Psychic Thoughts

by Susan Reed

So often I hear, "I wish that he or she would be more romantic," and thought that I would share some insight that might prove to be beneficial.

Yes, we can spend time with our significant other but is it quality time? Are we behaving in a manner that turns the other person off, rather than on? Are we taking the other person's feelings into consideration? Are we being romantic enough to suit the other person's wants, needs and desires? We all would like to be able to say "Yes" to these questions but we all know that often this is not the true case. Life is hectic and chaotic, so as a result, we don't again take the time to be romantic.

There isn't a one of us that hasn't come up with one excuse or another when it comes to being romantic. Often we are tired, over-worked, over-stressed and at times, over-anxious. We all need to slow down, assess our surroundings and appreciate those we have around us. We need to consciously "change gears" as the end of the day—from our "business mode" into our "personal mode." In order to accomplish this, we need to practice turning our feelings back on at the end of the day. Don't bring work home in our minds or briefcases unless it is absolutely necessary. If it is necessary, set aside the amount of time you are going to spend on it and when you reach that time, put it away and concentrate on life, love and the pursuit of happiness. You know, being more romantic will actually enhance your own ESP. Actually, those who are tuned in to their lovers—those who listen well—develop a kind of "sixth sense" about what their lovers would love. One of the best things about long-term relationships is that you develop this sense. And as it develops, your relationship deepens and your intimacy will continue to grow.

Perhaps the time for creativity is upon us as to pull us out of the ruts we often set up for ourselves. Our homes should be a romantic hide-a-way. We should always be ready at a moment's notice to transform our house or apartment into a love nest through the creative use of candles, music, flowers, wine and/or good food. When you are really in a romantic mood and you are waiting for you lover to come home, prepare the home environment so that it would be very difficult for your lover to miss what you have in mind. Make a path of lighted candles leading from the front door to your bedroom. Be waiting for you lover, and let your own flame burn bright when the opportunity presents itself. If this doesn't make the sparks fly, nothing will.

Always keep in mind that in order to keep a relationship fresh and vital, you MUST live as lovers. Remember that that's how you started your relationship. You can recapture the glow, the passion, and the excitement. It's largely a mindset, followed by a few active gestures. Not as partners or help-mates but lovers.

Change some of the negative patterns that have been in your existence for a long time. Try being totally positive, accepting, supportive and non-judgmental for one entire week. No complaining, nagging, preaching, etc. It will change your life and you both will have more of an understanding of each other.

Romance is an adventure in life. It leads to being romantic which includes thoughts, sharing of feelings and emotions. Love and romance can not and should not be taken for granted. If it is, you will once again fall into a rut. Romance, like life is a new experience and education each and every day. It is a learning experience which we all want and need in our lives. If we take it for granted, we could end up losing it.

Initiate some new things into your romance. Write little notes and put them where the other person will find them. Share some of your feelings on these notes. There are some of us who do not do well with direct communications with those close to us. If you are finding that this is the case, you may do well with written communication.

Surprises are an integral part of the romantic lifestyle. The everyday and ordinary can be made into the unexpected and special. Surprises come in all shapes and sizes and in all budget ranges. Surprise get-aways are almost a must. Reservations at the Hilton aren't necessary. Take advantage of near-by hotels' special weekend packages. Or seek out a quaint bed-and-breakfast or picturesque inn. Pack bags for both of you and whisk your partner away upon his arrival from work! If you find yourself being met with a little resistance, don't worry about it as it won't last long. When it comes to romance, the justifies the means.

Another cute way to a romantic evening is by invitation. Go to your local craft or flower shop and get some gold foil. When you get home, write out an invitation for dinner, movie or get-away and wrap it in gold foil. Upon presenting it to your significant other, state that this is a solid gold invitation. The ingenuity will put more into a normal invitation. In the invitation you can explain in detail what will be taking place during the course of the evening. It can be either a three course evening or an eight course evening, depending upon how much stamina you feel you will be able to muster up. Start out the evening by giving a single rose to your partner and the rest of the evening will take care of itself.

All of the above will allow you to break out of that old box. Start thinking of your partner as your lover once again. Start treating each other like you are the best of friends which you probably were at one time. And lastly, don't let the friendship slide or die, because without friendship there can be no relationship, love or romance.

In the event that any of you would like your own personal consultation, feel free to call me at 920-772-4981 or email me at suzanne_1998@yahoo.com for an appointment. Until the next time, take care.

July 27, 1928 (70 years ago this week): Radclyffe Hall's The Well of Loneliness is published in England.

What was The Well of Loneliness?

