PAST/OUT

BY DAVID BIANCO

May 6, 1971 (28 years ago this week): The Gay Activists Alliance Firehouse, an early gay community center, opens in lower Manhattan.

What was the Gay Activists Alliance?

In the aftermath of the Stonewall riots of June 1969, a gay liberation movement quickly began to emerge, with organizations sprouting up first in New York City and then in cities around the country. These new groups used the word "gay" proudly in their names, instead of the more cautious terms like "homophile" favored by earlier gay-rights organizations.

At the front of the pack was the Gay Liberation Front, which got its start a month after Stonewall. The name was meant to echo that of the National Liberation Front of Vietnam, a Marxist group, but also to signify a far-ranging movement instead of one monolithic organization.

GLF staggered early on, suffering from a lack of structure and leadership. Meetings could be freewheeling and fragmented, with lots of infighting. Some of those involved became dissatisfied that the founders wanted to extend the group's focus to include issues like peace and ecology. Many women were disgruntled by the sexism they encountered in GLF. Some transgendered people also found themselves unwelcome. Before long, GLF members began to splinter off and form other groups. In December 1969, approximately 10 defectors from GLF worked up a constitution for a new organization they named the Gay Activists Alliance.

Unlike GLF, GAA declined to address non-gay-specific issues. It also created a hierarchical structure of officers, committees, and members, with meetings run according to Roberts Rules of Order. GAA embodied what one gay journalist called "middle-of-the-road radicalism." The group used radical tactics like sit-ins and heckling and perfected the "zap," a surprise disruption. But GAA was interested less in effecting sweeping social change than in improving the lot of lesbians and gay men, mostly through legislative and electoral means.

GAA grew quickly after the group took a leading role in the demonstrations that followed the March 1970 controversy over the impaling of Diego Vinales, which set off a protest on which GLF and GAA cooperated, but which GAA largely orchestrated. A major coup for GAA was the enlistment of then-Congressman Ed Koch in trying to end police harassment of gay bars.

Shortly after the Vinales incident, GAA noisily disrupted several of Mayor John Lindsay's public appearances. In April 1970, the group zapped the mayor's speech at the Metropolitan Museum of Art and also the taping of his weekly TV talk show. A man from the group rushed onto the stage, crying: "Homosexuals want an end to job discrimination!" Other GAA-ers joined in, interrupting the mayor's conversation about pollution with guest Arthur Godfrey. "What good is environmental freedom if we don't have personal freedom?" a lesbian shouted.

Within days of the disturbance, GAA obtained meetings with both the deputy mayor and the chair of the city's Commission on Human Rights to discuss anti-gay discrimination and harassment. GAA initiated demands for a municipal gay rights ordinance, though it would take a full 15 years for such a bill to pass the city council.

In 1971, GAA set up headquarters in downtown Manhattan. The Firehouse, which opened on May 6, was an abandoned, turn-of-the-century fire station in Soho that the group leased and transformed into a gay social and cultural center. On the first floor, a large mural depicted various aspects of the lesbian and gay story - portraits of forefathers and foremothers like Walt Whitman and Gertrude Stein; a gay man behind bars; couples holding hands - interspersed with slogans of the day like "Gay Power."

In addition to general membership and committee meetings, the Firehouse hosted popular community dances. On Saturday nights, the meeting hall was transformed into a dance space that pulsed with disco music and attracted as many as 1,500 dancers, mostly men. Since gay bars in New York were still owned by the Mafia, the Firehouse provided an alternative to the seediness and danger of the bar scene at that time. For two dollars a head, gay people could dance all night and drink unlimited beer and soda.

Despite its accomplishments, GAA remained a very white, very male organization that fell under heavy criticism for its insularity and lack of attention to racism and sexism. Some women of color referred to the Firehouse as "a white boy's playhouse."

Over the next couple of years, GAA's focus became increasingly more social than political. In 1974, the Firehouse was burned by arsonists, and GAA never fully recovered from the loss. It finally disbanded in 1981.

