It was all in good fun! The Guernsey Gala fundraising event ended with a show at Za's bar in Green Bay. This year the amount raised was almost double last year's. Timmer, the winner raised over $4,300.00 and Rick, first runner up raised over $4,000.00. The total was around 11,800.00 and will be donated to ARCW, Green Bay. Elsie Bovine pictured below left organizes and runs the event at a different Green Bay bar each year. Great job guys!

PAST OUT

BY DAVID BIANCO

July 29, 1978 (20 years ago): The Village People's first hit single, "Macho Man," reaches the Top 40.

How gay was the disco era?

According to popular myth, the musical genre called disco was imported to the United States from Europe in the 1960s. The word "discotheque" did indeed come from France, where it meant any club that played recorded dance music. However, disco music itself got its start in the black gay dance clubs of New York City in the late 1960s.

To placate their clients, many of whom wanted to dance all night, black gay deejays began experimenting with records by groups like the Temptations and the O'Jays. They phased records in and out, splicing soul with another style called "Philly." The result was disco, which had an insistent, pulsing, 120 beats per minute. Good disco music was nonstop; as one critic put it, the music saturated dancers and the dance floor.

Disco music, however, didn't achieve wide public attention until white gay men adopted it, creating dazzling dance clubs for feverish, continuous dancing. In the summer of 1970, in the early days of the gay liberation movement, the Ice Palace in Cherry Grove, Fire Island, was one of the first clubs to set up a deejay booth, gigantic speakers, a mirror ball, and elaborate lighting that pulsed in time with the music. "Disco" became synonymous with the clubs where the music played. Over the next decade in New York City, Los Angeles, and other cities across the country, vast, empty factories and warehouses were transformed into gay male pleasure palaces. Paradise Garage, the Flamingo, and the Saint were some of the glittering favorites of gay New York, while Studio One dominated Hollywood during disco's heyday.

With its open eroticism, disco music was a tangible reflection of gay sexual liberation. Song lyrics often suggested sex, with an emphasis on fleeting romantic encounters. Disco dancing, with its wild bumping and grinding, offered up the possibility of casual sex to gay men whose sexuality had long been controlled by the dominant culture. In disco clubs, the Advocate reported in 1975, "Nobody cared who did what to whom, just as long as you didn't stand still." In this sense, disco fostered a sense of gay community centered around the idea of personal sexual freedom. Gay historian Allan Berube has recalled having "a spiritual moment or vision" while dancing in a gay club during the 1970s. He thought, "This is what it could be like ... if we were totally free."

As with many pop culture movements, disco gradually moved beyond its underground community, becoming a profitable enterprise. Clubs turned into expensive, members-only establishments. Record producers discovered the sound and in turn introduced it to straight America. The hits of straight recording artists like Gloria Gaynor ("I Will Survive") and Donna Summer ("Love to Love You") were embraced in the gay disco scene, since so many of the lyrics could be imbued with gay meaning. But disco also saw its share of gay performers whose popularity crossed over to straight audiences.

One such performer, Sylvester, began his career in the 1950s as a child gospel singer. In the late 1970s, he became an openly gay disco star, performing in evening gowns and boas and recording hits like "Disco Heat," "Fever," and writing the gold record, "You Make Me Feel (Mighty Real)," which is still a standard in gay clubs and at gay pride events. Sylvester contributed most of his earnings to AIDS organizations before succumbing to the disease in 1988 at age 40. His female back-up singers, Two Tons o' Fun, found their own popularity in gay male clubs with the disco hit, "It's Raining Men."

The Village People presented a parody of both traditional masculinity and urban gay male culture, by performing in costumes as macho "types" - a construction worker, an Indian, a cowboy, a cop, a leatherman, and a soldier. To gay listeners, the group's biggest hits, like "Macho Man," and "YMCA," had obvious referents. But straight people who didn't know (or want to know) that YMCAs had historically been places for gay men to cruise each other and have sex could miss the double meaning of lyrics like, "It's fun to stay at the YMCA/They have everything for young men to enjoy/You can hang out with all the boys." At one point, "In The Navy" was even used in television commercials for the U.S. military.

