Every Man I Love Is Either
Married, Gay or Dead, by Kacey Jones. Twelve
Tracks, IGO Records
(1-877-999-9975, www.kaceyjones.com)

Before I render verdict over yet another disc, I have a confession to make: I am a huge Pat McCurdy fan, as is my entire family and most of my straight friends. Curd Head extraordinaire. It's all about the Patster. Hell, Napoleon's Penis is partially one of our friend's fault. What the hell does this have to do with Kacey Jones? Well, substitute the urban folk for a Nashville sensibility, and we're in the same ballpark. More to the point, Kacey Jones has written and compiled an album of mostly original material, mostly with a quirky, comedy-with-serious-undercurrent lyrics and country-popped music. I really, really, liked this CD! Look for a few cuts on to upcoming Olivia Newton-John movie Sordid Lives, and a nationwide tour in '01.

Next we have French Affair. Although has an official release date in early October, it has already enjoyed status as a worldwide dance hit, and I've seen the video played more than two-point-seven times. I enjoy the main mix (used in the video), and the other dubs & remixes held my interest. I particularly liked the B.A. Stone &

Berstein Club mix. French native Barbara Alcindor is the face and the voice of French Affair, and we have the pleasure of looking and listening to her in My Heart Goes Boom.

Naked Places: A Guide for Gay men to Nude
Recreation and Travel,
Third Edition, by Michael
Boyd, Mercury Productions
(512)459-7686, www.mercuryplanet.com/naked-places.html)

What is with gay men taking their clothing off everywhere they go? I'm not complaining, mind you, but this compulsion has prompted the compilation of Naked Places. Author Michael Boyd has put together an extensive list of clubs, beaches, hotels, resorts, bed breakfasts, camping areas, hot springs...you name it, you can find it in this book! Not only is it a great listing for North America (I swear, no matter where you are in the United States, you are never farther away than about four hours from locale d'au nature!) but also every other country on the planet. It lists directions, fees, sexual temperature (none to mild to high), restrictions, possible law enforcement tanglements, and so on. Although this guide is intended to promote nudity and the naturalist lifestyle, it does also have a listing in the back for bathhouses. For example, this guide is so accurate, I can personally guarantee the Wisconsin listings as accurate. If you ever had the inkling to bare it all, pick up a copy of Naked Places.

By now you may have guessed I am not a video virgin. Porn may not be a way of life for me, but it does take up as much time as Cinemax. Even still, I have never watched an amateur j/o compilation before reviewing the latest Chi Chi installment Off the Street 2. I prefer more of the man-on-man sex stuff than anything else, but I will admit most of these boys are just plain delicious to watch as solos. To add to the titilation, there were some pairs trading blow jobs. The real attraction for me, however, is the fact these boys are from and tape on location in Minneapolis, Chicago, and little ol' Madison! The idea of these of possibly running into a just-about-to-get-famous porn star when on a weekend jaunt made my first amateur j/o experience pleasurable. Thanks Chi Chi!

Clint Cooper's Playing Hard @ IML 2000, Produced by Clint Cooper. Approx. 80 Minutes, Dirty Devil Video & Channell Releasing (800/997-9073, www.channellreleasing.com).

Listed in it's promo artwork as "The Official International Mr. Leather Video," Playing Hard is a great look into one of the more fascinating aspects of human sexuality: the leather/bondage scene. Although it is sexually charged, it doesn't necessarily have a lot of actual sex in it. Instead, it's more of a tour the recent pageant & exposition that surrounds. Interviews, demonstrations, random acts of...well, acts fill this tape to the brim. It's really more of a documentary with piercing and penises, rawhide and rubber. Cooper was kind enough to throw in a few scenes of sex (Were they planned? Were they random?) and the footage of the actual IML pageant. If curiosity is killing your cat about this lifestyle, ask daddy to buy your own copy of Playing Hard @ IML 2000.

Constance Cravings (ZA's own Corey Femling) was one of many performers to help raise money for team Sass and Aids Walk Wisconsin.

DavidE's Dish...First off I'd just like to say thank God the Olympics are over. I just couldn't take anymore of those tear jerker profiles on the athletes. I swear to St. Judy herself, Jackie Collins couldn't write such DRAMA. If you watched the Olympics you know what I mean. And may I just state that watching men's gymnastics was like watching soft porn? Girl, I had to have a Rosie Palm moment after witnessing all that beefcake tumbling, jumping, and flipping around. I've invited the Russians, Ukraines, and the Americans over to my house for a private competition in October. I'll be judging each team on their mounts and dismounts. Tickets will be available soon...

