Letter from the fat work-a-holic

I have worried myself into a frenzy lately about getting old. Ok, not just old, but also fat. I have tried to exercise, but I developed an allergy to exercise. No really! Ok, not really, but it's the latest excuse I am using. It sounds so unbelievable, that it even works sometimes. I am one of those lazy types who really dislike working out. I require lots of motivation before I will join a gym. One motivation I know works; a new boyfriend, preferably in shape, but not too much in shape so as to make me feel inferior. He would of course have to prod me a bit to get to the gym but - oh that's right, I am supposed to be working out for me, not to please someone else. Hogwash!

Let's face it, we have been programmed to desire youth and physical beauty and detest the rest. It is unfortunate that nature plays a little trick on us and as we age, it gets harder and harder to keep looking young and beautiful. I for one am not aging that gracefully. I find myself a little annoyed with the muscle trend our society has been enthralled with for so long. The more muscular men get, the harder it is for the rest of us to measure up.

In the end I have decided I will have to get by on my charm. I know I am not going to spend three or four days at the gym lifting weights. I am a workaholic after all, and I have little time for personal life. I would never get a chance to lay on the couch, bag of chips in hand devouring Direct TV. I could get by on my charm alone. First I will have to de-program myself however. What is stopping me from finding my soul mate is I have always had an eye for physical beauty. I will have to be willing to look past the flesh and into the soul if I am ever to fall in love again. I must stop thinking my youth has past me by. Actually, older gay men have this great secret. We are past 40, and a new life has just begun!

Before I leave you, I want to talk about my favorite fundraising group, Rainbow Over Wisconsin. This Wisconsin based group is around for the sole purpose of raising money to give to the LGBT community for various needs. We are the ones who funded the billboard ads for P-Flag Fox Valley. We help when St. Norbert College Gay campus group needs money for a speaker at an event. We in partnership with ARCW pay for the condoms that are distributed in the area bars free.

It is the condoms I am concerned with at the moment. The good news is they are getting used. Hopefully ARCW and ROW are helping prevent the spread of AIDS and other diseases. The use is climbing, so we need more money this year than before. It's time for another fundraiser!

"Turnabout Y2K, $2000 for the New Millennium" is the latest fundraising event for ROW and will be held at Za's on Friday, November 26 over Thanksgiving weekend. All money from the $3 cover, plus tips from performers and bartenders will be donated to ROW. It has been almost two years since the last turnabout show, so we expect a great turnout. The best we have ever raised at a turnabout show has been $1400.00, so we are also having a 50/50 raffle from now until the show. 50% of the total from the raffle will go to one lucky winner. There are also ribbons being sold at Za's and Brandy's II with those proceeds going to this event. Finally, Za's employees are out selling ads in a program book for that evening. Advertisers will pay for ads and Quest will donate the printing, so all the advertising money will be donated to ROW. If we all work together, we can easily meet the goal of $2000.00 which will be used to purchase a year's supply of condoms.

Hope to see all of you at Turnabout! ZA

PAST/OUT

BY DAVID BIANCO

Who was Barbara Jordan?

November 7, 1972 (27 years ago this week): Barbara Jordan, a Texas state senator, is elected to a seat in the U.S. House of Representatives.

In her brief political career, Barbara Jordan repeatedly made history as an African-American woman. After her death in 1996, she made history one last time - not for her race or gender, but because her long-term relationship with a woman became public knowledge.

Jordan was born in Houston's Fifth Ward, a segregated neighborhood, in 1936. Her family was actively involved in the local Baptist church, and when Jordan was a teenager, her father took up preaching. Jordan seemed to inherit her father's skill at public speaking. A tall, stout girl who was not traditionally "feminine" in appearance, Jordan learned early on to use her deep, rich voice to her advantage, making a name for herself in high school oratory competitions.

In the early 1950s, one of the nation's few African-American female lawyers, Edith Spurlack Sampson, spoke at Jordan's high school and inspired the young woman to become a lawyer - a difficult career path at that time, when only one law school in Texas admitted blacks. But Jordan's father encouraged her and helped finance her education. After attending Texas State University, an all-black school, Jordan went north and got her law degree from Boston University. When she returned to Texas in 1959 and passed the bar exam, she was only the third African-American woman to be licensed to practice law in that state.

Jordan's first clients came from her family's church, where her father encouraged her to pass out business cards. Wills and divorces for church members became the staple of her law practice, which she ran from her parents' dining room. But the routine soon bored her, and she turned to the local Democratic Party for more excitement.

