March 8, 1970 (29 years ago this week): Diego Vinales is impaled in New York City.

Who was Diego Vinales?

The riots that took place at the Stonewall Inn in June 1969 have come down in history as the impetus of the lesbian and gay liberation movement. But a gruesome incident several months later also roused the fledgling movement, making the name "Diego Vinales" a rallying cry to action.

In the early morning hours of March 8, 1970, New York City police raided a bar in Greenwich Village called the Snake Pit. Much like the Stonewall Inn, the Snake Pit was a dark, dingy, overcrowded "private club" operated by the Mafia without a liquor license. The licensing violation was the ostensible reason for the raid, though Sidney Pine, the police inspector in charge, told reporters that people in the neighborhood had also complained about noise.

Pine and his officers had closed two similar bars the night before. Both of those raids had occurred early in the evening, however, before many customers arrived. The police sent the handful of clients home and arrested only the management and employees.

In contrast, the evening was in full swing at the Snake Pit when the police arrived. Officers hauled a total of 167 people, staff and customers alike, off to the precinct house. Pine, who had also been responsible for the Stonewall raid eight months earlier, was aware of the danger of "a riotous crowd milling around outside," he told a Village Voice reporter. "Our purpose in making the arrests was to get them out of there."

Paddy wagons arrived to transport the men to the police station. Reports of what actually happened at the precinct house varied wildly. "Things were terribly disorganized," one eyewitness later said. Some men asserted that they were never read their rights or apprised of the charges against them. Others said the police verbally abused them by calling them "faggots." Still others claimed the police were incredibly polite and referred to them as "gentlemen."

In this confusion, a 23-year-old Argentinean national named Diego Vinales panicked. Worried about deportation and the fact that his family didn't know he was gay, Vinales raced up the stairs to the second floor of the station and either leaped or fell from a window. An iron fence surrounded the building, and Vinales was impaled on six 14-inch spikes. Inside the precinct house, the gay men arrested with Vinales listened with horror to his screams.

Amazingly, Vinales was still alive when the police got to him. Because they couldn't move him off the fence without causing further injury, the fire department's special rescue squad was called in. Using an electric saw, the rescue team cut away the section of the fence on which Vinales was impaled and brought him to the hospital with the fence prongs still imbedded in his thigh and pelvis. During a two-hour surgery, doctors dislodged the spikes from Vinales's flesh.

News of Vinales's grisly ordeal spread quickly. The Gay Liberation Front (GLF) and the Gay Activists Alliance (GAA), two organizations who usually had different priorities, worked together to rally people for a march on the precinct. In addition to holding an all-day phone-a-thon, activists distributed 3,000 flyers in bars and on the streets. "Any way you look at it," the flyers read, "that boy was pushed! We are all being pushed!" One activist, Allen Warshawsky, recalled how Vinales's fall made him and others feel: "I [began] to feel an anger welling up inside me.... An anger at the stinking, rotten, corrupt system that defines, fosters and promotes my 'criminal' status."

At nine o'clock that night, 500 gay people marched en masse to the Sixth Precinct. GLF carried its banner, while other signs read "Gays Are Getting Angry." Shouts of "Say it loud ... gay is proud!" and "Stop the killings!" went out from the crowd, but the demonstrators were in general orderly and well-behaved. After a protest at the police station, the crowd continued on to St. Vincent's Hospital, where they held a "death vigil" for Vinales.

Miraculously, though, Vinales didn't die, though he underwent surgery several times and spent more than three months in the hospital. Arthur Bell, a reporter for Gay Power, visited Vinales in the hospital and found the young Argentinean unwilling to talk about the incident in detail, perhaps out of fear. "His family may now know of the Snake Pit incident," Bell wrote. "He has not heard from them."

In the aftermath, GAA emerged as a leader of the movement. It achieved several major coups, like winning the support of then-Congressman (and later mayor) Ed Koch, who wrote an impassioned letter to the Police Commissioner calling for an end to police harassment of gay people. Vinales's tragic fall galvanized the lesbian and gay community as nothing since the Stonewall riots had.

SHAE JONES DEBUT ALBUM - "TALK SHOW"

If you are into R&B music, then Shae Jones' album Talk Show deserves your attention! It's the first release on M3, R&B singer Montell Jordan's record label (distributed by Universal) and it is HOT!

"Talk Show" travels through the in-your-face exploits of a '90s woman. With interludes that push the album's plot forward, the 14-track collection explores sex, love, and the drama associated with both. "My project is about women voicing their opinions. It's a wake-up call for men." Shae, a member of our community, co-wrote three cuts on the album, with a majority of the writing and production handled by the platinum-selling Montell Jordan and his M3 crew.

The first track "Talk Show Shhh!" is a saucy ballad about adultery with a story torrid enough for the Jerry Springer show. In fact, Jerry Springer make a cameo appearance in the video for the clip.