Now back to the music. Honey those year 2000 mixes just keep surfacing. I recently scooped up 3 fabulous ones - Janet Jackson's "Nasty", Duran Duran's "Wild Boys", and Eartha Kitt's "Where Is My Man." I just love it when old songs resurface freshly remixed and ready to rock the house. Us "old" dancing queens thrive on the ability to match each song note for note when we're kicking our heels up. Check out "Bringing It Back" my all 80s and 90s club mix night at BOOM on October 7th. An entire Saturday night of classic jams remixed for Y2K. You'll know the words but you won't have heard the groove!

And speaking of the groove, there's a brand new Global Groove CD for you to check out. "Global Groove - Play" (Centaur Music) is continuously mixed by DJ Michael Hockett from Southern Cali. Michael specializes in light, fun rhythms and this CD plays like a fresh Sunday Tea Dance. What a way to brighten up a gloomy Autumn day. Nothing heavy here folks, just great bouncy music that will have you itching to throw on a fabulous outfit and hit the dance floor. Now for you peak time clubheads who want something a little harder (and what gay man doesn't?) check out "Circuit Session 0.02" (Moonshine/Four Play) remixed by DJ Abel. As always Abel keeps the groove very heavy and hard while delivering a mix of fierce vocals and sexy tribal beats. The highlight on this one is CeCe Peniston's "Lifetime of Love" which Abel specially remixed. CeCe belts it out honey, and don't you forget it.

Well children I just got back from St. Louis. It was a weekend of complete hedonistic partying. Messie Bessie and I packed up the Party Patrol and took to the open road. Honey child I am exhausted and in need of a rest. If you want to visit a fun little town, check out St. Louis sometime. Any city with a football team named the RAMS gets my athletic support(er). Go Rams!

I'll be spinning every other Saturday at BOOM now so look for dates here in the Quest. Believe me, those Saturdays will be nights to talk about for years to come. Plus you better start planning those Halloween costumes. I've heard "The Sound of Music" is the big thing this year. And as the leaves begin to fall don't forget to rake up a big pile and JUMP! Be a kid again.

Dusty After Dark

I thought that as long as I was out (literally, not figuratively I've been out for years honey), I might as well make my first stop at Fannies since Sharon Dixon went away. I am happy to report that there was a good-sized crowd there. I had one interesting conversation with a Lesbian who wanted to tell me all about the virtues of the cucumber. (Believe me if you're a Gay man you don't want to know. If you a Lesbian you probably don't need my help or explanation)

Speaking of vegetables, one bar I stopped in at on a recent Saturday night seemed to be full of them. Actually it was not that full. I waited for five minutes to get a beer but the bartender was too busy talking on the phone to serve anyone so I left. Too bad, it appeared as though they could use have used the help with boosting their register total.

Speaking of help, the Boot Camp's anniversary party was a real blast. It was a benefit for the Gay and Lesbian Trust fund. Once again the leather types (and leather wanna bees) showed up and pitched in to help the community. Congrats to the Boot Camp and many more to come!

Speaking of help again, the folks over at Switch gave HIT a helping hand with a fashion show/campy drag extravaganza. It was supposed to be a very amateur and very campy event and it was until...Bill W. (of co-owner of Fluid fame) brought the house down with a stunning number. Ms. Wardlow was fashionably attired in a sequin dress that most pro's would kill for. Billy W may have been a drag for the evening but nothing was dragging over at Fluid when I stopped in. A nice crowd chatted the night away while the ever so helpful and ever so cute staff waited on them hand and foot.

Speaking of feet, there were lots of people using them at La Cage while my favorite DJ tag team, DJ Tanya and DJ Dave gave them plenty of reasons to keep dancing and that ever so efficient bar staff kept everyone from getting thirsty. Speaking of dancing the strippers er um I mean those ever so tasteful (and tasty) exotic artists at Club 219 were especially good last weekend. Kim was great on the music front and I enjoyed the quieter atmosphere of the downstairs bar too. One of these days I might even win a pool game down there.

Speaking of good, I had a really good time chatting with some friendly folks over at Docks the night I stopped in. This place is off the main drag but not by much (it's just down the street from the aforementioned Boot Camp). I always have a nice time there. It's one of those places where you can stop in by yourself and in a few minutes find yourself talking and laughing with people you hadn't met before. The friendly atmosphere makes this place a must on anyone's bar hopping tour.