Her first taste of politics came when she volunteered for the Kennedy-Johnson campaign in 1960. Though she started out by stuffing envelopes, Jordan was tapped to fill in at the last minute for a speaker who became ill. "I was startled with the impact I had on people," Jordan recalled of her first campaign speech, delivered in a church. "Those people were just as turned on and excited as if some of the head candidates had been there to talk about the issues." Recognizing her talents, local party leaders promptly placed her on the speaking circuit, where she came to the attention of many prominent Texas Democrats.

Jordan caught the political bug and decided to run for office herself two years later. She lost her bid for the Texas House of Representatives, then ran again in 1964 and was defeated a second time. During that campaign, some of Jordan's advisers warned her about a potentially career-damaging predicament: She had gone on the stump with a close female "companion." Jordan willingly became more discreet, and her relationship with the woman ended soon after. In 1966, Jordan's run for a seat in the state Senate was successful, making her the first black woman ever to sit in that body.

Ironically, at the same time that she was learning to hide her lesbianism for career purposes, Jordan formed the most lasting relationship of her life. In the late 1960s, she accepted an invitation to go camping with female friends and on that trip met Nancy Earl, a white woman who worked as an educational psychologist. For almost 30 years, Earl was Jordan's closest companion and occasional speechwriter. But because of her political ambitions, Jordan always masked their relationship as a friendship, even after the two women bought five acres of land together near Austin and custom-built a house there, where they entertained like any married couple would.

In 1972, Jordan achieved one of her greatest ambitions when she won a seat in the U.S. House of Representatives and became the South's first black congresswoman. Jordan's powerful speaking style attracted national attention during the televised Watergate hearings of the House Judiciary Committee, which was bringing articles of impeachment against President Richard Nixon. "My faith in the Constitution is whole, it is complete, it is total," Jordan eloquently told the committee and the American public. "I am not going to... be an idle spectator to the diminution, the subversion, the destruction of the Constitution."

By 1976, Jordan was so highly regarded that her name made the short list of possible running mates for Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter. That year, she hit her political peak when she became the first black woman to deliver a keynote address at the Democratic National Convention.

But Jordan's closet prevented her from extending her fervor for civil rights to equality for her fellow gays and lesbians. In 1976, either from fear of being outed or of losing votes, Jordan publicly refused to co-sponsor federal gay rights legislation. "There is no way," she told a radio talk show host, "that I can equate discrimination on the basis of sexual preference with discrimination on the basis of skin color."

Just as her political career was soaring, Jordan abruptly retired from office in 1978. Though she denied being ill, she was suffering from multiple sclerosis and opted for a quiet life in Austin with Earl. For the next 15 years, she taught at the Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs at the University of Texas, reemerging in Washington briefly in 1994 as the chair of President Clinton's task force on immigration.

After Jordan's death from viral pneumonia in 1996, the Houston Chronicle quietly outed her by running an obituary citing Earl as her "longtime companion" - common newspaper code for "lover." But Earl steadfastly honored Jordan's desire for privacy. "I was her good friend," Earl told a reporter. "People can say whatever they want."

Madison OutReach Forms Work Groups

OutReach is forming a number of work groups to examine Madison's lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender community needs and issues. These groups will study a number of areas and try to determine what needs there may be and how OutReach can help meet them. Work groups scheduled thus far include elder issues, youth, minority outreach, environmental (physical office space), library, advocacy, social activities and visibility (of the organization). The agency is looking for dedicated people to get involved with these groups.

This is the schedule of 6 pm meetings, all of which will be held at the OutReach offices in the Gateway Mall:

Mon., Nov. 15 - Minority Outreach	Tues., Nov. 16 - Environment
Tues., Nov. 16 - Library	Wed., Nov. 17 - Advocacy
Thurs., Nov. 18 - Youth	Tuesday, Nov. 23 - Social Activities
Wed., Dec. 1 - Visibility	Thurs., Dec. 2 - Elder Issues

Milw. Alternative Business Association to Hold Annual Meeting on Wed., Nov. 10 - at M&M

The Alternative Business Association of Milwaukee will hold its annual meeting on Wed., Nov. 10, 7:00 pm, at the M&M Club's upstairs meeting room. Five candidates are seeking seats on the board of directors. President Tim Marshall, whose board term expires Jan. 1, 2001, will give his annual report.

The keynote speech is titled "Where are we heading in business?"

A networking opportunity will follow the meeting; hors d'oeuvres will be available.

The organization's annual Christmas gathering is set for Dec. 8; it will serve as an opportunity to help ARCW's food pantry as well as the Milwaukee Metropolitan Community Church's toy drive.