Although their manager, Jacques Morali, was an openly gay man, the Village People weren't sold to the public as gay. Their 1980 film, Can't Stop the Music, for example, featured the "Indian," Felipe Rose, coming out to women. "If you become too political you become provocative," Morali said, "and you risk provoking a backlash." The movie's producer, Alan Carr, was more blunt: "You don't spend $13 million to make a minority movie."

Hollywood, in fact, significantly watered down and transformed disco for straight consumption. The 1978 hit movie Saturday Night Fever marketed disco in a neat package and presented it to middle America as a new heterosexual fad. Like all fads, disco eventually faded, though it has recently been enjoying a revival in books and movies that tend to ignore the role of gay culture in creating the genre.

For many gay men, disco music was more than a passing fad, and it still holds a place in gay culture. The coming of the AIDS crisis may have forced many disco clubs from the landscape, but disco music itself has remained a symbol of gay sexual liberation.

quality high and insure a decent turnout for contestants at each of the prelims and the state finals.

Miss Northeastern Wisconsin-USofA is one example. The Pivot Club (Appleton) has closed and there is no viable alternative in the Fox Valley. Three pageants are being eliminated to be replaced by this new pageant. They include Miss Fox Valley, Miss Appleton and Miss Green Bay. The Eau Claire pageants are also being phased out. We will limit the sub-preliminary pageants to two per area including Green Bay, Madison, Milwaukee, Southern Wisconsin and Wausau. (Rockford pageants are not determined at this time, but only one will most likely continue.) Quality, not quantity, will be stressed.

Another major change in the works is the way the pageant system is to be run. Ken and Za recognize it takes the efforts of a lot of people to make a pageant successful. A committee made up of pageant sub-preliminary owners and other persons interested in working on these pageants is being formed. We will try to realize the dream Jimmy King envisioned to replace him after he left us. The Mr. and Miss Gay Wisconsin Pageants and the Mr. and Miss Great Lakes Pageants will be run as not-for-profit events with the hope they will become self sufficient in the future.

The first committee meeting will be Sat., Sept. 12, 2 pm, at Za's (use rear entrance) the afternoon of the Miss Northeastern Wisconsin-USofA Pageant. Anyone interested in helping determine the future of this great pageant system is encouraged to attend. Pageants of this scope require the talents of a great many people. Ken and Za will set up smaller committees to carry out many of the duties. These people will have a lot to say about how the pageant system will be run in future years.

Even though Quest is now directly involved in this pageant system, the magazine is committed to promote and support the other fine pageants also in this state including Miss Wisconsin-America, which Quest is an official sponsor, as well as Wisconsin Entertainer of the Year, Miss Wisconsin-Continental and The Pageant in Milwaukee.

ARCW Sets the Standard for AIDS Care & Prevention for the 21st Century

"Every two years, the State of Wisconsin sets its course in the fight against AIDS. ARCW recently presented the State with a comprehensive plan to prevent new HIV infections and meet the needs of people with HIV disease and AIDS well into the next century," said ARCW Deputy Executive Director Mike Gifford.

Key components of ARCW's recommendations presented to the Department of Health & Family Services include:

- Wisconsin's first ever HIV prevention initiative focused on populations at highest risk for HIV including harm reduction programs, a statewide HIV prevention campaign and intensified HIV counseling and testing

- State developed standards of care for post exposure treatment for people with isolated and accidental exposure to HIV

- Privatizing Wisconsin's partner notification program to increase contact with people who may have been infected by someone recently diagnosed with HIV

- Enhancing community-based primary care for people with HIV/AIDS and achieving full access to medical care and drug therapies

- Increasing community-based AIDS services to increase adherence to and success with new AIDS drug therapies

In the past four years, Wisconsin has reported 1,429 new HIV infections, a 31% increase. The number of women with AIDS in Wisconsin has increased 63% and the number of teens with AIDS is up 44%.

Living Generously at AIDS Walk Wisconsin!