The M & M Club is not off the main drag and is also worth a stop. I had dinner there the other evening (for the first time in awhile) and it was every bit as good as it always is. It's nice to know that some really good things don't change.

My congrats and thanks to those bars who went all out to recruit AIDS Walk Wisconsin teams. I was really impressed by the effort to bring our community together behind a common cause. I can't tell you who won the Bar Team contest because this is being written before the walk. What I can tell you is that AIDS is not over. AIDS still kills. There still are people out there who don't know how to safe sex and your help is still needed. If you didn't participate in AIDS Walk Wisconsin, how about sending in a contribution to ARCW, the BESTD Clinic or your favorite AIDS Service organization. They can use your support.

Speaking of supports I will need some to move around with if I don't get this column in pronto. I hope to see you out and about soon. Meanwhile stay safe and be proud.

Dusty Sass likes cucumbers but on his salad only please. You can reach him by sending an email to Dusty@wi.rr.com

As Quest went to press ARCW reported 5000 walkers raised $692,544 at the 11th Annual AIDS Walk Wisconsin. Sorry we didn't have room for the entire press release!

Tell Trinity!

Quote du Jour: Walk with the wise and be wise; mix with the stupid and be misled. -Proverbs

Dear Trinity,
After seeing your wonderful performance in Provincetown, MA last month, I went backstage to see you. You greeted everyone, but me. Not even a nod! Why is it that when performers get popular they also get stuck up?
Ex-Fan

Dear Ex-Fan,
Why didn't you just push your way through the crowd and say, "Excuse me! But I love you and want you!" I would've married you on the spot! I always travel with a rabbi. Just in case! Listen honey, it's impossible to fulfill everyone's expectation. Often times fans get so nervous that they don't know how to get the performers attention. It happens to me every time I see a match with Bill Goldberg of the WCW (World Championship wrestling). After I finally get backstage and his eyes finally meet mine...suddenly, I get so tongue tied that he thinks I'm some neurotic stalker and runs away grunting. So I end up hating him... for a while... until my next Drama Therapy Forgiveness Workshop. So next time you see me lease stop me and I promise to fall to my knees in devotion.

Dear Trinity,
Recently, my girlfriend announced that she wants to "practice celibacy" with me. I'm now thinking of letting her move in, even if it means separate bedrooms. Do you think this can work?
Separate Bedroom Love.

Dear Separate Bedroom Love,
Celibacy, the life of monks, priests, eunuchs and many drag queens has been practiced for millenniums. As well as desperate relationships, unfulfilled desires and murders of passion. Girl, I smell trouble outside the church walls - and your in it! If you really want this to work then send her off to the famous Celibacy Summer Camp of Utah. And when she returns, if you're still not living in a healthy, passionate, sexually-fulfilling relationship then... send her back.
You deserve more, Trinity

Dearest Trinity,
I've been hanging out a lot with this really cute guy, but I can't quite figure out if he's gay or not. When I went to his house, I looked for clues, but I'm still clueless. Any thoughts?
Clueless

Dearest Clueless,
Sometimes it's hard to tell who is or is not gay. So I asked all of my sources and here is what we came up with:

TRINITY'S TOP TEN TIPS TO TELL IF SOMEONE'S NOT GAY BY SEARCHING FOR CLUES IN THEIR HOME

(special thanks to Homes and no Gardens magazine.)

1. Living room- no throw rugs, throw pillows nor throw fabrics. Not gay!
2. Kitchen- no pesto, gourmet crackers nor fresh flowers. Not gay!
3. Bedroom- no matching lamps, bed skirts nor Warhol knockoff's. Not gay!
4. Bathroom- no hand towels, hand soaps nor hand carved sculptures. Not gay!
5. CD rack- no Shirley Bassey, Barbra Streisand nor Broadway musicals. Not gay!
6. Wall Decor- Street signs, beer signs, or signs of old wall paper. Not gay. (Thank God!)
7. The bar- does not have Pinot Noir or martini glasses but does have imitation Kahlua. Not gay!
8. Answering machine- uses words like, "Stoked," "Shit Ya," or "No way man." Definitely not gay!
9. Cutlery drawer- only has plastic forks, cafeteria spoons and steak knives with Denny's logo. Not gay!
10. Lastly- no signs of anything with Marilyn Monroe, wrapped in leopard, singing a club version of "Diamonds." Then, probably not gay!

