February 21, 1903 (96 years ago this week): The Ariston, a gay bathhouse in New York City, is raided by the police.

What is the history of gay bathhouses?

Bathhouses were in existence as far back as ancient Greece and Rome and even then were sites of sexual encounters between men. But bathhouses specifically aimed at providing rendezvous space for gay men first appeared in the early decades of the 20th century.

Cities like New York and San Francisco created municipal bathhouses as a public health measure in the late 19th century, because overcrowding and lack of indoor plumbing had aggravated the spread of disease in poor neighborhoods. Though these baths were also meeting places for working-class homosexuals, the watchful eyes of the bathhouse personnel made it difficult for men to have sexual encounters there.

More conducive to sexual activity were private Turkish baths, which provided a higher level of safety and privacy for gay male sex than parks or tearooms. They were also places where men could make friends. Some baths were gay-friendly and welcomed "the patronage of pansies" as long as the police didn't become involved. Gay men might tip the staff to ignore their sexual goings-on. Sometimes, gay men would simply meet at a bathhouse and arrange a later assignation. In these establishments, there was often a particular time of day, a certain day of the week, or a specific room in the bathhouse that was especially gay. At Coney Island in the 1930s, gay sexual activity occurred mostly in the steam room of one private bathhouse. An eyewitness recalled "an atmosphere murky with steam ... If one stumbles over a pair in the act, one mutters a hasty apology and goes on quickly in another direction."

In addition to gay-friendly baths were those that specifically catered to gay men. These businesses protected their gay customers by keeping out heterosexuals who might make a scene if propositioned. One such establishment was the Ariston, a bathhouse on West 55th Street in New York, which, as early as 1902, had an almost exclusively gay clientele. For a dollar, a man was given a sheet, a dressing room, and a smorgasbord of services and activities. Despite the fact that there were private rooms with cots, the dark public "cooling room" was in fact a hotbed of gay sexual encounters.

The police soon discovered that the Ariston was "the resort for persons for the purpose of sodomy." On February 21, 1903, after several hours of undercover work to gather evidence, police officers conducted a raid, arresting 26 men on charges of "degenerate disorderly conduct." One man who had been observed with nine sexual partners received a prison sentence of 20 years.

Other popular gay baths in early 20th-century New York included the Everard (nicknamed the "Ever Hard" and later a favorite spot of Rock Hudson), which survived until a 1977 fire, and the Lafayette Baths, which gay artist Charles Demuth captured in a series of paintings made before 1920. The Lafayette was raided twice, once in 1916 and again in 1929, resulting in the arrest of several dozen patrons. One of those arrested recalled how brutally the police treated the patrons during the 1929 raid, kicking and striking them and pushing them into paddy wagons.

During World War II in San Francisco, Turkish baths provided an important way for servicemen on leave in the city to meet and have sex, since bars were off limits to soldiers and sailors and hotel rooms were hard to come by. One ex-serviceman recalled that Jack's Baths was "very, very busy ... It was all gay.... There was never any question about being careful making passes."

By 1950, almost all the bathhouses in New York and San Francisco were gay. But the increase in the number and visibility of these gay bathhouses also led to a McCarthy-era crackdown. The baths, along with other gay establishments like bars, became targets of police harassment. One San Francisco newspaper called the harassment a virtual "war on homosexuals." Because raids were so common, bathhouse patrons often refrained from signing in with their real names, for fear that police might turn the names in to the newspaper.

Throughout the next two decades, gay bathhouses flourished. The Club Baths was a chain with a reputation for cleanliness and safety. Started in Cleveland in 1965, it quickly became a national network of 42 bathhouses with 500,000 card-carrying members (still one of the largest gay organizations in history). The Club Baths was known for its relaxing atmosphere, complete with fountains and palm trees. "I wanted more than rooms where men could fuck," the owner said of his efforts to create a place where gay men could be themselves.

With the coming of the AIDS epidemic, gay bathhouses were once again the focus of a crackdown. The baths were cited as public health hazards, despite the fact that many provided condoms and safer sex information to their patrons. The debate split the gay community, with some activists defending the bathhouses and others demanding they be closed. In 1985, New York Mayor Ed Koch, long considered a friend to the gay community, ordered the closing of the city's bathhouses. Similar closings took place in other cities, despite vigorous lobbying by many gay activists for their continued existence.

have expressed interest in pageants and asked me to help. I'm always honored when this happens. However, recently, I've been distressed more and more by comments on one issue.....'well, I'm not running because so and so is.'

What ever happened to the thrill of competition? Where is the rule which says one is guaranteed to win any contest entered? Personally, I've never entered a pageant and expected to win. But, with hard work and a lot of luck, I've done okay. Finding out that other very talented people were also entering made me work even harder and my claws came out....ready to do my best.

There are so many of you who would be excellent representatives for Wisconsin as a boy or girl. Consider making a goal and competing it, regardless of who else is entering the pageant. Don't let your decision be based on one of others. Remember, having lost a few times and knowing how it feels makes victory that much sweeter!"

Son of Rev. Hull to be Installed as New Pastor of MCC Church in North Carolina

Apparently Good Things Do Run in the Family....

The Feb. 9 edition of Angels' Voice, newsletter of Angels of Hope MCC Church (Green Bay and Appleton) carries a little squib announcing that Rev. Hull's son, Ken, Jr., will be installed as pastor of the MCC Church in Winston-Salem, N.C. What a joy it will be for Ken, Sr. and Ken, Jr. as our Rev. Ken delivers the installation sermon and their Rev. Ken assumes his pulpit.