Sat. Softball Organizational Meeting Set for Sun., March 7 - Milw. LGBT Center

A meeting to lay the groundwork for the 1999 softball season will be held Sun., March 7, 3 p.m., at the LGBT Center...and YOU ARE WELCOME to participate!

Spokesman Tony Johnson said the group will be establishing a committee to set up the schedule of games, take a look at the organization's constitution and discuss fundraising initiatives.

"We want to try to broaden the participation in the league here in Milwaukee as well as try to get information to both Madison and Green Bay," says Johnson.

Rainbow Over Wisconsin Announces This Year's Pride Picnic / Volunteers Wanted!

Once again ROW has selected early July for holding this year's picnic. The picnic held again at the Al Kampke farm near Brillion, Wisconsin will be Saturday, July 10 from noon until 6.

Last year the picnic was moved from the Labor Day weekend to July to keep from interfering with Pridfest. Just as Pridfest decided on August as it's new date for it's festival, Rainbow Over Wisconsin is staying with July dates for the Pride Picnic. The warmer weather has a great affect on attendance and the members felt early July was a better choice. ROW took care to keep from interfering with other picnics or events in the state including Magic Picnic which is two weeks later.

This year's picnic will again provide a mix of live and lip sync talent but will place a new increased involvement in fun and games including volleyball, drag races and other fun events.

The Rainbow Over Wisconsin Pride Picnic is the major fundraiser ROW hosts to provide funding for various Les-bi-gay-trans organizations and other groups that provide a benefit to the community including ARCW. The group is non-profit and all members volunteer their time and involvement in the group.

Volunteers are urgently needed, especially for the food and beverage serving since the Argonauts of Wisconsin will not be manning those areas this year. Persons wishing to get involved should call Quest and provide their phone number so you can be invited to attend a ROW meeting and discuss your involvement with the picnic.

Saving Lives, Responding to AIDS: AIDS Advocates at the Capitol Rally Set for Thurs., March 25

ARCW will rally more than 150 concerned citizens in Madison on Thursday, March 25, for Wisconsin's first ever AIDS legislative event...Saving Lives, Responding to AIDS: AIDS Advocates at the Capitol.

The Wisconsin Legislature will soon begin working on the 1999-2001 State budget, and ARCW is organizing a lobbying day to inform elected officials about HIV and AIDS funding needs for the next two years.

"Our goal is to bring more than 150 AIDS Advocates from all parts of Wisconsin to Madison. The clear message must be that AIDS is not over. Advocates will work to build support for effective public policies," said Mike Gifford, ARCW deputy executive director. "At stake are access to health care and effective prevention programs. Advocates need to rally to support these policies."

Gifford explained the need for people to participate, citing that half of all new HIV infections are among young people; that HIV is on the rise within many communities, and the need for HIV and AIDS services is at a record high.

Individuals and groups are encouraged to participate in the lobby day. In the morning, advocates will learn how to lobby and receive talking points on key HIV prevention and care issues. A luncheon gathering will rally advocates before participating in scheduled meetings with state senators and representatives in the afternoon. There are no fees for participating in any of the day's events. FMI, please call Laurie Marks (800) 359-9272, ext. 297.

Fox Cities PFLAG Conference April 17

The Fox cities chapter of PFLAG (Parents, Friends, and Families of Lesbians and Gays) is hosting its first conference, - Open Hearts, Open Minds - on Sat., April 17. The purpose of the conference is three-fold...to educate the community on a variety of issues relating to GLBT communities, to show and receive support as the struggle for equal rights continues and to advocate an end of discrimination. The conference will be held within the ever-supportive walls of Liberty Hall in Kimberly.

A wide array of workshops are available for those who attend Open Hearts, Open Mind. On Fri. evening, April 16, the conference will be kicked off with a showing of the controversial video, "It's Elementary," followed by a discussion led by Laurie McCulloch, an Appleton area school social worker. This part of the conference is free and open to the public.

During the day on Sat., April 17, the workshop offerings include Appleton Police Chief Richard Myers, Central Region PFLAG Director Sandy Brown, Action Wisconsin on getting involved in the political process, Dr. Jerry Wellens on the dangers of conversion therapy, the Appleton GLBT Youth Partnership, a clergy panel speaking on the responses of churches to GLBT issues, Sol Kelley-Jones, youth activist and recipient of the GLSEN Youth Pathfinder Award, and much, much more.

The cost of the conference is $35 for adults and includes all sessions, continental breakfast, lunch and afternoon snack and conference materials. A reduced rate of $15 is available for youth

by Papa Joe

Andrew Sagan of Madison - Wisconsin Mr. Leather 1999!

A capacity crowd of leather folks filled the Milwaukee Eagle Saturday, February 20, where eight hot contestants vied for prizes in excess of $1,700 and the title of Mr. Wisconsin Leatherman 1999.