Dear Trinity,
I rented a room from a close friend and promised to pay the rent by a certain time. Recently, I had to ask him to let me slide for a while because I unexpectedly changed jobs and got a new Jeep. He freaked out on me. How do I get him to let me slide?
Thanks, Renters Woes

Dear Renters Woes,
Do you mean that he won't let his close friend slither his way out of paying the rent, even for a little while. Even though you did give a good excuse for slithering... I mean... sliding out of paying the rent on time. But I suppose he is a close friend and should let you cheat him... I mean... meet him half way. I have one word for you, INTEGRITY. When your word is better than a binding contract, better than the word of God, that's integrity. If I was you, I would: a) take a cash advance from my job or credit card, b) borrow from Peter to pay Paul, c) start sleeping in my new jeep or d) find some other friends to screw over. 'Cuz in my book honey, money and friendship requires one thing... INTEGRITY!

While on the subject of contests, a midwesterner, Dan Clarke, Mr. Great Lakes Drummer, is the new International Mr. Drummer

Got to weight in on one of your favorite subjects, Laura Whatsheer. I have never heard her speak nor read a word she wrote, so I have to take your word that she is mean and vindictive to gays and working mothers. I understand there are protests against her reducers as well as the woman herself.

I am not sure I understand the commotion. If you want to get rid of her, you take a lesson from how we got rid of Anita Bryant. CWe boycotted her sponsors and within a short period of time, she was on the outside looking in. Cry as she might and she did, no one (except the off the wall Christians) would let her near. Shit. I heard her husband ran out on her also.

The ironic thing about this hatermonger was her attempt to get all unmarried male teachers over 30 canned before they could molest the children. Someone clued her in, that Jesus was called rabbi, (which means teacher), was over 30 when he started to teach, and furthermore, bade them to bring the little children to him.

One heck of a patron saint we got, eh??

And, of course, we have the elections coming up. Seems that G.W. and the V.P. are running neck and neck. In the past, I have voted for the lesser of two evils and if I could decide what that is in this case, I would do the same. G.W. has the "skunk eating bumble bees" grin on his face and inventor of the internet V.P. Well, enough said, both give me the willies.

The unfortunate thing about this is that one of them will win. Now ask myself. "Self, what is the best possible way to work this?" Let's examine it for a minute based on what counts.

Money. The last series of Republican presidents, one who talked us way out of anything, and his protege got our collective asses in debt so far, we have to sacrifice out defense to bail us out. Then comes Slick Willie who lied his way to and wormed his way out of the impeachment trial, who reneged on his Gay promise (well, at least he said the word Gay), dug in his heels to stymie the Republican congress. As an end result, there is hope of getting our asses out of debt and maybe some day real tax relief.

Will the combination of Democrats in the White House and Republicans in the Congress, continue the upswing in our economy? hope so - and am aning that way. G.W. as pres. with a Republican congress scares me. The idea of tax breaks before paying the debt is not new; that's how we got so damn far in debt in the first place. Civil Rights for all, with the accent on Gay)

As I mentioned, Slick Willie was able to mention, even kiss ass of Gays to get elected, but all he did was to open a door, which I will admit can not be closed - unless by the courts. Here is what I see as a choice. The next president will appoint enough Supreme Court justices to swing the courts for or against gay folks. With the Republicans under pressure from the radical religious right, I am fearful we will take too many steps backward before seeing the promised land.

I'm out of here, and remember, if it don't seem like it's worth the effort, it probably ain't.

Dance1/Volume 1: DJ Roland Belmares Various Artists, Twelve Tracks, Afterhours
(www.afterhoursmusic.com)

Stop racking your brains to figure out where you've seen the Dance1 name before, girlymen: it's the name of the company responsible for the semi-nekked men on the video screens seen at gay clubs all over the US. Well, they've teamed up with Chicago-based Afterhours Music and are presenting twelve current dance hits as presented by Texas-based Roland Belmares. The CD booklet describes Belmares taste in music as "...everything in our gay dance world, from the 'bubble gummy' house track, to the dark, pulsating tribal beat; from the the whailing diva, to the airy, inspiring morning track." This sense of intra-genre encompassment is readily apparent in the choice of tracks. Roland mixes so smoothly it sound deceptively simple, like he's hanging out in a hammock (Note to the unaware: The easier a deejay makes the job look, the harder they are working!). I found my bad self in a groove while listening. Personal faves: "Give Me a Break" by Ralph Rosario and the DJ Carl heavy rotational "Think it Over" (Thunderpuss 2000 mix) by Jennifer Holliday. I'd also like to know where the hell Roland found a remix of "Never Ending Story!" It made me feel Kajagoogoo all over!