Wisconsin Corporate Alliance meets third wednesday 5:30, LGBT Com. Center. Mission is to pro-

Entertainers Against AIDS (EAA) to Stage World AIDS Day Eve Celebration at Green Bay's Famed Weidner Center

IT'S FREE - NO TICKETS NEEDED!

The Fox Valley-based Entertainers Against AIDS organization (EAA) plans to fill the Weidner Center on the UW-Green Bay campus to its capacity (2,200 seats) as they stage a FREE musical celebration of remembrance and hope on the eve of World AIDS Day, Tuesday, Nov. 30. NO TICKETS NEEDED! THE SHOW WILL RUN 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Doors will open approximately a half hour before show time!

In a joint statement, EAA founders Paul "Cricket" Jacob and well-known and multi-talented award-winning Jeff Jennings, said, "There are so many individuals and families living with the affects of HIV disease who need our support and activism. On the eve of World AIDS Day, we will celebrate the lives of those who have lost their battles with AIDS, and we will demonstrate our concern and compassion for those who are now struggling with HIV disease."

They continued, "We will smile, laugh and even be sad together, but we will be strong in each others' support. And we will shine with hope and anticipation for the day when we are able to remove our red lapel ribbons in victorious celebration."

"Thanks to financial support of the community, EAA will be able to stage this event without charge to anyone."

The list of entertainers is vast, and we hope to not miss anyone: Kitty Rosman, the River City Six (with Zoomie), The Performers Workshop, Miss Green Bay (Kelly-Marie Kujava), T.C. Hammond,

Michael, Randy Bouche' (CC Rae), Dee Marie Murphy, The Franklin Middle School Select Choir, the Union Congregational Church Choir, The Legends, Tom Pederson, Sharon Beckers, The Rhythmettes, Stan & Marti Kocos and, last, but certainly not least, Jeff Jennings (who will sing "You'll Never Walk Alone.")

Everyone is invited to come together in the Weidner Center's magnificent lobby for a half-hour reception following the show.

The evening promises to be one we'll all remember for the rest of our lives. YOU ARE CORDIALLY INVITED!

BESTD Gets More $upport from the Leather Community

While the support of the LGBT Community has been ongoing and consistent, there has recently been an outpouring of financial support from the Leather Community to the BESTD Clinic of Milwaukee - three significant gifts in the last several weeks!

Chuck Grosz staged a uniform night recently at the Milwaukee Eagle and raised $638 for BESTD. Longtime Firebirds leader "Huck" forwarded the club's residual treasury balance of $1,500 to BESTD; the Firebirds are disbanding for the foreseeable future. And, at the end of October, Oberons president Jerry Straley handed over a $90 check to BESTD as a result of their recent Mr. Southeastern Wisconsin Leather Contest. (BESTD notes this latest gift comes on the heels of a $600 contribution from their "run.")

BESTD also was the recent recipient of $1,325 (raised by The Ballgame's Possum Queen contest); the total '99 Possum Queen proceeds designated for the Clinic totalled $14,500.

Finally, quoting from the BESTD news release: "While BESTD Clinic does not solicit funds or do fundraising of any kind on its own

Argonauts Can of Corn, traveling throphy

Congratulations, Mark C., Mr Southeastern Wisconsin Leather. You're quite a winner all the way around. Four contestants vied for the title, which packed the Milwaukee Eagle. Although we were able to get some photos to the Quest home office in time for the last issue, here is more of Mark.

In the "It Is True Department"..... Andrew S., Mr. Wis Leather Man, is leaving Wisconsin for Baltimore, MD in a major job switch. He will continue on with the title returning for scheduled events, and, of course, to give his title away in the spring of 2K. For those who don't know, Andrew also has a love interest who recently moved to Florida. Watch those frequent flyer miles add up.

Good luck, Andrew, Our best wishes go with you. We will miss your trips to Milwaukee and all that went with them. Hope we have time to crack a bottle of bubbly before you make the move.

from the office and the club to devote more time to his side-line business.

And Oberons founding member Tom R is reported doing OK.

The Argonauts of WI will be the sole host of the Daddy and Daddy's Boy Contests in the future. Consideration to the contests being held someplace other Milwaukee is true, BUT nothing has been firmed up as yet.

The Argonauts of Wisconsin and The Castaway MC, bus trip to the Cell Block in Chicago, will be happening on Saturday, the 20th. At the time of this writing, there were a few seats available. The tickets are a work of art and the trip will be a blast. See an Argonaut or a Castaway member for the tickets.

