Over the past dozen years, I have counseled many AIDS clients thru the dying process. In many ways, they gave more to me
than I gave to them.

My advice to you -
be safe,
use safer sex,
use a condom.

February 25, 1983 (15 years ago this week): Playwright Tennessee Williams dies in a drug-related accident.

How gay were Tennessee Williams's plays?

Tennessee Williams created some of the most memorable characters in the history of modern theater. He won two Pulitzer Prizes, and many of his plays also became classic movies. His 25 full-length plays have been translated into dozens of languages and continue to be produced around the world. In addition, Williams dealt with the subject of homosexuality in a relatively direct way at a time when few writers dared to. All of these facts should make him one of our prominent gay forefathers. But Williams's place in the gay pantheon is complicated by his years in the closet, his tormented gay characters and his tragic demise.

As an aspiring young writer, Tom Williams took the name "Tennessee" in honor of the home state of his father's family. He was actually born Thomas Lanier Williams in 1911 in Mississippi and grew up in St. Louis. Williams's life always provided capital for his writing. In The Glass Menagerie (1945), for example, Williams immortalized his dysfunctional family - absentee father; faded, Southern-belle mother obsessed with the past; and mentally unstable sister. Like Williams, the beleaguered son/brother of the play, Tom Wingfield, struggles to write but is overwhelmed by the burden of having to support his family by working in a shoe factory. The pressure finally drives Tom - as it did Tennessee - to leave St. Louis to pursue his writing career.

"Everything a writer produces is his inner history, transposed into another time," Williams said late in life. It wasn't just his tortured family that Williams mined for his work. He knew in college that he was gay, when he fell in love with his roommate. But because of the repressive 1930s, he also understood that being gay was not "normal." His conflicted, often negative feelings about his own homosexuality eventually found their way into his best-known plays.

Homosexuality is the deep, shameful secret at the heart of A Streetcar Named Desire (1948), which won Williams his first Pulitzer. Blanche DuBois, one of the great tragic characters of the American stage, is plagued by the fact that her young husband killed himself after she confronted him in public about being homosexual. Her guilt drives her to despair, alcoholism, and eventually a mental breakdown. Blanche has a definite campy side, though - with lines like "I have always relied on the kindness of strangers" - that has led many readers to view her as a gay man in drag.

Williams's second Pulitzer Prize winner, Cat on a Hot Tin Roof (1955), again has homosexuality and suicide at its core. Though he never appears on stage, the character Skipper - who committed suicide over his sexual attraction to his friend Brick - haunts the play. Brick is unable to reconcile his love for Skipper with his negative ideas about homosexuality, and he sinks into alcoholism, frustrating his sensual and ambitious wife Maggie "the cat" both emotionally and sexually. Maggie is determined to produce an heir to the fortune of Brick's father, Big Daddy, and by the end of the play takes control by locking up Brick's liquor supply and attempting to seduce him.

Cat... became a movie in 1958, but because of the strict film production code, Skipper's suicide and Brick's coldness toward Maggie went unexplained. At the end of the movie, Brick (played by Paul Newman) magically overcomes his sexual ambivalence and eagerly beds Maggie (Elizabeth Taylor). What on stage had been a sad and poignant exploration of the forbidden nature of love between men became, in Hollywood's hands, simply the triumph of heterosexuality.

Williams's 1958 play, Suddenly Last Summer, presents a much darker picture of a gay man. Like both Blanche's husband and Skipper, Sebastian Venable is dead before the play begins, and his shadowy demise remains at the center of the play. Only his cousin, Catherine, knows the truth about it, and she is threatened with a lobotomy by Sebastian's mother if she tells Sebastian's secret - that he used first his mother and then his cousin to procure male sex partners for himself. In the end, Sebastian's gruesome death is revealed - he was cannibalized by a gang of Mexican boys whom he was attempting to lure.

Given the time in which he was writing and his equation of homosexuality with death and ruin, it isn't surprising that Williams was closeted during most of his career. He did, however, have several serious relationships, including a long-term one with Frank Merlo, a former sailor he met while vacationing in Provincetown. It wasn't until openly gay critics prodded Williams to come out that he finally did so in his Memoirs (1975).

Over the course of his life, Williams became increasingly alcohol- and drug-dependent, and his writing suffered. On February 25, 1983, he was found dead in his New York City hotel room. He had tried to pry off the child-proof cap of a Seconal container with his teeth, and the plastic accidentally lodged in his throat and choked him. It was an ending fit for a Williams play.

The annual leather swap meet filled Woody's with hot men looking for bargains. Like last year's event, there were people in from Chicago, Northern Wisconsin, Minnesota and most points in between. The Castaways and the Argonauts had a beer bust in conjunction; it was one big party atmosphere not unlike a family reunion. The timing, 7 pm to midnight, gave all a chance to shop and then make the rounds. Steve and Ray (Woody's) really had a nice setup for the meet.