The legacy of GAA, however, has lived on in lesbian and gay organizations like the National Gay and Lesbian Task Force and the Human Rights Campaign, in the zap-like tactics of ACT UP and the Lesbian Avengers, and in the gay community centers that dot the country. Like its predecessor, the New York Lesbian and Gay Community Services Center continued through the 1990s to charge only $2 a head for social and cultural activities, and today it still serves as the hub of gay activity in the city.

In court records, Colt Studio maintains that Badpuppy has used hundreds of copyrighted Colt Studio photographs on several of its web sites and galleries without Colt Studios knowledge or permission. Further, Colt claims that Badpuppy failed to remove images after cease and desist notices were sent to them. Badpuppy charges customers up to $20 a month to view and download pictures.

In connection with an allegation of a continual pattern of copyright abuse, the court has been asked to consider awarding RICO (Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organization Act) penalties in addition to other civil penalties and damages.

Colt Studio was founded in 1967 by Rip Colt. It is the premier gay erotic studio and specializes in extremely high quality magazines, calendars, greeting cards, art books, photo sets and videos.

Rip Colt stated that he believes Badpuppy has not only used Colt Studio photographs, but those of many other photographers, and as a leader in the industry, he feels this is an important step to help stop the blatant piracy of legally protected works.

Gay Film, Edge of Seventeen Brings Back the Tunes of 1984

Razor & Tie proudly present the soundtrack for the critically acclaimed motion picture, Edge of Seventeen. As much a tale of the '80s as a teenage coming-out saga set in Sandusky, Ohio, Edge of Seventeen covers universal themes of alienation, love, hate and discovery, following the life of Eric Hunter (Chris Stafford), a high school senior working at the local amusement park, as he develops an unmistakable attraction for co-worker Rod (Andersen Gabrych). Confusion, terror and exhilaration ensue as Eric ventures into a year of wonderment and self-discovery....

From Missing Persons to a Flock of Seagulls, from friendship bracelets to whip-its, the summer of 1984 was as 80s as the 80s got. This Razor & Tie release features an amazing collection of classic summer of '84 tunes like "Obsession" by Animotion, "Mickey" by Toni Basil, "Right by Your Side" by the Eurythmics and "Small Town Boy" by the Bronski Beat. The songs on this soundtrack provide the perfect backdrop for the events that unfold in Eric's life and captures the musical vibe of that summer. Also included is the classic Irving Berlin song, "Blue Skies," performed by comedienne, actor and singer Lea DeLaria (playing the role of club owner/den mother).

Edge of Seventeen has received numerous accolades including awards from the SF Gay and Lesbian Film Festival (Best Picture-Audience Award), Outfest '98 LA Gay & Lesbian Film Festival (Best Picture-Audience Award, Best Picture Grand Jury Prize, Grand Jury Award Best Screenplay), and the Seattle Gay Film Festival (Best Feature Film). Don't miss this great collection of '80s favorite that accompanies one of the most startlingly honest films of the year.

The movie will be released nationwide this summer, having just opened in New York and will open in Los Angeles on June 11. The soundtrack will be released May 18.

For more information on this film we suggest the review of same on page 52 of this month's Instinct Magazine. They also have a feature of the two sweethearts, Chris Stafford and Andersen Gabrych on page 12. YUM!

First Ever UW-Green Bay 10% Society Drag Ball Draws 250 People

The Ten Percent Society and the International Club at UW-GB sponsored the first ever drag ball recently. It was a great success and the outcome has opened doors for more activities on campus.

A crowd of 250 enjoyed the talent of five popular drag queens - Ellen Diamond, Loretta LaMour, Justine DeZire, DeeDee Winters and Scarlet Flair.

Jon Ruelle, co-chair of "10%" on campus, said "this was a great accomplishment because of lot of the people had never seen a drag show."

Ruelle added, "If we continue to have this type of support from the community, it will be easier for us to have future events."

PrideFest Wants You to Get the Word Out!