The sheets on this CD unabashedly say that "...it's the next best thing to being there...maybe even better", and while I wouldn't necessarily call it a Rave in a Box, Dance1 / Vol. 1 is a great end of summer comp.

Party Time 2001: Two CD Set, Various Artists, Exec. Producer Michael McDavid, Groovilious Records.

Wow, long Fucking CD's! You danced to them, you've wondered where to get them--they're the dance tunes of the moment, and they're all presented in this two disc compilation from the lovely folks at Groovilious. It's a great compilation of pure dance cuts. If you only getting one disc this year, get these two! (Well, you know what I mean...)

My Heart Goes Boom, by French Affair, CD Maxi with six mixes, BMG / Logic Records
(www.logic3000.com)

Tonight, by Jesika, CD Maxi with nine mixes, Ample Entertainment / Phat Cat Records (212/358-7100, www.phatrecords.com)

Divettes, Divettes, everywhere! Two new releases should be hitting the streets by the time we go to press, both by up-and-newcomers. First we have Jesika, a Florida transplant to NYC, has been performing most of her life in every venue you can think of.

After putting in the hours, she hooked up with Chris "The Greek" Panaghi, and the result was a contract with Phat Cat Records. The song Tonight is fresh without being airy, and the Maxi has enough cuts to please most. There are even Bonus Beast and an acapella version for those who futz with their multitrackers.

Drag It Out Of Me!

By Miss Lilly White

Girrrrrl! Well, I'm back with all the scandal that's fit to print, and as usual there seems to be a wonderfully endless source of information for me to work with. I would like to start by wishing Za hearty congratulations on his new endeavor, and the best of luck. I'm sure looking forward to many fun times ahead at his new location.

Sunday, the 17th of October all the "who's who" of Milwaukee's gay community got together to celebrate the birthday of that icon herself, Miss Baby Jane Hudson. It was an all day affair, with cocktails, dinner, drag show, and a fabulous river cruise on the Milwaukee Ducks! Celebrities such as, Brittany Morgan, Ashley Michaels, Miss Ross, Miss Elaine, Kylie West, Charlotte Lorraine, and Michelle flocked to the soirée in their Sunday best to raise they're glasses and toast the old girl on her 43rd birthday. It was a splendid evening, and the boat cruise was a hoot. Unfortunately it sunk the very next morning. I was very surprised to see it on the evening news, and then I suddenly remembered that I left my Jewelry case on the boat! "I will be accepting jewelry donations of any kind." The owner of the boat a 1 s o approached me and apparently the holes in the bottom of the boat look coincidentally like stiletto heel marks. Hmmmmm? "Another memorable year Miss Hudson! "The dinner was sensational at the M&M club, as always, and thank you to Vern the cutie patootie waiter!

Miss 219 2001 was held the following Thursday, and par for the course it turned out to be a bitter Betty contest when the results were tabulated and announced. Thank you to Tina Renee for doing all the score keeping, and tabulating. It was a virtual bevy of beauties that came to capture the title, and perform for a packed house. Eight contestants and five judges representing local bars from all around the city made for an exciting evening. Former Miss 219 winners were present in the audience, and it was lovely to see them. I would like to apologize for not asking them to perform as I have in years past, but with the amount of contestants and performers, it was just not possible this year. Maybe next year girls! The winners from bottom to top, "no pun intended", were in 8th place-Zie Zariette, 7th place-Debby Fox, 6th place-Kristina Reese, in 5th place-Christina Chase, in 4th place-Ellen Diamond, in 3rd place-Jennifer Alyce, in 2nd place-Deserea Triumph and the new Miss 219 2001 is the lovely Kandi Barr. It sure has been a long road for her; I am glad that she has finally won! The antics by a certain "white shoe wearing" contestant after the pageant, were completely uncalled. I suggest she doesn't enter any more pageants until she can take constructive criticism and be a gracious loser. Betraying friends, and cussing people out because you are unhappy with your placement in the results doesn't help you achieve anything. "And drunk back up dancers aren't a cute idea either girl." The results are now pending in lieu of verification of a certain contestant's identification. Other pageant highlights included Christina Chase's stellar baton twirling routine, Deserea Triumph humping an angel, Debby Fox with her live vocals and harp strumming, and Zi Zariette in her lovely mother of the bride evening gown. It was an event to

From - Milwaukee Knights/Milwaukee: Hey, guy, we are also doing a special raffle at our club night beer bust/raffle at the Harbor Room in Milwaukee, Oct. 7th, 10pm - 1am.