Radclyffe Hall's novel, The Well of Loneliness, was banned in its time and was at the center of a sensational court trial. Its notoriety made it an international hit, translated into 14 languages and selling at a rate of 100,000 copies a year at the time of Hall's death in 1943. Amazingly, the book has never gone out of print and remains the most famous lesbian novel ever written.

Marguerite Radclyffe Hall (she preferred to be called "John") was born into a wealthy British family in 1880. Early on, she recognized her attraction to girls and women, which made her social-climbing mother uncomfortable. As soon as Hall came into her sizable inheritance, she headed to Europe to escape her mother's disapproval. There, in 1908, she met her first love, Mabel Veronica Batten ("Ladye"), and the two women lived together until Ladye's death seven years later. Shortly after, Hall became lovers with Ladye's cousin, Lady Una Troubridge, who was still married but soon deserted her husband to set up housekeeping with Hall in Paris.

Over the next few years, Hall developed her own distinctive style, dressing in tailored suits and ties, and even smoking a pipe. She frequented Natalie Barney's salon and began to pursue her own writing in earnest, though she had had no formal education. Her first novel, The Forge (1924), includes a character based on Romaine Brooks, Barney's lover.

Hall also immersed herself in the work of sexologist Havelock Ellis on the subject of "female inversion," or lesbianism. Ellis's writings convinced Hall that lesbianism was innate. After the critical success of her second novel ensured her literary reputation, Hall approached Troubridge with an idea for a new novel, one with a political point.

"She had long wanted to write a book on sexual inversion," Troubridge explained in her biography of Hall, "a novel that would be accessible to the general public who did not have access to technical treatises.... It was her absolute conviction that such a book could only be written by a sexual invert." Hall felt she needed her lover's permission to write it, because it could mean "the shipwreck of her whole career." Troubridge replied without hesitation that she must write what was in her heart, and The Well of Loneliness was born.

Hall patterned her protagonist after the lesbians she had read about in Ellis's case studies. The Well is the story of Stephen Gordon, given a man's name at birth because her father wanted a son. A tomboy loathed by her mother, Stephen goes abroad to work as an ambulance driver during World War I. She finds personal fulfillment in her work and meets Mary Llewellyn, the passion of her life. Though the two women spend several happy years together, Mary becomes attracted to a man. In a tearjerker ending, Stephen pretends to have an affair with another woman, thus freeing Mary to marry and lead a "normal" life.

Hall told her publisher that she wrote The Well out of duty, "in defence of those who are utterly defenceless, who being from birth set apart ... need all the help that society can give them." She did what at that time was unthinkable and unforgivable: she wrote a novel that dared to depict lesbianism as a fact of life, not as a vice. "I am not ashamed of [my love]," Stephen declares proudly. "There's no shame in me."

With a brief introduction by Ellis himself, the novel was published in England by Jonathan Cape Ltd. on July 27, 1928 and produced an immediate furor. When the Home Secretary got a copy of the book, he demanded that Cape withdraw it or be prosecuted under Britain's Obscene Publications Act. Cape discontinued publication but cooked up a plan in which an English-language publisher in Paris would print and sell the novel from there. The plan backfired when British Customs seized the first copies of the Paris edition as they were on their way to London.

The book's obscenity trial took place in November, with its 40 defense witnesses representing a virtual Who's Who of 20th century British literature, with E.M. Forster, George Bernard Shaw, H.G. Wells, and Virginia Woolf ready to testify to its importance. The judge, however, would not allow their testimony and based his decision on his own reading of the book. To no one's surprise, he declared the novel to be propaganda for "the most horrible, unnatural and disgusting obscenity," although it included no graphic sexuality. The Well was banned in England, where it remained unavailable until 1949.

The American edition went through its own obscenity hearing in 1929 but emerged victorious on appeal and became a bestseller. Hall later claimed to have received 10,000 fan letters, most from grateful lesbians, but many from sympathetic heterosexuals. With its stoic hero and dreary ending, The Well of Loneliness set the standard for lesbian fiction for the next 40 years. Ironically, though Hall was branded as a propagandist for lesbianism in 1928, she has been dismissed by many post-Stonewall lesbians as self-hating. Still, The Well of Loneliness more than any other work helped at least two generations of lesbians realize that they were not alone.

GRACE JONES

Private Life: The Compass Point Sessions DBLCD
Island (314 524-501-2)

Star rating: ★★★★★

Grace Jones. Madonna who? Precisely. Long before missy skipped over to TheFun House from her Ave. C dump, Miss Jones ruled dance floors worldwide. Armed with a severely singular sense of style and delivery, Grace transcended the world of disco, elevating herself to stardom as her own electrifying work of art. And she let the planet have it. From the fuck-you glamour of her Richard Bernstein-illustrated disco albums (Portfolio, Muse, Fame) to the paralyzing punch of her early '80's Jean Paul Goude-styled reggae-rooted masterpieces (Warm Leatherette, Nightclubbing, Living My Life), Grace Jones has always—always—served.