Every year at PrideFest, an open forum activity tent is available to organizations to sponsor a variety of speakers and presentations. The Stonewall Tent has hosted authors, activists, elected officials, organizational meetings, radio interviews, business leaders and more.

Use of the Stonewall Tent is FREE! If you are interested, contact Ted Berg (414) 272-3378.

A survey conducted by PrideFest reveals that our community is looking for presentations on specific topics, including gay marriage, financial planning, adoption, acceptance of each other within the LGBT community, religion and homosexuality, civil rights, transgender-ism, domestic partnership, coming out in the workplace, being gay at school, gay youth, lesbian health issues, gay/lesbian travel tours, alternative therapies, building strong relationships, senior citizen issues, herstory/history, dealing with anti-gay violence, overcoming addictions and a chance to meet political candidates.

Gay & Lesbian Elders Exhibit Now Open in Milwaukee

In honor of Older American's Month (May), SAGE/Milwaukee (Senior Action in a Gay Environment), the Milwaukee affiliate of the nation's oldest and largest organization serving lesbian and gay elderly, announces the Milwaukee opening of the nationally acclaimed exhibit by photographer Penny Coleman entitled "Village Elders: Portraits and Stories."

The exhibit is on display through May 15 at the LGBT Center, May 16-23 at the Milwaukee Co. Department on Aging (235 W. Galena) and from May 24-31 at the Washington Park Senior Center, (4420 W. Vliet St.)

MILWAUKEE'S LGBT CENTER'S YOUTH DANCE BIG SUCCESS! More Events in the Pipeline

In late April, more than 30 youth attended a dance for people under 25 at the LGBT Center, part of a continuing effort to provide a safe social venue for young people.

"The dance was the first in a series of Center-sponsored events designed to create social opportunity for LGBT youth," said Neil Albrecht, the center's executive director. "Many of the young people I talk with tell me how difficult it is to connect with each other in the LGBT community. It's particularly tough if they are underage and cannot participate in the bar scene."

Throughout the year, the Center will host LGBT youth activities, including topic discussion groups, dances and other events, Albrecht said.

Colt Studio Files Law Suit in Federal Court

Los Angeles -- Colt Studio, based in Studio City, Calif., has filed a major copyright and trademark infringement lawsuit in Federal District Court against the owners of several large gay web sites. The suit was filed against Badpuppy, Inc. of Miami, Fla. and its president, William Pinyon.

LEATHER/FETISH

by Papa Joe

The Wisconsin Drummer and Drummer Boy Contest will have taken place last weekend. Since this is after my deadline, I talked Mark into some last minute pictures of the winners. We will have more pictures of the event in the next issue.

We did the same with The Wis. L/L Daddy and Daddy's Boy contests two weeks earlier. So if there is room, we will get all these contestants in with the winners of the Drummer contests and, the following issue, the rest of the Drummer contestants.

Congratulations to Bob M and Steve C for winning the Daddy and Daddy's Boy titles. Being the Daddy type, I sure can appreciate Steve's winning smile and flashing eyes. You boy types can talk about Bob.

And again the Argonauts of Wisconsin and the Castaways M.C. are to be commended for pulling off another very successful weekend. Shows to go ya, what teamwork can do. Their Joint Run at the farm, including the Mr. NorthWoods contest, is another example and is one of the most successful runs in the upper midwest. It is a good time and less expensive than most.

While on the subject of the farm, there is some talk that the Daddy and Daddy's Boy Contest will be on the farm next year. Like I said, it is only in the talking stage.

"The Oberons Run, Fri. -Sun., June 18-20, ACORN 12: "A Midsummer Night's Murder," You'll have a Gorey good time!

Just to let you know there is a deadline for the run dinner of June 10; if anyone is planning on coming to the dinner it will be $25. See an Oberon as soon as possible."

The above two paragraphs were lifted from a Message from Oberon pres. Jerry S., to which I'm going to add the following -- you have the options of doing the whole run from Friday thru Sunday, the Jr. run which is Saturday (including the afterhours party) or if your time does not permit, just the Saturday dinner portion. Each has a different price, so see and Oberon ASAP.