We have invited leather clubs to join us from a 3 state area and are sure there will be a lot of HOT men in the bar that night; anyone wearing clubcolors that night will receive $1.00 off the beer bust. Hope to see everyone there; come check us out and see what we are all about.

Jerry/Milwaukee Knights

When Jerry sent me the above message, he said "for you eyes only," so I guess you will have to look up Jerry and the Knights to find out what the special prize is. We have our tickets already.

From - Oberons/Milwaukee: Sat., Oct. 14th, come see us for a beer bust and raffle at South Water Street Docks starting at 10:00PM - the grand prize is a Cassiopeia Palm Pilot hand held computer!

Nov. 3rd, 4th and 5th, the Oberons will be in Atlanta for the Panthers Run. November 11th, come join us at the Boot Camp at 10:00PM for raffles and an after hours party at the Club House.

December 9th, we'll have a great time during a pre-Holiday rally and beer bust at the 1100 club! Cum suck some sweet candy cane! Hope to see everyone out and about!

From- Mike/S.W.S. Docks AIDS Walk Team Captain: We had a nice sunny day for the ride!!! We got lucky I guess!!!

We had 20 people participate in the motorcycle ride with 17 bikes and one pickup truck with trailer. The ride raised $240. We met at Docks and started the day with coffee and donuts. The ride was from Docks to RIO, just north of Madison, pronounced "rye o." Our destination was my brother Tom and his wife's house, who, along with their two daughters and our parents, hosted a very nice picnic lunch. Upon returning to Docks we had a light cocktail party and held raffles for the participating riders.

The owners and staff at Docks want to send out a huge thank you for everyone who got involved. We plan on making this event even bigger and better next year!!!

On to the evening raffles and fund raiser.... Once again, many thanks to everyone who donated items to our drawings. The evening drawings raised $391. Everyone had a great time and DJ John Murgas was fantastic!!!

The day's events bring our total money raised over the $1,000 mark. This does not include the money being raised by our team walkers. Thanks to all for everything, Michael/SWSD Team Captain

I happened to be in Green Bay sitting with 3 of my grandsons, while mother was touring wineries in Nappa Valley. Loved every minute of it, but was sorry to miss the ride. The guys I talked to who made it enjoyed the ride and great hospitality. They look for Mike to do it again next year and maybe a couple more bike events.

Want to take a minute to acknowledge Joe's (bootboy) nice writeup I got relating to Boot Party in Kenosha. Unfortunately, it arrived too late for issue devoted to it. Thanks anyway, and please keep sending in info.

By now most of you know, Larry S, producer of Mr. Wisconsin Leatherman contest, has accepted a position in, and moved to Austin, TX. We wish him the best with the new job and hope he gets his butt back here with some regularity. Larry is one heck of a guy who is a great mover and shaker in our community. Our loss, Austin's gain. Good luck and God speed, friend.

North Star Gay Rodeo Association Play Day - Saturday, October 7: Join Mark Larson, Mr NSGRA 2000, and the 2000 NSGRA Royalty Team in a rodeo playday on Sat., Oct. 7th, 2000, from 5 p.m. til 9 p.m. at Club Metro in St. Paul.

The purpose of Playday is to socialize and familiarize guests with some of the various events we do at our rodeos. Club Metro will be offering drink specials. And, in case of inclement weather, we will bring the games indoors.

If possible, please make a $5 donation to the NSGRA Rodeo 2002 Fund.

For you rubber folks, the following is gleaned from a long press release about the Rubber Blowout Weekend and 5th annual Mr. International Rubber contest, November 11th, 2000 at Cell Block/Chicago. The winner of this contest will receive $1,000 in cash as well as other prizes. The contestants must be 21 or older to enter.

remember. Thank you to the judges, Billy from Fluid, Chi-Chi from the M&M club, Jackie Roberts from La Cage, Donna Mae Frank from 219, and Baby Jane from every other gay bar in the city with a dice cup. Congratulations again to Kandi Barr, Miss 219 2001!!!!