Now Island Records has released a double-serving of Grace in the form of a highly collectible DBLCD package: Private Life: The Compass Point Sessions. Along with two 75+ minute CDs, comes a 22-page booklet which includes fascinating liner notes by Brian Chin and dozens of those famously indelible images. "Private Life" is not a greatest hits collection—that was "Island Life." nor is it a "98 remix" set (thank God!), rather a glittering collection of quintessential Grace Jones works. All cuts are from the last three albums listed above and were recorded during the almost magical sessions at Island's Compass Point, Bahamas studios. Presented here are rare versions: previously unreleased on CD, unreleased edits, or unreleased songs. Yes, two songs by Grace Jones that have never—ever—been issued: "Ring Of Fire" (a Johnny Cash cover—really!) & the clever "Man Around The House".

Most versions here are extended (among them "Pars," "The Hunter Gets Captured by the Game," "Love Is The Drug"), including two luxuriously indulgent dubs that clock at 8:00+ ("Private Life," "She's Lost Control"). For those import hags who collected the fabulous African mask 12" series in the late '80s (10 mini-photos of these sleeves are in the booklet!), beware: many of the very same versions that sent your panties to the 12"-shop floor are here. And for the rest who don't recall the unnerving brilliance of Grace's reading of Joy Division's "She's Lost Control": do drugs, because she takes you there. What begins as an inspired rewrite ("she" becomes "I"), like a vise, steadily intensifies into sheer eye-popping madness as Grace detonates in a crescendo of clawing, shrieking, mindlessly repeating choruses. Very H.P. Lovecraft. And like this collection, very memorable and very much what Grace Jones has always been about: art.

Beer in History!

It was the accepted practice in Babylonia 4,000 years ago that for a month after the wedding, the bride's father would supply his sons-in-law with all the mead he could drink. Mead is a honey beer, and because their calendar was lunar based, this period was called the "honey month" or what we know today as the "honeymoon."

Before thermometers were invented, brewers would dip a thumb or finger into the mix to find the right temperature for adding yeast. Too cold, and the yeast wouldn't grow. Too hot, and the yeast would die. This thumb in the beer is where we get the phrase "rule of thumb."

In English pubs, ale is ordered by pints and quarts. So, in old England, when customers got unruly, the bartender would yell at them to mind their own pints and quarts and settle down. It's where we get the phrase "mind your Ps and Qs."

Beer was the reason the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth, Rock. It's clear from the Mayflower's log that the crew didn't want to waste beer looking for a better site. The log goes on to state that the passengers "were hasted ashore and made to drink water that the seamen might have the more beer."

After consuming a bucket or two of vibrant brew they called aul, or ale, the Vikings would lead fearlessly into battle without armor or even shirts. In fact, the term "berserk" means "bare shirt" in Norse, and eventually took on the meaning of their wild battles.

In 1740, Admiral Vernon of the British fleet decided to water down the navy's rum. Needless to say, the sailors weren't too pleased and called Admiral Vernon "Old Grog," after the stiff wool program coats he wore. The term "grog" soon began to mean the watered down drink itself. When you were drunk on this grog, you were "groggy."

Many years ago in England, pub frequenters had a whistle baked into the rim or handle of their ceramic cups. When they needed a refill, they used the whistle to get some service. "Wet your whistle" is the phrase inspired by this practice.

Now you can appreciate the importance of BEER throughout history.

New HIV Treatments Lead Some Gay Men to Perceive AIDS as Less Severe & Practice Safer Sex Less Often!

Optimism concerning new HIV treatment advances has led some gay men to take fewer safer sex precautions, according to a study conducted by the Medical College of Wisconsin's Center for AIDS Intervention Research (CAIR).

Ninety-seven percent of the men surveyed agreed that safer sex is still important despite the availability of new medical treatments. However, 8% of all men surveyed and nearly 20% of HIV-positive respondents who are themselves on combination therapy regimens said that they personally practice safer sex less often since they became aware of the new treatments. (And they're all from the Milwaukee area, 397 gay and bisexual men surveyed!)

Jeffrey A. Kelly, Ph.D., director of CAIR, professor of psychiatry and behavioral medicine, and principal investigator of the study, says, "It is understandable that people experiencing the benefits of the treatments were more likely to feel that the threat of AIDS is less serious now. The treatment advances have given new hope to many people, but that optimism must be accompanied by an ongoing recognition of the fact that AIDS is not cured and it remains very important to maintain safer sex practices."