Great Harvest Bread Company will provide mini "race rolls" to AIDS Walk Wisconsin walkers at Rest Stop 2 on Sept. 20. For the sixth year, Jill and Rod Hall, owners of Great Harvest, will help walkers start the day with their generous donation. Over the last five years, they have supplied more than 4,500 pounds of whole grain bread and 360 person hours to feed hungry walkers. The community is grateful!

Tenth Anniversary Date Announced for Miss Gay Wisconsin-USofA Pageant

The dates for this year's Miss Wisconsin-USofA Pageant, the official preliminary for Miss Gay USofA Pageant, has been tentatively scheduled for Sat., Nov. 7, at Za's Videobar in Green Bay, and finals night on Sun., Nov. 8, at a venue in Green Bay to be determined.

In addition to this later date, the pageant has new owners.

Jingle Productions has passed the reigns on to Ken Kujava and ZA (Mark Mariucci), who also are the owners of Za's Videobar, Java's, Cafe Bourbon and this magazine, Quest. John Jacobs, one of the owners of Jingle Productions, decided to give up the pageant after moving to San Francisco and finding problems operating the pageant system from such a long distance.

Ken and Za have been closely associated with the pageant from its beginnings with Jimmy King and were one of the first sub-franchisers purchasing Miss Green Bay-USofA and their creation, Miss Emerald City-USofA. After Jimmy King passed away, the pageant moved to TAG

Team Productions, whose members included two of Za's team members, one being bar manager Greg Diring.

The Mr. Gay Wisconsin USofA, Miss Gay Great Lakes USofA and Miss Gay Great Lakes-at-Large pageants have all been hosted at Za's in recent years. Last year, Jingle Productions held the preliminary night for Miss Gay Wisconsin-USofA at Za's to a sellout crowd.

In a sense, the change of ownership means little in change of management. Many of the people who have been involved with the day-to-day operations in past years are still connected to the pageant. What has changed is the stability factor. Za's and Quest can bring the financial stability the pageant needs to survive into the next millennium.

It's no secret there are more pageant systems than ever in Wisconsin today competing for your attention. The legacy Jimmy King started will be continued with a premium on Quality. A concerted effort has begun to reduce the overall number of preliminary pageants so we can keep the

DISTURBING HOMOPHOBIC TRENDS CONTINUE IN THE METRO GREEN BAY AREA

This article is an opinion and should not be regarded as solid news. It is presented in the hope it will cause you to look at some of the things going on around us and question if we need to do something about it.

Last weekend, July 31 & August 1 and 2, the Green Bay police carried out a raid on Adult Gift Shoppe, an adult bookstore on North Broadway. They went inside and viewed persons engaging in oral sex or masturbation in a "public place" and waited until these people left the bookstore before arresting them. I assume this was to keep their actions secret and catch as many people as possible. Now the city is looking into the matter to see if there were enough violations to close down the business.

This might be a case of getting even, since the owner, Don Conrad, also owns a certain Adult strip club the city has tried unsuccessfully to close for years. The club recently won a lawsuit concerning total nudity which was a bit of a setback for the city in terms of cleaning up all the adult sex businesses in the area. The sting operation might also be one more step in the efforts to clean up Broadway Street in general. Green Bay recently began a second crusade to transform this street into a new upscale area and get rid of all of what they call undesirable elements on the street.

Unfortunately for the individuals involved in the arrests, whatever the reasons, public embarrassment is what they now face. It's true Green Bay does not permit public sex of any kind. It's also true that it has been going on far longer than I have been a gay man, and will continue for years to come. People go to these places because they are closeted about their homosexuality. The spring raid on the wayside south of De Pere has not stopped wayside sex in the area, (although I'm glad they added street lights so the area is now safer.) People will avoid this bookstore for a while now, but will find new places to cruise. We make matters worse by publicizing these "moral outrages" on the news media. Was it really necessary for WBAY TV 2 to list the peoples' names with pictures and then try to conduct interviews including the employer of one more famous individual? WBAY certainly doesn't earn the award Rainbow Over Wisconsin gave to competing stations WLUK or WFRV for presenting a more positive approach to gays and lesbians in recent years. Instead of making a positive environment in the hope closeted homosexuals will come to terms and not need these type of sexual pursuits, our society continues to push the closet door shut. Examples: Reggie White's current moral crusade against gays, and these useless raids on public sex hangouts.