I have just been told some extremely disturbing news from a very reliable source. Allegedly, a former Miss Wisconsin Continental Plus, has been reported to have stabbed and/or slashed somebody. She was incarcerated, bailed out, and did it again! Now, reportedly on the loose. I hope this isn't true, but it wouldn't hurt to be very careful around a 300-pound drag queen that does a lot of "Dreamgirls"

The following Saturday brought about the final preliminary pageant for the Miss Gay WI USofA Pageant, Miss NEW. There were 2 lovely contestants, Amere Illusion, and Chantal, the latter being the winner. Much excitement was created in the crowd with the appearance of former Miss WI, and former Miss Kansas, Neely O'Hara. The crowd delighted in the fine entertaining skills of Kelli Jo Klein, Kyllie West, C.C. Domino, and the reigning Miss Minnesota USofA, Eileen Dover. Miss Dover was so astonishingly beautiful, that any transie-sniffer would be proud to be stranded on a

The same evening, I traveled to Kenosha with my drag daughter Kari On, for a benefit show for my gal pals Allanah Powers and Phaedra Free. Special guests included the beautiful Trisha Reese, Izanna Troy, the newly crowned Miss 219 Kandi Barr, Dixie Diamonds, Lady Di, Brenda, and Phyllis Anne it was another fulfilling evening of cross-dressing. I twirled down the street to Capers/Illusions after the show, just in time to see former Miss Gay WI USofA Josie Lynn doing a rendition of "Proud Mary". The best I've seen in years. I will be trekking down again, in 2 weeks, for the country show at Club 94, and Todd's Birthday show, at Capers.

Sunday Miss Dover was in town to do a special cameo appearance at La Cage for their regular Sunday night show. All reports were favorable, and she can't wait to return when she can stay longer. She didn't even have enough time to stop at the bathhouse this time. I will be working with Eileen at the grand opening of the new bar (CJ's) in Eau Claire on October 14th, along with my gal pal Kyllie West and famous rap artist Neely O'Hara. I can't wait to see Miss O'Hara; I haven't seen her since the national pageant in Dallas when she got 8th place. Time sure flies when you're dishing the dirt.

That's all for now girls! I must go; I'm so hungry I could eat an entire Thanksgiving dinner! Please feel free to e-mail me with any questions, comments, or a little bit of dish, at my web site www.misslilywhite.com. I'll be back in two weeks with all the grease. Stay fierce girls!!

What was Sexual Inversion?

Today, the American Psychiatric Association warns against therapies designed to change sexual orientation and has held for more than 25 years that homosexuality is psychologically normal. Yet, during an earlier era, most psychiatrists believed that homosexuality was a mental illness.

German psychiatrist Karl Westphal created the first diagnosis for same-sex desire in an 1869 article in a German psychiatric journal. At the time he was writing, sex between men was illegal and was believed to be the result of depravity. Westphal broke new ground when he argued that same-sex desire was not a moral failure, but the result of a mental illness. Westphal based his conclusions on case studies of one female and one male patient.

The female case was a woman who had thought of herself as boyish since she was a child. She remembered that she objected to the frilly dresses her mother told her to wear and preferred pants. When playtime came, she roughhoused with the boys instead of playing house and learning to cook like other girls. As an adult she avoided marriage and was only attracted to other women. The male patient was like the female patient, but in reverse. He wanted to wear the frilly dresses the female patient hated, and he remembered himself as girlish boy. He, too, never had any sexual interest in a member of the opposite sex.

Westphal wrote that both subjects suffered from the same congenital disease. He called it "contrary sexual feeling," but within a few years the term became "sexual inversion," a result of a series of mistranslations from Westphal's German. In Westphal's opinion, the patients he studied were physically normal members of their respective sexes, but they were psychologically constituted like members of the opposite sex, and this inborn anomaly explained all same-sex attraction. (Doctors in the 19th century did not recognize a difference between homosexuality and transsexuality.)

Sexual inversion was new to psychiatry, but it was not really new. In fact, Westphal borrowed most of his theory from German lawyer Karl Heinrich Ulrichs. Since the early 1860s, Ulrichs had been publishing pamphlets about "Urnings," people he claimed had a "female mind in a male body," to explain his own sexual feelings. Ulrichs believed that if the German people learned about his theory that Urning desire was inborn, they would see that incarcerating Urnings was wrong.

At first, Ulrichs welcomed Westphal's article because it advanced his congenital theory and opposed jailing inverters. But sexual inversion had a dark side that ultimately led Ulrichs to repudiate the psychiatrist's findings. In spite of a long debate between the two men, Westphal would not agree that inversion was natural, as Ulrichs argued, but insisted that almost all inverters were severely mentally ill.

Westphal was a respected physician, and his sickness model prevailed. In Germany, Austria and France, many physicians diagnosed their patients as inverters and wrote articles about their cases. Surprisingly, many men who read the medical articles identified with the diagnosis and even called themselves inverters. Self-described inverters were searching for an understanding of themselves that broke with the common-sense view that they were depraved sinners who belonged in jail. With no other choices, inversion seemed the most attractive identity to many, even though it implied mental illness.