In addition to Dr. Kelly, other Medical College researchers involved in the study were Raymond G. Hoffmann, Ph.D., associate professor of biostatistics; David Rompa, program coordinator, and Michelle Gray, research associate. All are affiliated with the Medical College's Center for AIDS Intervention Research.

More PrideFest News!

Volunteers are still needed to make this year's PrideFest a great success! As a volunteer, you will receive free admission on the day or days you work, or as a pre or post-festival worker, a complimentary ticket to the festival, complimentary meal, etc. FMI or for applications call 414-272-FEST.

Other Ways to Get in FREE!

Bring four or more nonperishable food items to the front gates Friday 5-9 and Saturday 11-3. The food will be donated to the Hunger Task Force for distribution to Milwaukee area food pantries.

Buy a $2 PrideFest Button!

Buy a pre-festival PrideFest button for $2, wear it to the festival and get in free Sat. and Sun. 11-1:30. They are available at AfterWords Bookstore and Espresso Bar, Designing Men and This Is It. (Quantities limited)

Papa Joe Lining Up Bikers for Parade!

Papa Joe is lining up bikers

(ALL bikers) to lead the PrideFest parade on Sun., August 30, assembling noon-ish. Needs to know NOW! Please touch base with Joe. He will have more details in his column, next issue of Quest.

Children's Day is Sat, Aug. 29!

Make sure the children in your life (under 12) know about Children's Day (Sat., Aug. 29) at PrideFest. Stilt walkers, jugglers, a magic show, musical play, face painting, clowns, pick up a balloon animal, etc. Kids under 12 accompanied by an adult get in free on Sat.

FREE Shuttle Bus Service on Saturday & Sunday

Shuttle buses will carry folks to and from the festival grounds from 11 a.m. to midnight Saturday and Sunday (until 11 p.m. on Sun.) Sponsors this year are Dish, Fluid, M&M Club, Mama Roux, South Water St. Docks, Park East Hotel and This Is It.

ID Bracelets for Legal Age!

Festival goers who plan to drink will be issued a snap-on bracelet, available at the information area and all drink ticket booths. They will be required regardless of age and apparent wrinkles for anyone buying or consuming alcohol.

SAGE Booth at PrideFest Needs Helpers!

Madison's Magic Picnic Weekend

LEATHER/FETISH

by Papa Joe

Milwaukee/Oberons Sep. 12, 10 PM - 1100 Club - "Under Construction" beer bust club nite.

Mark your calendars NOW for Sep. 25t, 26 & 27! I think this is the only leather run to be held in Milwaukee this year! It is also the last event to be held at the Hotel Wisconsin for they're closing for an extensive remodeling the day after. We have worked out a great deal with the hotel and we can drop the prices so more local folks can join us. The new price is $129.00 per person (2 to a room). Those of you who have already paid will be getting refunds when you arrive at the run. --- Steve/Oberons

Green Bay/Argonauts Hi Joe, Sorry that I haven't been able to send you any info lately. Was in the hospital and had a couple of surgeries. All fixed up now and feel better than I have in years. Will get caught up on the Argonauts news now and mail you. Take care,
--- Russ/Argonauts
Hey Russ:

Wondered why we hadn't heard from you in a spell. Glad to know the surgeries are successful and you are doing well.

From what I can tell, the town's gay bars are changing ownership -- It is a done deal. Brandy's II closed since July 1, has a new owner, Rod Schroeder, who took possession about a week ago. He will reopen the bar by Friday, July 31 - (maybe a test run a day or two before).

Talked with Rod and he said the name will not change and he is following the tradition of Jerry and Terry (past owners) by working closely with the Argonauts of Wis., L/L community and other fund raising groups. He is looking at having a Leather/Levi night once or twice a month. Outside of using the down time to spruce up, not many changes will be made.

No definite word about the move of Napalese Lounge. If you haven't heard, the City of Green Bay wants to acquire the property for river front improvement and are relocating the bar. This project could take up to and maybe over a year to happen. Don't be surprised if it also ends up on Main St.

Speaking of Bars moving -- The guys in Mad City are all excited. If you haven't heard, Manoeuvres is moving to a new location on the Belt Line just off Fish Hatchery Rd. Word has it, it is one heck of a complex which will offer mucho variety including dancing, bar, restaurant and a leather levi bar called the Barracks.

One of my sources said it is bigger and better than Rod's and a hell of a lot more parking. It should be opening about the time of the Argonauts and Castaways Joint Run, mid August.