Jeff Jennings, Mr. Great Lakes-USofA Speaks Out on Pageant Competition

"In recent weeks, I've been trying to promote the different pageants around our state. As a competitor, performer and judge, I always enjoy seeing people take part in the spirit of competition and keep Wisconsin (particularly northeast Wisconsin) on top of the field regarding pageants.

Many of you have probably been bugged by me at one time or another about entering either as a boy or girl. Also, many people

Tinky Winky, Telly Tubby, Jerry Falwell - - Geeezzz - - by the time this flap is over, the Senate will be talking about Medicare and none of us will know what happened with the impeachment trial - - not that many of us give a crap. I think it is a sign of our times when we make such a stink about a blowjob in the Oval Office and purple cartoon character. What have we stooped to??

Sorta' reminds me of the time when Anita Bryant was trying to get unmarried male teachers over 30 fired because they are gay and would molest the children. Seems someone reminded her that Jesus of Nazareth was unmarried and over 30 when he started his teaching career - - further, he bade his followers to bring the little children to him.

Go Figure. If Jesus had a patent leather purse, things would sure be different and Falwell would be harping on women in red dresses. - - Enough of that crap - -

Thank you for your best wishes and kind thoughts; I am getting around the house, but will not be out and about for some time to come. Surgery was long and extensive. I am slowly getting my strength back and it still hurts like hell at times. Got a couple of months before the bone grafts will heal enough to dump the crutches. The good doctor suggests my line dancing days may be at an end. For me this is a relief, for the last time I tried at the Gay Nineties, I showed one and all how a Belgian with two left feet does a cowboy dance step. It was not pretty. *****

The Mr. WI Leather Man Contest - - Sat., Feb. 20, 9 PM, at the Milwaukee Eagle. Contestants will vie for cash and prizes totaling over $1500 as well as the right to represent Wisconsin at International Mr. Leather Contest in Chicago. FMI call Larry / Joe at (414)931-9760; E mail @ mrwilthrmn@aol.com.

Brew City Bears/S.E. WIS will have a club nite on Feb. 27 at the Boot Camp Saloon with an after hours party. The weather should be better this time around, so those with Cabin Fever should be able to make it out.

We also plan one on March 27. These will be the only ones with after hours events, as we plan on skipping a few months and doing something different for those not into the bar scene. Details on the March event will be posted later.

POSITIVE VOICE invites you to attend the 6th Annual DAY OF SELF DISCOVERY, a Conference on GLBT Issues. It will be held on Saturday, March 6th, from 9:00am to 3:45pm at Liberty Hall, 800 Eisenhower Dr. in Kimberly, WI.

Speakers and entertainers will include the following:

Dave Kopay

As a former Green Bay Packer and author of the Dave Kopay Story, Kopay is the first professional football player to openly acknowledge that he was gay. He has been a strong voice for tolerance and acceptance, appearing in countless magazine and news stories. Dave has publicly criticized, through national media, Reggie White's unconscionable statements on gays.

Miriam Ben-Shalom

Miriam spent 13 years in court battles fighting her discharge from military service in 1975 for being a openly homosexual. In 1988, a Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that the military could not ban her from service because she was a lesbian. She is revered as a pioneer in the struggle for equality for GLBT's and has received many awards. An author, leader, lobbyist and Milwaukee teacher, Miriam will share her experiences of how she spoke out for gay rights in a time when few others were willing to do so.

Scott Fearing

Scott is the statewide organizer for OutFront Minnesota. Previously, Fearing was Coordinator of Education and Training for The Gay and Lesbian Community Action Council and has worked as a private consultant to both the public and private sectors. Yearly he provides GLBT education to thousands across the country in a variety of settings including schools, businesses, conferences and public forums. Fearing will be giving an interactive presentation on internal/external homophobia. His appearance is sponsored by Action Wisconsin and Equality Begins at Home.

Entertainers Against AIDS

Entertainers Kitty Rosman and Jeff Jennings will be performing for the Conference. Jeff and Kitty are two members of the Entertainers Against AIDS (EAA) group. Both Jeff and Kitty have been popular entertainers in the Northeast Wisconsin area for a number of years.

DOSD 99 has been designated as an official preliminary event to "Equality Begins At Home". EB@H is a nationwide event geared for grassroots lobbying efforts and local networking of the GLBT community. Scott Fearing's appearance is sponsored by Action Wisconsin in conjunction with a grant from the NGLTF as a part of their national "Month of March Equality Begins at Home Campaign". DOSD99 has also been made possible with the assistance of these fine Organizations: Sunshine Travel Inc., B Dalton Books, Rainbow Over Wisconsin.

The cost to attend the event will be $38 if registering at 9:00-9:30am on the day of the conference. This fee will include refreshments and lunch. Special early registration fees are offered as follows: Early Bird Rate (registrations received postmarked February 26th or earlier) are $25 for PV Members and $29 for non-members; Pre-Event Rate (registrations received postmarked between February 27th and March 2nd) are $30 for PV Members and $34 for non-members. Registrations received after March 3rd are $38 for all attendees.

POSITIVE VOICE is Northeast Wisconsin's largest GLBT organization. As a volunteer based organization, we have been working for over 6 years to help our community and to present a Positive Voice in the lives of those around us. POSITIVE VOICE can be contacted at PO BOX 1381, Green Bay, WI 54305-1381, by phone: 920-435-4404 or via email: pvnew4glbt@aol.com .