Still, some people who were called inverters by doctors resented the label, and others worked to redefine the word and make it less pejorative. In 1896, Marc Andre Raffalovich launched an angry attack on inversion in his book, Uranism and Unisexuality. He wrote that inversion was such preposterous idea that he would not even use the word. Instead, he coined "unisexual," a term that never caught on. Raffalovich argued that congenital unisexuals were masculine by nature, and that effeminacy was a not a sign of unisexuality, but of depravity.

In the same year, a much more influential book titled Sexual Inversion, by physician Havelock Ellis and scholar John Addington Symonds, an invert himself, did not abandon inversion, but redefined it. According to Ellis and Symonds, inversion was not a mental illness, but a normal hereditary variation. Sexual Inversion was the first medical text showed that inverters could be masculine or feminine and that they lived productive, often happy lives.

Early in the 20th century, Westphal's diagnosis was eclipsed by the theories of Sigmund Freud. According to his 1905 Three Essays on the Theory of Sexuality, people come in many combinations, including feminine heterosexuals and masculine homosexuals, depending on their upbringing, not their genes.

As Freud's point of view won out over older psychiatric approaches, Westphal's theory was all but forgotten, though most of Freud's followers agreed with Westphal that homosexuality was a mental disease.

Today, Westphal and Ulrichs' "male mind in a female body" and vice versa seems a better description of transgender than homosexual experience, but the distinction between transgender and gay identities is a 20th century development that did not occur to the theorists of inversion.

View From Brewer's Hill

Our Gay Ghost

By Terry Boughner

Jerry, my spouse, and I, live in Brewers' Hill, the second oldest neighborhood in Milwaukee. The house has 25 rooms on four floors (if you count the basement). We're fixing it up.

We'd heard that the house was haunted, but had laughed it off. That's before I met Lionel.

I work at my computer in the wee hours. One night, I began to sense a "presence." Just my imagination, I told myself. The feeling persisted and got stronger. Finally, one night and asked, "Who are you?" I got no response.

One day when I was home alone, I got this overwhelming urge to go down in the basement. A long, windowless hall connects the front to the back of the house. On the right, there are storage rooms. On the left, no rooms at all.

About half way along the hall, there was a sledge hammer. For some reason, I picked it up and started beating in a section of wall along the left hand side. There was light. I don't know where it came from, but I could see a small room. Inside, was the most gruesome sight I have ever seen in my life.

There was a skeleton sitting, arms chained to the wall. Near it, just out of its reach were two small bowels.

"Is this you?" I asked in horror.

"Yes," came the soft, sad reply.

I took a box, gathered the bones together and put them inside. I buried it in the yard out back, under the Chinese elm.

Some research in the local paper told me what had happened. A man, his wife and three sons, had lived in the house decades ago. One night the couple went out leaving the teenage boys alone. When they returned, the youngest, a youth named Lionel, was gone. Several months later, the family moved out and was never heard from again.

That night, after I'd learned the story, I felt the presence near me again.

"Why did they kill you?" I asked.

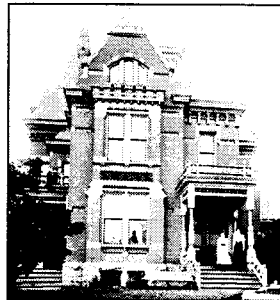

"I'd told my parents I was Gay. They were very upset. When they were out, my brothers took me and walled me in down there. My parents knew it was going to happen.

I thought maybe I'd freed Lionel, that now he could go to the "other side." Lionel hasn't done that. Every night, I can sense him, watching me as I work. I've even found an old photo of him. It shows and incredibly cute young man with eyebrows that form nearly perfect inverted Vs.

Around Hallowe'en, there's a faint blue light that flickers beneath the Chinese elm where Lionel's bones are buried. If you come here, you may see it. This is a true story. I kid you not.

New Support Group Forming for Gay Men Dealing with Nonsupportive Families

The first meeting of this new group - called Second Family - will be Wed., Oct. 4, upstairs at BESTD Clinic, 1240 E. Brady St. (use 1st door on east side of building).

The group will meet the first and third Wednesdays of each month, 7:30 to 9:30. All welcome!

In a statement from Tim Clausen, he says "Some gay men have the good fortune to be part of families who are loving, accepting and who welcome their sons and their male partners with open arms and open doors. Other gay men have not been so fortunate upon coming out to their families, and have experienced either being disowned outright or have endured subtler forms of family withdrawal, bigotry and rejection. It is for these individuals that we've formed Second Family."