Jerry S/ Milwaukee Hi guy, haven't talked to you in a while, thought I would let you know what is going on with me, last weekend I have acquired the rights to my title SOUTHEASTERN WIS MR LEATHER from Beth Kelly, I am planning on having the contest within the next 7 months.

I will be leaving Milw the first week of Sept. to move back to Tulsa, I would like to thank you and all the leather clubs and leather community in Wis for all there support while I was here. I am looking forward to still working with the leather community up here even though I will be back in Okla.

If anyone cumms through Tulsa be sure to look me and the leather club T.U.L.S.A. up. The home bar is the TOOLBOX. You will probably find me there. I will let you know closer to time when the contest will be but I will be back to handle it.

Thanks your friend in leather
Jerry S/ Mr. SE Wis Mr. Leather

Jerry, really sorry that you are moving back to OKLA, the home of radical religious righters with a bible college on every corner and the epitome of architectural bad taste. BUT the home of a hell of a lot of beautiful country and people to match which I'm sure you have longed to reconnect. Regarding the Mr. SE WI Contest, keep me posted and let me know what I can do to help. Let's plan those dates public real soon. There is word going around that several Mr. "Leather something or other" contests will be held in Milwaukee, Madison, Green Bay and Superior before spring. Seems, since nothing has happened nor seems to be forthcoming from the B.K. camp, more than one person is jumping in to fill the gap. When it rains, it pours., I'll rag on this issue another day.

Good luck, buddy, and keep in touch.
Eagle/Milwaukee Mike W., the original bartender in the Shaft Club is the new manager of the Eagle complex. He says he is very excited about refocusing the Milwaukee Eagle back to a leather levi dance bar and you can expect for positive changes coming in the near future. One of his first priorities will be to get involved with the established Leather/Levi Community for the AIDS Walk and for PrideFest 98. He is hoping a float will be ready for the leather/levi contingent but admits this project needs help. You can contact Mike via E mail, < Bearzall@aol.com >.

Speaking of PrideFest,

Partners Joe (last year's Daddy's boy) and Gene (this year's Daddy) - are hoping to contact all leather groups, clubs and bars to see what they are planing and how they can fit all of the activities together to have a sizable and well coordinated showing of the Leather/Levi community.

They have many ideas and some are already committed, like Club color guards, motorcycle escorts, two convertibles (one for Daddy and Daddy's boy). They, with the help of friends, are lining up persons to participate in the planning, building of projects which a single club or group can not pull off alone. They really would like to pull together a major float for the parade and are having some success getting it lined up. You can help.

The invitation to join hands for a unified showing of our community, is extended to all leather/levi oriented groups, clubs and bars. If you want your group or float be in the contingent, if you can help out, if you have an idea that needs help or just plain want to get involved, give them a call. FMI or to contact, call 414-769-0216; E mail BootBoy2u@aol.com

P.J. comment: Because this August event is not opposite any other Pride parade and because the Chicago Gay Rodeo (that weekend) is not that far over the border, expect the turnout from surrounding major cities to be greater than last year. Groups, Clubs, Bars from as far away as Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota areas might want to get involved. So if you know of anyone, invite them in. Let's make this event even bigger and better than before.

While on the subject -- Bikers with road worthy bikes are invited to join some of the Great Lake Harley Riders who are planing to ride in the parade. Probably with the Leather contingent. Hope to pull together a large number of men. Maybe even as big as the women bike group was last year.

GLHR, King Jeff, managed to pull about a dozen Riders together last year and has expressed an interest in a greater showing this year. FMI or to contact, use me at <PPAJOE@aol.com>

DON'T FORGET THE FUN FUNDRAISER AT S. Water St. Docks - August 1 -- all afternoon and evening - for the AIDS Walk - it was great fun last year, even in the rain.

FYI - Saw Warren, a week ago, in town for a brief visit - Said to say hi to all.

Central WI Hi Everyone! Surprise surprise! Aug. 8th, 1998 we will be having a D/s birthday party for Dan'alah! We hope to see you there!

If you would like to attend, want more information and or directions, please call (715) 835-5257 or e-mail < DomCpl4Fml@aol.com > There are motel accommodations within 10 minutes. ---Master Alan and Princess Dan'alah

Speaking of Bears -- The Back Woods Bears, P.O. Box 264, Superior, WI 54880 E-mail: BWBears, are doing their 4th Annual Bear-Hunt Weekend, Sept. 11 - 13. They have an active club and web site. If you are into Bears and in the area, look them up. Just check in at the MAIN CLUB, 1217 Tower Ave. Superior, WI, and ask.

Recap of events