This is another fun time and a great opportunity to get your "feet wet" if your first run. I have not been filled in on the Murder theme. Maybe a mystery type? I'll have to watch more of Matlock, U tink?

International Mr. Leather, Chicago, Memorial Day weekend, May 28 thru 31. AND the Best of luck and success to Andrew, Mr. Wisconsin Leather. Here is a man who is talented, brilliant and hot as all get out. Wisconsin has every right to be proud of their 1999 candidate to IML. It will take a lot to knock him out of the winners circle.

The main event at IML and the place to be seen is the contest. This has the showmanship and trappings of a well-staged beauty contest AND like them, you end up with a sore ass and yawning after the many hours it will take. I am not knocking it; if you haven't, you should do the contest. If you are of my vintage, a quiet night nursing a beer in the hotel lobby is far more rewarding. The scenery is just as enchanting with mucho eye candy, most very approachable.

A note about the leather mart which occupies 2 levels of the Congress Hotel. It has many big and small named shops, offering much leather, rubber, uniform, etc. as well as gear to delight the most discriminating and kinky shopper. If you are in the mood to get new leather, gear etc., this is the place to shop and compare. A word of advice. If you see something you can't live without -- be patient and buy it on the last day. Chances are they will make you a deal just so they don't have to pack and tote the item back. You can sometimes bargain a bit and save a noticeable chunk of change. Some vendors tear down a day early, but those that hang on that last day are hungry for a deal.

We are expecting to have some events and clubs posted on the new The Wisconsin Area Leather Fetish Community web site in a week or so. Your Web Masters Bob S and Gary H and myself will be working with Mark, the Editor and Publisher of Quest and the site dictator (benevolent, of course). As soon as this column is done, info of your events will be forwarded to Gary and Bob. We are rolling guys.

If we have not recieved your club's official introduction and contact information for the club listings, I will create same and do whatever I have to do to get the job done. For best results, a clear copy of your colors (colored or black and white, scanned or hardcopy), is needed. An introduction of 75 or less words and contact information, (PO Address, web site link and/or E address) is all we are requesting.

ALSO, send in your event schedules for as long in advance as you wish, which we will post for all the world to see.

Before the site reaches its full potential, it will be the one stop for information of happenings in and around Wisconsin as well as other major events. Don't get left behind.

All of this is free to clubs and groups who fit under the umbrella of Leather Fetish, including, but not limited to L/L, Bear, Boots,

In the "it's about time" department:

The following are excerpts from a message by Chris Zaglifa, Atons Web Master.

FMI & picture: <http://www.starbase21.com/ATONS/htm>

"Anheuser-Busch Inc. print ads begin featuring gay people" By Jerry Berger and Al Stamborski Of the St Louis Post-Dispatch - -

The ad shows two men holding hands. Above a Bud Light logo is that brand's slogan, "Be Yourself and Make It a Bud Light." The local version of the ad also carries a tagline saying, "Proud Sponsor of the St. Louis PrideFest '99." Ramey, the alternative lifestyle manager for the Bud Light brand, said Tuesday that the brewery has been marketing to gays and lesbians for more than 20 years. But he said he knew of no other A-B ad that featured obviously gay people.

Anheuser-Busch is among a dozen or so major companies that have taken such a step, said William Waybourn, president of Window Communications, a company in Washington and Los Angeles that provides advertising, marketing and public relations services for companies trying to reach gay audiences. Others include Camel cigarettes, American Express, Virgin Atlantic Airline and Absolut vodka, he said.

In the past, advertisers may have feared a backlash from anti-gay groups. But not anymore, Waybourn said.

Last fall's brutal killing of Matthew Shepard, a University of Wyoming student, also has made the public more sympathetic to gays."

You can register your approval of this openly gay Budwiser ad by calling 1-877-233-7725 (toll free).