The winner is Andrew Sagan of Madison. First runner-up is Tom Larson of Kenosha and the second runner-up is Tim Craft, also of Madison.

Andrew will represent Wisconsin at International Mr. Leather, Memorial Day Weekend in Chicago as well as available as a representative and spokesman for the Wisconsin Leather Community.

The judges were Joseph Bean of the Leather Archives Museum in Chicago, John Owen of Leather United Chicago, Lee Scherz, local leather man and former Mr. Boot Camp, Larry Self, one of Wisconsin Leatherman contest organizers.

The contestants were of such quality that only two points separated the winner for the 1st runner-up.

It was a very well run and successful event. From all reports, the audience and judges were impressed by the number and quality of hot leathermen who vied for the title and prizes.

I quote Joseph Bean. "It was astonishing to find eight great guys in the Mr. Wisconsin Leather Man Contest. Hell, I've judged contests that are well-established, running for years in supposedly major leather communities where it was all the producers could do to get three or four decent contestants."

Lee Scherz, who like Joseph Bean is a veteran on the contest circuit, commented that the contest ran with "engineered precision". He had trouble believing this was the first ever contest the organizers had staged.

A note from Lit'l Joe (one of the organizers) asked me to pass along the following: "The organizers would like to thank all who attended, the judges, the contestants, the emcee and the Wisconsin leather clubs for their help. Also the 1100 Club, Milwaukee Eagle, South Water St. Docks and Blue Lite for the bar tabs; and Papa Joe's Leather, Avant-Garde Piercing and Quick Draw Tattooing for the gift certificates."

As you no doubt know there was a very fun "After the Contest Party," lasting till the wee hours with lots of food, pizza, beer, and ??? By the way, the person who left one of their socks may claim it by calling Lit'l Joe and identifying it. :-) from - Oberons/Milwaukee Hi, guy; hope this finds you in great spirits from your surgery. Just a little note from the Oberons. Our club nights at the EAGLE & Boot Camp were our best ever club nights and would like to thank them and everyone that came out to support us.

Our Club membership is continuing to grow and we welcome Chip and Mike as new members. They will be a great addition to the club.

Here is our schedule of Club nights: March 13, The 1100 club "cum lick our Blamey Stones" and April 10, we will be back at The Eagle. May 8th not firm, but will probably be at the Boot Camp.

JUNE 18-20 will be our anniversary run. Also just a quick note to announce that The Oberons are going to do the South Eastern Wis. Mr. Leather Contest - PrideFest Weekend; so look for details at a later date.

Thanks, my friend: - - my spirits are fine, thank you, that is until I get pooped out or one of the recovery aches decides to do a number. All in all, quite well. Miss being out and about tho, so keep me posted.

feel at home."

Thank you Joseph, for you kind remarks. I agree with you, in fact, most of the folks here are pretty darn neat.

Next time you come to town, I hope I am up and about for I want to show you around a bit. Maybe we can do a fundraiser for the Leather Archives and Museum.

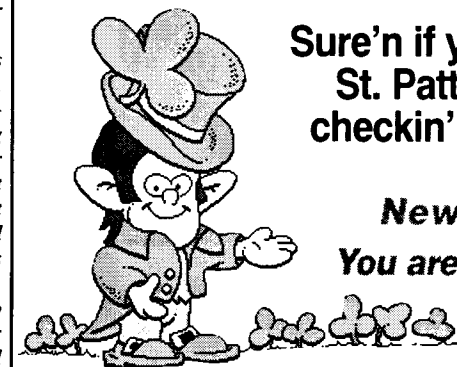

Getting back to the smoothness and professionalism of the contest, recently I was involved in a discussion relating to the lack of "Young Blood" in leadership roles in our community. My position was that they are all around us, chomping at the bit, hoping for an invite and some mentoring from those of us who have done it.

I am pleased to say, I was able to do a bit of mentoring for the Mr Wisconsin Leather contest folks and am very happy to see how these young men proved themselves so commendably.

It is time we older bucks stand aside and encourage the young men to take those unsteady first steps into leadership roles. We must stand ready to assist them over the ruff

On the subject of The Leather Archives & Museum - I lift a couple of paragraphs for Joseph Bean's last note.

"located in Chicago and serving the world as we say, is conducting a campaign to raise funds to buy a permanent home for the rapidly growing collection of leather history. Even though we're still in a small store front shop, funded entirely by gifts from leather men and women and their clubs, we are already serving the research needs of dozens of grad students and several television networks and a wide variety of publishers and researchers. It's inconceivable what we will be able to do once we're settled into a home large enough to make our collections accessible to all the people who want to use them.

The Leather Archives & Museum is always seeking donations of cash, of course, but even more important are the gifts of club records and colors, personal records and journals, magazines and flyers and posters."