Heads up Minn and NW Wis, the following is condensed from several messages.

Atons Leather/Levi dinner @ Bravo Backstage, Nov 13, 7 pm.

Atons "Club Colors Night" @ the Eagle Friday, Nov. 19. 7, 10pm

Annual Blue Moon Ball @ Main Club/Superior, Nov. 19, 7pm.

Formal wear is suggested.

Black Guard Chili Feed @ Saloon Bar. Sun., 21. FFI call 612/ 522-4771.

Atons annual Holiday Fundraiser @ Saloon Bar, Dec. 5, 6 - 9 pm., benefitting Every Penny Counts and The Aliveness Project. A silent auction, donations needed. RSVP at 651-665-0319 or www.starbase21.com/ATONS

According to a recent press release and letters from Ross of BESTD Clinic, The Milwaukee Leather guys are making a quite mark with your contributions to them. These include: The FireBirds, a gift of $ 1,500; The Oberons, a gift of $690, and from the uniform party, $638.

Both are parties and appreciate that fact that giving is its own reward, but feel our community, still viewed by some as a non-caring, kinky, whips and chain wielding, sex fiends, should take every opportunity to toot our horn as well put a favorable spotlight on ourselves. I am not here to change the whips and chains bit, but want to make sure the word is out about us also being compassionate, giving and caring people.

The above groups are not the only ones who hold fundraisers nor is BestD Clinic the only recipient of their efforts. For example, The Argonauts of Wisconsin raise and donate so much money they have had to set up a charity.

About the sex fiend part, and as the result of a comment from a man who is curious about getting involved with the Leather Community.

In spite of the many years Leather Levi clubs have been around, there are still some who believe to get involved requires a secret and sexual initiation, and once in, sex, S&M and/or slavery is the name of the game.

Some would like it that way, but it just ain't so, and don't let anyone pull your let about it.

The initiation or pledge period is designed to allow the club to form an opinion of the candidate, and, as important, allows the pledge to form an opinion of the group. The worst part of any hazing or initiation, might be assigned menial duties like going for beers.

There once was a JO club in Milwaukee. It was in no way a club as we think of clubs. It (they) did a lot of promoting, but never got any return members in spite of the membership being free. According to some who were invited, it was nothing more than a ploy for the two founding members.

Some clubs (none in Wisconsin I know of) started out with sex for an agenda, but soon found the idea didn't last. The off shoot of these ideas have taken the form of "private clubs," like Blow Buddies in S.F. These seem to survive in bigger cities where memberships or guests privileges attract tourists passing through.

A few sex/S&M clubs have lasted. Several, such as Chicago Hellfire, have developed major reputations and host many events and dungeon/play parties. Even these don't have secret and sexual initiations.

I hope this sheds some light on reality and the next time your friend gives you some crap about it, bring him around and just about anyone will set him on the right road. If you, as novice or someone who is curious, all you have to do is ask. With few exceptions, the men of the Leather Community will make you feel comfortable with your questions and do their best to advise.

Read on, the next couple paragraphs may be of interest to you.

I need to respond to a message recieved inquiring about the difference between S&M, Master/Slave, play or dungeon parties.

This is a damn good question and I am not sure space allows for the words necessary to do this with any depth. Let's give it a shot. Again, I do this for the benefit of the novice.

Master/slave, aka Dominant/subservient.

It has been my observation that the need to control or to serve is ingrained, not a learned behavior. It is like being black or white, male or female, tall or short. You have no control as to why you have the desire. The phenomenon appears to occur across the board, in all races, sexual orientations and classes. There are religious sects (past and maybe present) based on it.

It seems the need to serve is the stronger and occurs more frequently than the need to control. The s finds contentment and happiness doing mundane chores and totally devoted to the M/D, even to the point of suffering physically.

It seems the M or D will find it harder to hold up their end of a relationship then the s will. Again, in my opinion, it is because most don't reach the ultimate plateau which requires the M or D to reinforce their care and love by repetitively using and/or abusing the s.

I have witnessed only three M/s relationships that achieved that level. They had the strongest bonds of any couple I've known.

S&M refers to acts (not necessarily sexual) rather than a way of life. Again, crossing all boundaries as above and maybe part of an M/s or D/s relationship and needs.

S&M refers to sadistic (aka top, master, giver etc) & masochistic (bottom, slave, receiver, etc) acts which may include pain, humiliation, bondage, verbal and physical abuse, as well as other forms of degradation which some (actually quite a few) find pleasurable and gratifying.