The clean-up-Broadway project has another victim. Part of the re-do means the removal of several blocks of Broadway to make way for a marina. Napalese, a long time fixture in the gay community is one business that will have to move. Ann and Nancy purchased the building and business a few years ago and have been busy making improvements. Now must start all over somewhere else. The problem is, they are not being permitted to relocate on the same street unless they add a restaurant at a huge additional investment. They are told this is because Green Bay is trying to clean up the street and wants to reduce the number of bars on the street; never mind the city is the one that wants them to move, or that Green Bay has an ordinance forbidding bars West of Broadway Street effectively eliminating an entire half of the city. To make matters worse, Wisconsin passed a stupid liquor license law which in effect allows bars selling their businesses to jack up the price. Napalese has tough decisions to make, and unlike all the help Green Bay gave to straight businesses moving to Washington Street a few years back, very little in cooperation in being given to these two straight women who own a gay business. (It looks like Napalese may have found a new home, but it is still too early to give you the dish.)

None of these events are deliberate attempts to harass homosexuals, but they do affect us all. We need city governments interested in working with the gay community, not behind our backs. We are as much to blame for these developments. It's too easy for us to look at how far we have come in the United States, and forget that most of the progressive attitudes towards Wisconsin gays come from Madison, not from our home towns.

If you are angry WBAY decided to embarrass the raid victims, I hope you will call them and complain. Better yet, write letters and lots of them. WBAY did this to increase viewers for more ad dollars. Perhaps if we tell them we are switching networks, next time they will think twice. If you are angry or concerned about the other points I have made, I hope you will work with the other dedicated individuals out there who are trying to make a difference for us all. Please get involved.

Cream City Chorus First New Season Rehearsal Wed. Sept. 9

Want to join the Cream City
 Chorus?! You are most welcome, and here's your chance!

Their first rehearsal for the new season is set for Wed.,
 Sept. 9, 7-9 p.m., at First
 Unitarian Society, 1342 N.
 Astor St., Milwaukee.

FMI, (414) 344-WCCC.

Cream City Chorus will also perform at PrideFest on Sat.,
 Aug. 29, 1:30 pm, on the
 Variety Stage, a good opportunity to meet Chorus folks and
 "check 'em out!"

followers to "Bring the little children unto me". (I am not going there) Unmarried teachers over 30 have one heck of a patron saint to emulate. I find it difficult to believe they are worshipping the same Jesus which the more mainstream faiths are promoting. You know the one who taught love and forgiveness.

Troy Perry (Founder M.C.C.) said it best "The Lord Is My Shepherd and He Knows I am Gay" Enough already -- I shouldn't have started.

ANYWAY, things are coming together. If you want to contact: Mike about the walk; call the Eagle or e mail at Bearzall@aol.com Joe G, about the float and leather contingent, call 414-769-0216; E mail BootBoy2u@aol.com and for Bikers who want to lead off the Parade, call me at 342-3674, Email PPAJOE@aol.com. If out, leave a message and please no late night calls. I will do my best to have more information about placards things ASAP.

DORE ALLEY/San Francisco Is getting quite a reputation for the time and place to be in S.F. is your are into the the Leather Fetish scene. I have been in contact with 2 guys who took it in. Randy, who arrived there on Thursday & came back Tuesday, late and too worn out to do a report. Let me put it this way - - between gasping for breath, he acknowledged it was TOO Much.

Lenny Broberg (IML 1995/96) in a brief note, said the following; "Dore Alley Street Fair was fun. It is a smaller version of the Folsom Street Fair. It is however more leather and more men. F.S.F. is more of a San Francisco Street Fair with leather overtones. Dore Alley is strictly leather stuff.

Hope you and Lee are all doing well and give my best to the gang." Lenny

LEATHER/FETISH

by Papa Joe

Milwaukee WI - Wisconsin PrideFest - August 28, 29, 30

An Update...Remember last issue the comments about getting our Leather Fetish segment of the community together for the AIDS Walk and for PrideFest? Well, here is an up date of some of the happenings.