The Oberons had a large collection of gear ranging from used leather to very imaginative heavy duty metal and chain restraining devices. The restraints turned out to be hand crafted by Jerry and Bob, who have a little side business going. Anyone into this might want to look into their wares. If you want to connect them, attend an Oberons function or send me a note and I will pass it along.

When our normal Sunday brunch place bogged down, our group headed over to the Walkers Point Cafe. What a shock - - Mind you, the last time I was in there was when "Dirty Helen" was slingin' hash after bar closing.

What a change, the Cafe was clean and bright, the food was ample and good. Put this place on your list of eateries; I am sure you will like it. FYI, it still is a very popular venue after the bars close.

Couldn't help reminiscing about the crap and guff Helen would dump on you. - that's if she liked you - - woe be, if she didn't. To someone who didn't witness the show, it is hard to explain the high esteem with which this woman was regarded. OK, so a few hated her guts and that was even more fun to watch.

Due to family commitments, I couldn't take in Woody's Grand Opening or the Firebirds Club night on Sat., Feb. 7. According to those who did, both were fun times with full houses.

The Firebirds club night, usually on the first Saturday of the month and usually at the Boot Camp, draws a full house. There is regularly an afterhours party.

I will be at the SWS Docks on Feb. 21 for their joint club night with the Oberons. The theme is Leather Pride.

According to Randy, the Firebirds will be making a decision regarding their Ianniversary that comes up in May.

The Oberons have a joint club night with the Knights of Leather/ March 21. Milwaukee venue TBA.

FYI - - WOMEN into leather etc., -
Listen up - especially those of you who have asked how to make contact with "Leather Women." The Knights of Leather are women into the leather and the S & M scene. They have a "run" and other get-togethers. If you are at all interested, I encourage you to haul yourselves over on March 21 and introduce yourselves.

I have known, liked and respected Red and PJ for a lot of years. I have attended their parties and can vouch for their concern for all who consider themselves novices to their scene. Do not hesitate to approach them and ask for their counsel. You will be glad you did. Tell 'em I sent you.

Way back when, there was a Milwaukee group called DAMES, (an acronym of some sort). These were leather women and to the best of my knowledge, the two lovers who for years seemed to be the only members, if still around, at best can be said to be in a status mode.

You should be aware that some of our sisters consider S&M activity degrading to all women in general, much as some Afro/Am friends who consider themselves subservients (dare I say slaves), are chastised by some fellow Afro/Am brothers for their role. Unfortunately, history makes this an expected reaction. You don't have to agree, but please respect their right to the opinion.

from Milwaukee/Green Bay The Argonauts and Castaways met on Saturday, January 31, to plan the 1998 Mr. Wisconsin Daddy/Boy contest. This year the Daddy and Boy contest will be held on Saturday, June 6, at the Milwaukee Eagle starting at 9:30 PM. On Sunday, June 7, the two clubs will hold their charity auction at the 1100 Club starting at 2 PM. We are looking for all of the hot Daddys and Boys. We will send out more information in the near future.

The Argonauts and Castaways announce the dates of their 1998 joint run. This year the run will be start Friday August 14 and run thru Sunday, the 16th at the farm in Hilbert. This is an outdoor run, but arrangements have been made with local motels for those who like their comfort.

The Condo group attended Woody's grand opening on Saturday, February 7. Steve and Ray sure do know how to throw a party. The beer bust was fantastic. We were serviced by Troy and later young Steve. Drawings were held every hour for bar tabs, T shirts and booze. The party goes were treated to a buffet. Some of us went home at an early hour. Jim B. however, stayed to the bitter end. He reported that everyone had a great time (at least that they remembered).

The two clubs (Argonauts of WI and Castaways M.C.) have also set the dates for their joint run for Fri., Aug. 14, through Sun., Aug. 16, 1998. The run will be held at the Farm in Hilbert.

The doors open at 9:00pm, as we all know, but you MUST arrive prior to 10:30pm. If you need to arrive late, please call ahead. Princess/D/s

This D/s Group is a mixed group, that is, all combinations of gender in a D/s relationship are invited. As of this time, I have no other contact point than the above. If you are not on line and want to make contact with the group, send a note to either me or Quest and we can forward.

The first in a series of monthly Shaft parties took place at the Milwaukee Eagle, Sunday, Feb 8. There was a big turnout, a lot of fun and 10 contestants vied for the title of Mr. Eagle for February. The winner is Dave and first runner p is Bill.

The Shaft, a small bar in the Eagle complex, is scheduled for rehabbing. Todd, the Architect, presented several impressive renderings and was on hand to explain the details. The bar will remain open during the remodeling. Speaking of the Eagle, rumor has it that Papa Joe is opening a leather shop there. Having a pull with him, I believe this rumor to be without foundation. -- Enjoy!

Once a year the drag queens turn the tables on our barstaff and let them see what being on stage is really like! (Will they ever be the same?)

698 Turnabout

Don't say we didn't warn you!

All of the door cover, tips for performers and tips for our substitute bartenders will be donated to Rainbow Over Wisconsin

Once a year we thank our bartenders with a little party. They invite a few friends to drink FREE all night with them and get all that mischief out of their system for another year!