The amount you can take and/or hand out determines your ranking amongst your peers and unlike M/s is not necessarily deeply rooted or ingrained in our psyche.

Play or Dungeon parties. To quite a number of us, there is a difference, but for the most part, the two are interchangeable. Both are parties where one goes to get pleased by one of the above S & M acts. To me and others a dungeon party is when the action is heavy and a play party is just that.

Hope this makes sense. I have asked several noted authors to suggest reading lists which may prove helpful.

Lots of love, Papa

Cookie Recipes By Marti

Sweet & Wholesome Cookies

{Chocolate Chip Oatmeal Cookies}

A lost art? No wonder every time I pull out the sweet and wholesome Armour, it gets dented and tarnished. Are these good qualities?

Yes, and no!

My mother always said that 'good girls' possess these qualities and relationship-minded men would be drawn to them (didn't say how long that might take, though!) She also said "the secret to keeping that man was to be a French maid throughout the house, a five-star chef in the kitchen, and a $200 whore in the bedroom." (Personally, I think having big tits doesn't hurt either.)

Anyway, try these cookies and you will be pleasantly surprised, just as Matt W. was. After tasting, he said "Divine, darling, keep me cumming, girl!"

Marti is a member of the transsexual community, and a member of the staff that prints Quest.

Chocolate Chip Oatmeal Cookies

Ingredients

- 2 sticks of butter or margarine (softened to room temp., about an hour)
- 3/4 cup packed light brown sugar
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 2 lg. eggs
- 2 tsp vanilla extract
- 1 tsp baking soda
- 1/2 tsp salt
- 1 1/2 cups flour
- 3 cups uncooked old-fashioned or quick oats
- 1 bag (11.5 oz) chocolate chips

Directions

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F

In a large bowl with mixer on high speed, beat butter, sugars, eggs, vanilla, baking soda and salt until blended well.

Add flour and mix until just blended. Stir in oats and chocolate chips.

Drop by rounded tablespoons about one inch apart on an ungreased cookie sheet.

Bake 10-12 minutes or until golden brown. Cool one minute on cookie sheet, then remove to a wire rack to cool

COME PLAY WITH ME!

"Switch" Hitter Scott Fahey on Gay Sports, that new bar in Milwaukee, and a whole Lotta Misery.

fact he was able to raise fifteen hundred dollars in his first year alone, and is continuing this tradition by trying to arrange for a major corporation to donate a cruise package for two as a raffle for charity. Scott also continues his love affair with sports by co-chairing a gay tennis league with thirty-plus members sponsored by local bars. The league has been around for eight years, and Scott has aspirations of a statewide tournament. He'd also like to start a gay golf league.

Believe it or not, this down-to-earth guy still has time for a personal life! Aside from a strong being a huge sports nut, he listed his hobbies as "...comic book collecting, sex, drawing, sex, comedy movies, sex, travel, sex..." I see a pattern, do you? Although happily enjoying single life, he did mention "...it's getting close to winter, and I might need a warm body next to me!"

Well, Scott just kicked out the last remaining straggler and needed to get down to the after-hours business of closing up shop for the day, so I let him go. In the brief time we conversed, I got a great feeling of camaraderie and warmth common with bar folk who not only enjoy their jobs, but excel at it. Don't take my word for it, though...track Scott Fahey down at Switch, pull up a chair, order a drink, and make up your own mind. Just make sure it's before last call!

Jess Littleman, a regular contributor to Quest, can be reached by email through the magazine's online site: quest@quest-online.com.

What is it about the bar folk and early am hours? Not the patrons, mind you—those of us who do the work behind the rail, take the money at the door, and herd the last callers out at bedtime. Why is it we act like its four-thirty in the afternoon when the sun hasn't been out for a good six hours?

Case in point: This issue's coverman Scott Fahey. I gave him a call after hours last Saturday (Sunday morning? whatever...) and if he was any perkier, I was gonna ask him who his Ritalyn connection was. Scott is a bar manager at Milwaukee's latest addition to the Third Ward Family of bars, Switch. Shameless plug: Make sure to stop by say hello the next time you're out galavanting. They're kitty-corner from La Cage in the old MugShots location.

Who is Scott Fahey? Born thirty-one years ago, Scott was an avid golf and soccer layer, and eventually graduated from Brookfield High School. He immediately joined the workforce by taking employment at a factory. "I was really introverted until I took a job in retail sales," Scott remembers. It wasn't until Scott was out with a friend named Jody at a bar when the manager mentioned they were looking for help. "Jody said, 'Ask for the job!' And I got it right on the spot." The next day Scott was working at La Cage as a barback, then