Milwaukee Eagle We currently have 20 people signed up for the AIDS WALK after last weekend's sign-up special. We plan to continue to promo it at the bar to get as many TEAM EAGLE walkers as possible and sponsors for them as well.

Thanks to Gus and an anonymous donor, the cost of building a float and entering the float and a convertible in the Pride Parade is covered. We are just working on getting volunteers to help build the float as well as getting a Leather Contingent to ride on it. Joe (Daddy's Boy '97/'98) is handling that end of it.

Also, we now have our original DJ back. EDDIE will be spinning on Wed. thru Sun. He truly is the best DJ in town.

---Mike/Eagle

Milwaukee/S. Water St. Docks AIDS Walk fund raiser was a real fabulous fun day, which included a dunk tank, games, food, drink specials, an auction and a beer bust. The Saturday SoltBall league champions (SWS Docks) manned the Margarita Madness bar. It was full and fun day and took in a bunch of money for the Walk.

---Steve/SWS Docks

As a addendum in the note recruiting bikers for PrideFest, the following paragraphs made it around the world at least once.

"Also anyone want to carry a banner or placard at the front gate, to counter the radical religious right contingent: maybe even offer prayers for their salvation, hand out literature (bring rubber gloves), will be welcome.

This is not an ACT UP type of confrontation, just a quiet act of "F_K YOU, which will probably be more fun that a beating while licking tall, thick boots -- yuummy."

The above has gotten a lot of response. Many clubs have forwarded the message to everyone on their mailing list and the replies suggest, if they could, there would be a lot of placard carriers.

Thus far there are now 3 Reverend types who are excited about the possibility of members of the Gay, Lesbian, Bi and Trans, carrying placards. All want to make sure you understand this will not be ugly or an aggressive confrontation. It is not a part of PrideFest, just a calm and collective assembly using their Bible to say "cram it" in a dignified manner.

More after the following reply -

What day are you going to do this? I hope it's Sat., cause we will be doing Security on Friday afternoon (2 to 7pm). Then, on Saturday we are doing the Brew City Bears Beer Tent.

I 'd love to be out front to counter the Religious Right if our volunteer time does not conflict. That ought to be a blast. I don't know if you have been watching Ralphie Baby on channel 30 lately, but he's gearing up for PrideFest. Spouting his anti-gay propaganda. I think he is trying to get his little band of wackos together to protest. He makes the hair on the back of my neck bristle, he is so nauseating. However, I do watch because I want to know just what he is up to. Know thine enemy even if he turns your stomach.

If you want to know about Communism, you have to read Marx and the writings of Stalin. If you want to know the tactics of the religious right, you have to watch them on TV or get on their web sites or send for the latest publications and read them to know about them and how to fight them. Like cockroaches, you can't ignore them because they are not going away. You have to have a good plan to keep them in control or they can take over your house. This is an ongoing battle, not just at PrideFest, but year round. I hope that we in the leather community can continue to do what we can to fight the Right. Not just at PrideFest, but the rest of the year also.

---Count me in/Gary

Hey, Gary, and thanks for the comments: I really don't know what time, if any, is scheduled. It may depend on when the "mad hatters" show up. But then, there is nothing wrong with being there first. And who knows, might be that a bunch of folks will be waiting to fill in for us when we do our volunteer gigs.

I want to re-stress, this is not an official function of PrideFest and is in no way connected with this fine organization, just a Constitutional right to assemble peaceably.

You are so right, when you say their actions are stomach turning. It is discusting, when in the name of some God, they pick and choose Biblical passages for extrapolation, just to create a common enemy to give their ovine like membership a cause. Change that to, control them.

What ever happen to getting to "know" (it' in T e Book) your fellow man. It use to be the rage, the same as stoning women in red dresses. You don't hear about that, do you. Did a powerfull Red Dress P.A.C. donate to the Republican cause??

I am reminded of the time Anita Bryant was on her Gay Teachers kick, demanding all unmarried male teachers over 30 be terminated. Her reasons centered around Gays being child molesters. It seems someone pointed out to her that Jesus was unmarried and over 30 when he started his public life as rabbi (which means teacher). AND it was further noted that he bade his
