but we figure in a couple of days he'll be back to being cantankerous as ever! (I didn't say that)

Yes, I'm back at 1100 Club. Right now, I'm still not on a set schedule but may end up with all cocktail shifts in a couple of weeks or so (knock on wood!)"

OBERONS CASINO NIGHT: Despite the plethora of competing activities on Saturday, the Oberons first "Casino Night" went well. The roulette table was very popular. The beer bust, as usual, drew the most attention. And we, too, had a lot of fun, so look for more "Casino Night" fundraisers in the future.

September 13 is our next club night: "Ripe for Harvest". Plus, we are trying to work out details for bringing the men of Onyx back up here from Chicago for a joint club night in October or November. Further details when they become available.

October will also see the kick-off of our 7th annual Christmas Club for Children with AIDS fundraiser.

from Jason/Unicorns secretary

The Unicorns of Madison, the Castaways of Milwaukee and the 1100 Club will be having a club night on Oct. 4. An entrance fee of $5 will get you into the beer bust. There will also be a raffle with prizes donated by local merchants. More information to follow.

The Men of Rubber have just completed their 1997 "Camp M.U.D." in rural Wisconsin. The theme, as you might have guessed, was mud. Rubber was a recommended mud repellent, but not the only one used. In addition to the mud pits for mud wrestling and splashing, there were plenty of water sports. Fun was had by all who attended.

"I don't suffer from insanity; I enjoy every minute of it."

Thanks, Jason, I relate to that last line. Keep us posted on the club nite and other activity in the Mad City area.

I have been privy to e mail messages and it would appear that the Argonauts and Castaways joint run will be the best in a long time, if not ever. Hope to get there for Saturday dinner and Mr. North Woods contest, if this head cold lets up a bit. Will have missed the "Review Spectacular" on

We (The Castaways) are also doing a club night and beer bust on Saturday, August 23, at SWS DOCKS. Profits will be donated to the AIDS Walk. Club night /beer bust will be held from 10:30-1:30. Donation of $5. Prizes will be given away.

Mr. Wisconsin Drummer; "Hotter than Hell", was one person's remark about the Contest and the fantasies preformed.

Four contestants. Jerry S. from the Oberons, Joel from SWS Docks, Matt from Designing Men and Ray, sponsored by the Boot Camp. The judges were: Stacy, Mr. 1997 Wisconsin Daddy, Toby, Beth Kelly of Ingenue Productions, 1996 Wisconsin Boy, Cortez, and Bob, Vice President of the Castaways.

1997 Mr. Wisconsin Drummer is Ray of the Boot Camp.

Warren sent a note and asked me to express his thanks to all. I will reprint parts.

"The first annual 1997 Mr. Wisconsin Drummer contest exceeded all expectations and if it were not for the sponsors, contestants and the audience, this could not have been possible.

A special thanks to S. Water Street Docks for allowing the show and fundraiser, The 1100 Club for their fundraiser, Boot Camp for afterbar parties, Papa Joe for leather gift certificates and the contestants who made the contest so wonderful. It was a great joy to work with the leather community who pulled together. Thank you all. See you next year"

Warren, you did a great job pulling it together. Having been in the "hot seat" as the organizer of several contests, I have empathy for your efforts. In spite of some naysayers, we are happy to know you will be doing it next year. Can you relate to this law of human nature? "For every action, there is an equal and opposite criticism".

Congratulations, Ray, and much success in Columbus and then in San Francisco.

Speaking of San Francisco, it is Leather week then. If ever there is a week to do SF., it is the last full week in September (20 -28).

Starts with Sept. 20, Oakland/Gay Mardi Gras; Sept 25, Boot Play Party in S.F.; Sept 27 Mr. Drummer Contest and Sept 28 Folsom Street Fair and much more.

The town is booked solid for that week. Leather folks abound. If you haven't done it, be prepared for a real treat.

Don't forget, Aug. 28 through September 1, LeBear Day '97 Brew City Bears Registration fee - $40. FMI call their 24 Hour Hotline (414) 443-0355- E mail addressl bcb@execpc.com. Net site - <http://www.execpc.com/bcb/> BTW - bearpal, how was K. W., pure trash? -- YES!!!!

Regarding the Leatherneck Bar, and from the Windy City Bondage Club's July newsletter "Chain Male", the proprietor is none other than Jeb of Metro Slave and in the same building as Metro Slave Correctional Institute. Congrats, Jeb, and much success. Keep us informed. BTW, I have not been able to pull up your website??"

The Castaways bus trip to Chicago had to be changed; keep an eye open.

I want to say I had a great time at the Oberons Casino night and had Lee, who had just completed the 900 miles between Leads SD & Milwaukee, WI, in 14 hours, not come down from the trip, I think I would still be there. Do it again soon.

Ride easy and with the wind up your legs -- Papa

P.S. Steve, I told you so, just slow dancing for another week. enso?
